Proof that the Covid-19 Pandemic is a Hoax Based on a Fake Test and Twisted Statistics

by Jeremy James

[You know how this will end. Why not speak up now?]

No matter how much information some people receive about the manipulation of public opinion by the media, they simply cannot come to terms with the possibility that those nice reporters on the television or those smart journalists in the press might be lying to them.

We are at the beginning of a severe financial crisis that will dwarf 1929. It will affect every nation on earth, but will do most damage, comparatively speaking, in the US and western Europe.

The Elite 0.1% are deliberately wrecking the financial system in accordance with a plan that was set in motion more than a century ago. After the world economy has collapsed, and countless millions of innocent people are struggling to survive, the Elite, or their representatives, will step forward and buy all of the choice assets that remain at a fraction of their true value. Instead of owning 50% of everything worth owning, they will own 100%.

But why crash the system when they are already reaping staggering returns from their schemes and scams in the markets and the banking system? Surely they will lose too?

Not so. The Elite operate among themselves an accounting system which measures and records the wealth of the world, including the nett economic productivity of the masses, on the arrogant assumption that they already own everything. This enables them to decide "who gets what" long before the carve-up actually takes place. In a sense, each of them is a member of a club or golden circle, where membership includes ownership of a certain number of shares based on one's rank. These shares pertain to the assets of the entire earth.

Useless eaters

In their system of accounting, a huge proportion of the population of the earth are nett consumers or "useless eaters". They are not worth keeping and need to be eliminated. They do not see this as "cruelty" – just business. As they might say in the Square Mile, 'We really need to be realistic, dear boy. We can't let the cattle reproduce ad nauseum and spoil it for the rest of us."

Their ruthlessness is abundantly evident in the following quotation from H G Wells, one of their leading theoreticians:

> "And for the rest, those swarms of black, and brown, and dirty-white, and yellow people, who do not come into the new needs of efficiency? Well, the world is a world, not a charitable institution, and I take it they will have to go. The whole tenor and meaning of the world, as I see it, is that they have to go. So far as they fail to develop sane, vigorous, and distinctive personalities for the great world of the future, it is their portion to die out and disappear." - Anticipations of the Reaction of Mechanical and Scientific Progress Upon Human Life and Thought, 1902 (p.317)

The plan is simple. Reduce the population of the earth to a manageable 500 million or so. Control all reproduction. Confine the cattle to fixed zones of habitation. They will own nothing but will receive accommodation and an allowance from the state. In return they will work for and serve the Elite. Every head of cattle will be chipped at birth and monitored continuously. Disobedience will be severely punished. The state must be obeyed in all things. Men and women will be sexually modified at birth so that the natural distinction between male and female will be erased. Some cattle will undergo 'transhuman' [electro-mechanical] enhancements to enable them to perform certain functions more efficiently. At the end of its productive life, probably no more than three or four decades, each head of cattle will be terminated.

Our apologies for using the word “cattle” so many times, but it perfectly exemplifies their utter contempt for humanity. They do not see themselves as ‘human’ but as beings who have transcended the flesh and acquired a god-like nature. They have convinced themselves of this through their participation in vile occult rituals which open their minds to the fallen angels. [See our paper #39 on The Externalization of the Hierarchy.]

Lockdown

Up to the end of 2019, more than 99% of people living in Europe and America would have found this thesis absurd. But they have since learned that the Elite are already able to confine everyone to a fixed zone of habitation – and have done so in a great many countries. After the coming collapse of the world financial system, when a huge proportion of the population will have lost their livelihood and means of support (which is already the case for many in the current ‘lockdown’), the state will offer a universal basic allowance to every adult. It will then deploy “essential workers” (recognize the term?) to provide food and services to those who are housebound. Can you see how close this emerging scenario is to the one we have already described?

We are in the throes of a World Revolution, where the Elite, by coercive means and immense propaganda, are turning normality upside down. They have “pressed the button” as it were. Decades of careful preparation have led to this moment. The house of cards which they have so patiently built up – a world economy perched precariously on a mountain of debt – is about to collapse. And when it does, very probably in the next 6-9 months, the public will place the blame squarely on the phony pandemic.

The world financial system is on the point of collapse.

These people love the expression, “the smartest guy in the room.” They get great pleasure from cheating and deceiving their victims. And there is no doubt that the best of them are very bright indeed. When it comes to exploiting the weak and vulnerable – which in practice can mean any one of us – they have no equals. Jesus was likely referring to this when he said: “And the lord commended the unjust steward, because he had done wisely: for the children of this world are in their generation wiser than the children of light.” (Luke 16:8)

The unjust steward was a child of this world, one of the covetous deceivers who despise "the children of light."

Organized sociopaths

We need to recognize that these people are basically sociopathic and that a large number of them have risen to positions of great influence in society, not just in Europe and America, but all over the world. They are working together to mould a new world order where their dominance is openly visible and uncontested, where their control is absolute, and where their utter contempt for man – who was made in the image and likeness of God – can find unlimited expression.

Today (March 31, 2020) they are herding people into their homes, shutting down their places of work, severely limiting their activities, keeping their children out of school, conducting police check-points, and fining anyone who walks down the street next to another person. In some countries, such as the UK, they have introduced legislation that in practice will enable them to detain whomever they want at an undisclosed location for at least 28 days, without due process or legal representation, forcibly medicate them, and (should they decide to do so) leave them to die of dehydration. There will be no autopsy or coroner's report. The body will be cremated. Another tragic death from Covid-19.

The proposed 'zone of habitation' for those who resist.

H G Wells would have been pleased. After all, his students helped to train the current generation of elite British sociopaths.

The current crisis was engineered by people who have an excellent understanding of human psychology, the dynamics of human fear and anxiety, and the astonishing influence that non-stop multi-channel indoctrination has in controlling the minds of individuals who don't know they are being controlled. (How many is that? Virtually everybody.)

"Hell and destruction are never full" – Proverbs 27:20

We're in a 'Live Exercise'

They knew before they ran this "live exercise" – as Mike Pompeo, Secretary of State, inadvertently called it during a recent press briefing on Covid-19 – that the public would fall for the lie. Using the vast quantity of data available to them over the Internet, they are able to measure the receptivity of the 'herd' to certain ideas and opinions. Using complex algorithms they can sift through the data and predict with a high degree of accuracy the way society, or sectors within it, are likely to react or behave under changing circumstances.

See, for example, Targeted (2019) by Brittany Kaiser, in which she describes the elaborate range of techniques currently being used by 'opinion formers' to influence and direct the choices made by unsuspecting Internet users, or Robert Epstein's presentation to Congress on June 16, 2019, in which he revealed just how easy it is, with the right tools and techniques, to lead Internet users by the nose – even when they know they are being presented with a continuous stream of biased information.

In our paper #210, Weaving Spiders: The Illuminati are Testing the Veil (November 17, 2019) we showed how the Elite conducted one or more exercises in 2019 to see just how "deep" a sleep the public was experiencing. Just how far "under" had they gone? Given recent events we can safely conclude that the test results were more than satisfactory.

Contagion is one of the best known virus pandemic movies; Plague Inc is a very popular cell phone game.

"Moreover thou shalt provide out of all the people able men, such as fear God, men of truth, hating covetousness..."
– Exodus 18:21

Implanting a deep subconscious fear of viruses

Virus-fear was planted deep in the subconscious of most people through a series of movies and books released over the past 30 years or more. The "deadly virus" theme is one of the most popular in the science fiction genre, and features quite often in mainstream novels and action books, either as the main theme or an important sub-plot. Where movies are concerned, the viral plague has been burning into the silver screen for over 60 years:

The Last Man on Earth (1964)	[.REC] (2007)
The Omega Man (1971)	Mulberry Street (2007)
The Andromeda Strain (1971)	Resident Evil: Extinction (2007)
Code Name Trixie (1973)	Blindness (2008)
Shivers (1975)	Quarantine (2008)
Dawn of the Dead (1978)	Pontypool (2008)
Plague (1978)	Carriers (2009)
Warning Sign (1985)	Black Death (2010)
Jericho Fever (1993)	The Crazies (2010)
Outbreak (1995)	Resident Evil: Afterlife (2010)
12 Monkeys (1995)	Rise of the Planet of the Apes (2011)
Pandora's Clock (1996)	Contagion (2011)
Fatal Error (1999)	Resident Evil: Retribution (2012)
Cabin Fever (2002)	World War Z (2013)
Resident Evil (2002)	Flu (2013)
28 Days Later (2003)	Cabin Fever [remake] (2016)
Dawn of the Dead [remake] (2004)	Train to Busan (2016)
Resident Evil: Apocalypse (2004)	Resident Evil: The Final Chapter (2016)
I Am Legend (2007)	Pandemic (2016)
28 Weeks Later (2007)	Patient Zero (2018)

It's nearly always a virus, not a bacterium, a fungal spore or a microscopic parasite. Ever wonder why? And it always needs a vaccine to defeat it. Ever wonder why? In most cases its causes ghastly facial sores and gruesome deformities, and sometimes turns its victims into crazy, zombie-like creatures. Anyone who has seen these movies – and nearly everyone under age 40 has seen several, some on multiple occasions – the graphic images implanted in their minds convey a stark and disturbing message: certain viruses are deadly and could kill us all; viruses mutate; their impact on our mind and body can be horrifying; there is no way to escape them; unless science finds a cure – a vaccine – we will all die.

That's a pretty strong message, is it not? It has been impressed repeatedly on the minds of young people, invariably in a setting tinged with fear and anxiety, which is why many of these movies are classified in the "horror" genre. Messages imparted in this way generally seep into our subconscious and remain intact for the rest of our lives.

On top of all these movies, there have been countless television shows and series, as well as video games and cell phone apps, featuring virus infected zombies and equally horrifying virus-driven scenarios. The message and the associated emotions are always the same – deadly virus, shriek with fear, run and find a scientist who can inject the life-saving vaccine. All of the younger generation today have been programmed with this engram, along with many in their 40s and 50s.

Media conditioning using 'real' events

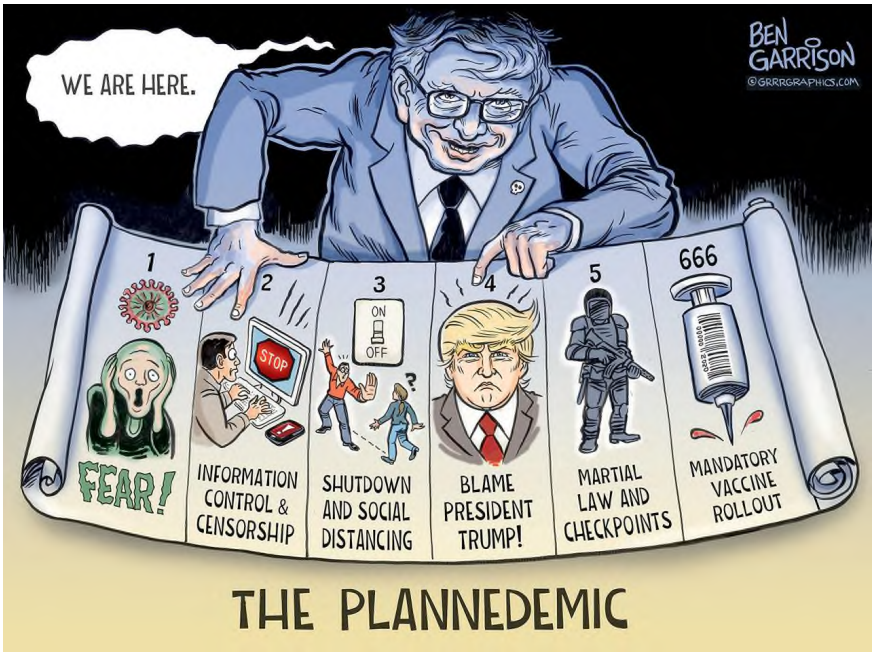

The media conditioning over the past 40 years, supposedly based on real life events, has also been heavily infused with the spectre of viral annihilation. HIV was meant to wipe out millions of innocent people (See our paper #220). As were Ebola, SARS and MERS (Did I miss one?). Oh yes, Avian Flu, Swine Flu, and…well, you can fill in your favorite, not to mention the endless, near-hysterical promotion of annual vaccine shots to "fight" seasonal flu.

Now the big boys shout "Covid-19!" and the only deadly virus on earth – FEAR – ratchets the entire world into pandemic mode. Shriek, panic, find a vaccine! Do what mama-government tells you to do – stop working, stay home, hide under the bed.

That would never work, surely? Well, it has. What is more it will continue to run and run. This virus will never die. Just like HIV it will continue to morph into new shapes which defy the best attempts by science to wipe it out entirely. As Dr Fauci, scaremonger-in-chief to President Trump, said on 25 March: ""Would this possibly become a seasonal cyclic thing? I've always indicated to you that I think it very well might." Wow, we might run out of beds to hide under.

What is Fauci talking about? State-generated fear to control and terrify the cattle, to cause such a panic that they destroy their own economy.

But surely people are dying of Covid-19? It is perfectly true to say that people are dying in large numbers – because they always have. What these gangsters are doing is assigning the cause of death to a common Coronavirus which they are calling Covid-19. If an elderly person dies of pneumonia – which is frequently the immediate cause of death among the elderly – they are now blaming Covid-19. The victim might even test positive for the virus, since many people carry it. Or if a person succumbs to the seasonal flu, he too will be labelled a victim of the "deadly" Coronavirus, Covid-19. Just about anybody with a serious underlying health condition who tests positive for the virus (including many who don't) will be classified as "victims" of Covid-19. All one needs is a few doctors to play along, the kind that take bribes from the pharmaceutical industry. They number in their thousands and will have no problem taking even bigger bribes to sign misleading death certificates.

The Test is Fake

The test tells us nothing. Why? Because a large proportion of the population carry a range of Corona-type viruses. They cause the common cold, remember! What the test should measure – but never does! – is the viral load. This is a count of the amount of the virus in one's system. Only those with a high viral load are likely to develop symptoms. Even when they do, their immune system – the wonderful internal healer that God gave to each one of us – cranks up its production of white blood cells and tackles the virus. After a few days in bed, we are back on our feet and breathing the beautiful fresh air that God made.

"Therefore will not we fear, though the earth be removed, and though the mountains be carried into the midst of the sea..."
– Psalm 46:2

But what about the ventilators? We need tens of thousands of additional ventilators – don't we? Well, if New York City needs them, then so too should cities all over Europe, but we don't hear of EU leaders signing industrial production orders to increase the number being manufactured. Why is that?

If 5G is being used to boost the Covid-19 numbers, which we believe to be the case, at least in Wuhan, Milan and Seattle, then the demand for ventilators will increase over time. (See our paper #222 for a discussion of this question.) But until 5G goes live in grand style across America and Europe this demand is likely to be fairly low.

We would ask readers to note that, while the whole of America was watching Covid-19 updates, President Trump signed into law a bill which will allow the implementation of 5G across the US. Its stated purpose is "maximizing the security of next generation mobile telecommunications systems and infrastructure." What most Americans do not realize is that much of this "next generation" [5G] infrastructure is already in place and the Act is merely giving retrospective approval to what they have already done.

The word "maximizing" says it all. This is legalese for the unlimited roll-out and implementation of 5G – in schools, colleges, hospitals, malls, libraries, public buildings, etc etc. Every street will have its own set of 5G antennas.

He signed this ominous Act into law on 23 March, known as the Secure 5G and Beyond Act of 2020.

Mothers are trying to defend their children

Many believe the lockdown is being used to install 5G antennas all across America in places which might otherwise encounter public opposition, notably schools and colleges. We attach for information an urgent appeal being made jointly by Children's Health Defense, Moms Across America, and 5G Free California (Appendix B). It illustrates vividly just how dangerous state governors and other senior politicians have become when it is necessary to beg them not to irradiate our children and cause them harm. A lot of people know what is really happening but their voices are not being heard.

Every year about 2.7 million Americans DIE. If only 1% of these are ascribed to Covid-19 in 2020, which is quite easy to do using a meaningless test, then we will have 27,000 deaths due to the virus. That's a huge number of deaths, real deaths, but not one of them has been caused by the alleged Wuhan virus. And if one labelled all deaths from flu as Covid-19 cases, the total number of real deaths from the virus would jump to over 80,000! – and not one of them would be genuine as far as Coronavirus statistics are concerned. Not one.

"… ye are forgers of lies, ye are all physicians of no value."
– Job 13:4

The planned activation of 5G on a worldwide basis

The story will change dramatically, however, if the authorities activate 5G. When that happens, millions of people will be bathed daily in high-frequency EMR which will weaken their immune systems. This will leave them far more exposed to infection (from any source). The number of people who are officially infected with Covid-19 will shoot up. Furthermore, for the segment of the population that is subjected to 5G in the 60 GHz waveband, the health impact will be much worse. They will quickly develop serious respiratory problems and many of them will die, very likely after 2-3 weeks of agony.

There is reason to believe that the chemtrail spraying that has polluted our skies for decades may have been designed to introduce nano-size metallic particles into our bodies. These would not necessarily affect our health, assuming they remained inert, but as soon as 5G is activated at certain frequencies they will heat up or resonate because they are absorbing EMR energy. One can only guess how harmful this would be.

We'll now look at a video that was banned from YouTube almost as soon as it appeared. When you learn what it revealed you will understand why. It is still available on Bitchute [https://www.bitchute.com/embed/zeg7nw2UasJq/]. In case for some reason it becomes unavailable we will reproduce a number of stills from the video which, in our opinion, capture the gist of its message.

The young man from Germany who made the video did a great job and we commend him highly for his courage and his diligence.

We will concentrate on the views expressed by three medical professionals – Dr Claus Kohnlein, Dr Marc Fiddike, and Dr Jaroslav Belsky – and conclude with some pertinent observations by the young man who made the video:

	[Dr Claus Kohnlein]

	[The crisis comes from the test. If there was no test, no-one would notice any difference between this year and any other year.]
	[Intervention in viral cases can do more harm than good. In the case in question, the doctors killed the patient with too much cortisone.]
	[Doctors are more likely to be sued if they do nothing. So they intervene, sometimes aggressively, and cause the death of the patient.]

	"So if the patient dies, you won't be charged [with a crime]."
	"It's not a good idea to treat a virus infection." [The proposed vaccine for Covid-19 is not necessary and may prove harmful.]
	[He was asked about the novel nature of 'novel Coronavirus-19'. He says it is not a new virus, just a new test.]

	[Dr Marc Fiddike]
	"A positive test doesn't mean a healthy person is going to be sick."
	[No proof has yet been given by the WHO or anyone else that Covid-19 causes illness in anyone. Dr Belsky makes the same point – see below.]

	[The test is phony. It doesn't measure viral load. Besides, most of the population will test positive for a Corona virus.]
	[He illustrates the phoniness of the test by stating that a person injured at home could arrive at an Emergency ward and test positive for the virus. When he dies of his internal injuries the doctor could record the cause of death as Covid-19.]

	[Dr Jaroslav Belsky] [Large numbers of people die every day in Italy from seasonal flu and other causes. The mortality rate was 10.5 per 1000 in 2019, or 1726 per day.]

	[An immensely important observation by the doctor. The Covid-19 gang are using a technical trick to make up their cases. Covid-19 is blamed for the death in any instance where the deceased person had tested positive.]
	[He says that in virtually all of the cases of 'death from Covid-19' in Italy, the true cause of death was a secondary or underlying illness.]
	[A similar point was made by Dr Fiddike above. There are no objective data anywhere to show that Covid-19 (if it exists) is killing anyone. Thus he laments, "How can you shut down the world without data?"]

	[He points to the terrible threat that democracy in the west is facing from this hoax. Denmark has just introduced a law which will enable doctors (aided by the police or the army) to forcibly vaccinate anyone.]
	[He is speaking here of the Spanish Flu of 1918. It emerged simultaneously in several places because the real source of infection was the vaccination program used to contain it. It was truly "a vaccination disaster." Millions died. See our paper #218.]
	[Dr Belsky was asked if he would take the Covid-19 vaccination when it became available.]

	[Dr Belsky is saying that, if they already have a vaccine almost ready for use, then they had prepared it long before the Wuhan outbreak.]
	[The author of the video was not allowed to take photos outside a large general hospital in Berlin or to talk to any of the staff working there. (Why?)]
	[The author asks a question which everyone should be asking. If 20,000 people are being killed off every year in Germany from 'super bugs' in hospitals – a problem which CAN be addressed – then why all this fuss over a flu-like virus?

	[He also asks why the pharmaceutical companies are allowed to market products which are known to kill off 58,000 people every year in Germany? This too is a problem which CAN be addressed. Instead they want to shut down Europe because of a seasonal flu.]

A former Vodafone employee speaks out

Here is a link to part of a talk given recently by a senior manager who worked for Vodafone in the UK for a few years (2013-2015):

https://hark.podbean.com/mf/play/unj6wr/5G_and_Coronavirus_Talk_by_former_Vodafone_Executive.mp3

His message can be summarized as follows:

> The Elite are rolling out 5G networks all over the world. Using the massive online inter-connectivity that this will bring, they will be able control entire populations. But they need 5G to do this. However 5G frequencies are so high (ten times more powerful than 4G) that they have a strong adverse impact on our health. Our cells accumulate poisons from the impact of electromagnetic radiation (EMR) and have to work hard to expel them from the body. This can create pronounced flu-like symptoms and produce a large number of viruses (protein fragments of RNA). The Coronavirus does not kill or harm anyone. It was invented as a deception by the Elite to mask the introduction of 5G. Wuhan was one of the first cities to activate 5G on a large scale. Then came cities in Spain and Italy. These are the places where 'Coronavirus' symptoms have been most severe. In other countries, notably Russia, where 5G is used only by the military, the incidence of 'Coronavirus' symptoms is extremely low [17 deaths, only three more than the Cayman Islands!] As more cities in Europe and America increase their use of 5G, with its extreme concentration of high-energy EMR, large segments of the population will fall ill. Many will die. In fact, millions will die. The Elite believe this is a small price to pay for the control that this greatly enhanced 'Matrix' will give them.

> He warns against taking the Coronavirus test since, he believes, it is being used to introduce pathogens into the body and cause the symptoms of Covid-19. This is a way of infecting populations where 5G is not yet fully operational. The vaccines, too, which countless millions of people will happily accept, will weaken their immune systems and cause the adverse effect from 5G EMR to work even faster. They are building large makeshift mortuaries around the world to accommodate the huge influx of dead bodies.

This man is highly intelligent and a Christian. He understands the New World Order agenda and the Luciferian mindset behind it: "We are heading toward the largest global recession the world has ever seen." Unemployment will skyrocket and a few mega-corporations (like Amazon) will become the new economy. Physical money will be removed from circulation and replaced with a digital currency. Vaccines will be used to implant RFID chips that will track the masses in real time. He believes the churches are being shut down to eliminate all worship of the LORD from the earth and facilitate the arrival of the Antichrist.

We also attach in Appendix A a summary of the views expressed by several scientists and medical professionals who are convinced that the 'Coronavirus Pandemic' is a hoax. From their knowledge of human physiology and pathology, they can see without a shred of doubt that the 'official' account is a complete fabrication.

"The wicked are estranged from the womb:
they go astray as soon as they be born, speaking lies."

The Tyranny has Arrived

At its media briefing on Covid-19 on March 30th, the World Health Organization revealed on camera that they intend to go into family homes and remove people:

> "In most senses transmission has been taken off the streets and pushed back into family units. Now we need to go and look in families, and find those people who may be sick and remove them and isolate them in a safe and dignified manner."

Speaker: Dr Micheal Ryan, Executive Director of the Health Emergencies Programme

[statement made around the 50.00 minute mark]

https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=2v3vlw14NbM [cut and paste]

Please re-read that statement several times because its implications are horrifying. They intend to enter our homes, administer a mandatory test to everyone present, and "remove" anyone who tests positive. They will be taken away and isolated, presumably in a detention center controlled by the state.

CONCLUSION

The politicians are lying. The media are lying. The state-appointed medical experts are lying. And the World Health Organization is lying – though its threat to invade your home and break up your family is very real. If you continue to believe their lies, then you may as well have handed them a loaded gun and the keys to your front door. This is what is happening to Ireland, to the UK, to France, to Spain, to Italy, and to other countries in Europe. And it is about to happen to America.

The "cure" is destroying the economy and social fabric of these countries. It is wrecking businesses that have taken years to build up. It is doing serious psychological harm to many people, especially our children. The elderly have been quarantined like animals. This unlawful, abusive and totalitarian 'lockdown' is causing poverty, suffering and deep social distress. The police are now on the streets of Ireland stopping people at vehicle checkpoints, asking where they are going and ordering them to return home.

If this 'lockdown' is allowed to run for much longer, the resulting mess will inflict ten times as much damage on our country as any so-called pandemic.

Time is quickly running out. Unless people speak up, our country will be torn apart.

"For God hath not given us the spirit of fear; but of power, and of love, and of a sound mind."

"We are afraid that 1 million infections with the new virus will lead to 30 deaths per day over the next 100 days. But we do not realise that 20, 30, 40 or 100 patients positive for normal coronaviruses are already dying every day… [The government's anti-COVID19 measures] are grotesque, absurd and very dangerous … The life expectancy of millions is being shortened. The horrifying impact on the world economy threatens the existence of countless people. The consequences on medical care are profound. Already services to patients in need are reduced, operations cancelled, practices empty, hospital personnel dwindling. All this will impact profoundly on our whole society. All these measures are leading to self-destruction and collective suicide based on nothing but a spook." – Dr Sucharit Bhakdi

Dr Joel Kettner

Professor of Community Health Sciences and Surgery at Manitoba University Former Chief Public Health Officer for Manitoba province.
Former Medical Director of the International Centre for Infectious Diseases.

> "I have never seen anything like this, anything anywhere near like this. I'm not talking about the pandemic, because I've seen 30 of them, one every year. It is called influenza. And other respiratory illness viruses, we don't always know what they are. But I've never seen this reaction, and I'm trying to understand why… I worry about the message to the public, about the fear of coming into contact with people, being in the same space as people, shaking their hands, having meetings with people. I worry about many, many consequences related to that… In Hubei, in the province of Hubei [China], where there has been the most cases and deaths by far, the actual number of cases reported is 1 per 1000 people and the actual rate of deaths reported is 1 per 20,000. So maybe that would help to put things into perspective." – Dr Joel Kettner

"Patients who have been tested for SARS-CoV-2 are disproportionately those with severe symptoms and bad outcomes. As most health systems have limited testing capacity, selection bias may even worsen in the near future… The one situation where an entire, closed population was tested was the Diamond Princess cruise ship and its quarantine passengers. The case fatality rate there was 1.0%, but this was a largely elderly population, in which the death rate from Covid-19 is much higher… Could the Covid-19 case fatality rate be that low? No, some say, pointing to the high rate in elderly people. However, even some so-called mild or common-cold-type coronaviruses that have been known for decades can have case fatality rates as high as 8% when they infect elderly people in nursing homes… If we had not known about a new virus out there, and had not checked individuals with PCR tests, the number of total deaths due to "influenza-like illness" would not seem unusual this year. At most, we might have casually noted that flu this season seems to be a bit worse than average." – Dr John Ioannidis

"I am deeply concerned that the social, economic and public health consequences of this near-total meltdown of normal life – schools and businesses closed, gatherings banned – will be long-lasting and calamitous, possibly graver than the direct toll of the virus itself. The stock market will bounce back in time, but many businesses never will. The unemployment, impoverishment and despair [that are] likely to result will be public health scourges of the first order." – Dr David Katz

> "We have reliable figures from Italy and a work by epidemiologists, which has been published in the renowned science journal Science, which examined the spread in China. This makes it clear that around 85 percent of all infections have occurred without anyone noticing the infection. 90 percent of the deceased patients are verifiably over 70 years old, 50 percent over 80 years… In Italy, one in ten people diagnosed die, according to the findings of the Science publication, that is statistically one of every 1,000 people infected. Each individual case is tragic, but often – similar to the flu season – it affects people who are at the end of their lives." – Dr Pietro Vernazza

> "You are now told every morning how many SARS-Corona 2 deaths there are. But they don't tell you how many people already are infected with influenza this winter and how many deaths it has caused… This winter, the flu is not severe, but around 80,000 are infected. You don't get these numbers at all [in the media]. Something similar occurred two years ago. This is not put into the right context… Every week a person dies in Berlin from multi-resistant germs. That adds up to 35,000 a year in Germany. This is not mentioned at all. I believe that we have had situations like this several times and that the measures are now being taken too far… The disease per se is like the flu in a normal winter. It is even weaker in the first week." – Dr Karin Molling

Dr Pablo Goldschmidt

Professor of Molecular Pharmacology at the Université Pierre et Marie Curie in Paris.

> "The ill-founded opinions expressed by international experts, replicated by the media and social networks repeat the unnecessary panic that we have previously experienced. The coronavirus identified in China in 2019 caused nothing less than a strong cold or flu, with no difference so far with cold or flu as we know… Respiratory viral conditions are numerous and are caused by several viral families and species, among which the respiratory syncytial virus (especially in infants), influenza (influenza), human metapneumoviruses, adenoviruses, rhinoviruses, and various coronaviruses, already described years ago. It is striking that earlier this year global health alerts have been triggered as a result of infections by a coronavirus detected in China, COVID-19, knowing that each year there are 3 million newborns who die in the world of pneumonia and 50,000 adults in the United States for the same cause, without alarms being issued… There is no evidence to show that the 2019 coronavirus is more lethal than respiratory adenoviruses, influenza viruses, coronaviruses from previous years, or rhinoviruses responsible for the common cold."

"The mortality profile remains puzzling from a virological point of view because, in contrast to influenza viruses, children are spared and men are affected about twice as often as women. On the other hand, this profile corresponds to natural mortality, which is close to zero for children and almost twice as high for 75-year-old men as for women of the same age."

Governor Newsom: Please Do Not Deploy 5G / Wireless Installations in Our Schools During Quarantine!

Dear Californians,

On Thursday, March 19th, Governor Newsom announced his intention to expand the deployment of wireless infrastructure in schools, during the COVID-19 quarantine. We understand this is during a time when there will be the least resistance to this harmful technology. While we all appreciate Governor Newsom's leadership on COVID-19, deploying further wireless infrastructure in our schools and neighborhood especially at this time is taking the wrong path.

Children's Health Defense is launching a campaign together with Moms Across America and 5G Free California, to have Governor Newsom reconsider his decision and to encourage him to take leadership in protecting the health of our children from the proven harms of wireless radiation, and lead the way with safer and faster wired technology.

Governor Newsom's office statement:

> "With schools closed across the state and teachers struggling to implement online and alternative learning programs, the governor also asked for an expansion of technology investments for schools*, an increase in Title I funding for schools with a high concentration of poverty,* broadband internet upgrades*, grants for* teachers to adapt to digital-age instruction*…"*

To clarify, "Broadband" includes wireless and wired infrastructure. Unfortunately, CA schools have been using wireless rather than safe wired networks and therefore we have a good basis to suspect that the announcement refers to wireless systems.

Children's Health Defense, Moms Across America, 5G Free California ask for your partnership to protect our children's health!

PLEASE TAKE THESE 2 ACTIONS:

ACTION 1 – TODAY: WRITE A LETTER TO GOVERNOR NEWSOM

Please Do Not Deploy 5G / Intensify Wireless Installations in Our Schools During Quarantine and anytime thereafter.

Governor Newsom's Email: stateinformation@state.ca.gov

SAMPLE LETTER

Dear Governor Newsom,

Please Do Not Deploy 5G / Intensify Wireless Installations in Our Schools During Quarantine and at any time thereafter.

While I appreciate your leadership on COVID-19, I am writing to express my objection to your intention to intensify the wireless infrastructure in schools using the COVID-19 quarantine as the basis for your request, as was announced last week by your office. Further deployment of harmful wireless infrastructure in our schools is taking the wrong leadership path and will cause further and even irreparable harm to our children.

As Mayor of San-Francisco, you have shown rare leadership when you called out the telecom companies' fraud. Since then, the evidence of harm has become clearer. Most recently, The recent Federal government's National Toxicology Program study found CLEAR EVIDENCE that this radiation causes cancer and breaks DNA. Thousands more studies proved profound harms from wireless technology radiation.

In 2018 the CA Dept of Public Health published guidelines admitting that peer reviewed scientific studies show evidence that this radiation may cause DNA damage, reproduction harms, cancer and learning disabilities among other effects. How come you deploy more wireless in school to improve learning when the evidence is showing it is harming learning?

In 2014, the CA Medical Association passed a resolution calling on the FCC to update its health guidelines as the scientific evidence shows profound harms. On February 2, 2020 the Children Health Defense submitted a lawsuit in the US Court of Appeals of the Ninth Circuit, against the FCC, challenging its decades' obsolete health guidelines. Among the petitioners are parents of children from CA who have become sick from cell towers and wi-fi in their schools and doctors attesting to the epidemic they see in their clinics including among children.

Government Code Sec. 659641.1(f) gave a special exemption from mandatory approval of wireless siting applications for wireless telecommunications facilities on fire department facilities. This was passed out of concern regarding firefighters' exposure to harmful radiation. Why are we protecting firefighters but harming our children?

Further, peer reviewed scientific studies have shown that the radiation emitted by wireless technology, adversely affects the immune system. In a time when we try to prevent pan-epidemic and need to strengthen our immune system, we should encourage the population, and especially our children who are a vulnerable population, to reduce their exposure to this harmful radiation rather than force more of it.

We asked you not to allow any further deployment of harmful wireless infrastructure during the schools' shutdowns or over Spring Break on school campuses across our state. We ask you to prevent telecom companies from deploying 5G "small cell" antennas or "Hot-Spots" under the false pretense of improving technology for learning. Any further upgrades should be with wired ethernet cables, which provide faster, safer, more secure and more reliable service.

Considering the clear evidence of potential harm to our children from this radiation, we do not consent to any further expansion of wireless emitting devices in our California schools. Education Code Sec. 51101(a)(7) grants the right for parents to ensure that the school environment for their child is safe. Exposing children to this radiation, especially over the objection of the parents and children, directly violates the schools' duty to provide a safe environment and our right to ensure they do. We ask for you to cease and desist any further installations. The radiation batters the children and violates their civil rights and our parental rights.

Furthering the deployment of more wireless when the scientific and human evidence of harm are clear, is being on the wrong side of history. We know that considering the power of the Telecom industry, leading on this issue takes courage. You have shown you have the courage – and there is no more important time to continue to show this courage than with protecting the health of our children, including your own.

California parents, and parents across the country, will remember that Governor Newsom stood up to the corporations and put the safety of our children before corporate profits.

Thank you for your time and dedication.

Sincerely,

(Your name)

ACTION 2 – TODAY: Find out if your school is installing 4/5G!

Please call and/or email your school district superintendent Monday, March 23, 2020, and ask them:

> "Is our school district intending to do any wireless technology upgrades during this school shutdown? Specifically, will our school have any upgraded Wi-Fi systems and/or any new antennas, or 'small' cell facilities installed during the break? If so, which schools and which types of technology changes?"

Also inform them that you are interested in being kept informed should the school decide to introduce such installations.

Please also state the following:

> Considering the clear evidence of potential harm to our children from this radiation, we do not consent to any further expansion of wireless emitting devices in our California schools. Education Code Sec. 51101(a)(7) grants the right for parents to ensure that the school environment for their child is safe. Exposing children to this radiation, especially over the objection of the parents and children, directly violates the schools' duty to provide a safe environment and our right to ensure they do. We ask for you to cease and desist any further installations. The radiation batters the children and violates their civil rights and our parental rights.

Please cc us in your email to your school with CA.Safe.Children@childrenshealthdefense.org so we will be aware of your communication with them. If they do not cc us in their response, please forward us their response.

Please respond to us by email with California school responses, school name, city and state to: CA.Safe.Children@childrenshealthdefense.org within 48 hours, preferably, to have your school district be supported by our teams. The timing is urgent! Technology upgrades have been planned for Spring Break!

If you do not live in California, but have friends in California, please share this information with them. Also please take action in your state and find out what their plans are! Now is the time!

Stay tuned for further updates, petitions and information on how you can protect your child and all school children!

With Unity,

- Children's Health Defense
- Moms Across America
- 5G Free California

What the Word of God says about Lockdowns

by Jeremy James

Paul and Silas in prison, praising the LORD.

As Christians, we need to look very carefully at what the Word of God says about the times we are living in. In particular, we need to reflect on what the Bible tells us about government-imposed measures that amount to a 'lockdown'.

Is our heavenly Father asking us to do what our governments are demanding, or are these demands in conflict with His Word?

Let's see.

We'll start with Hebrews 10:25:

> "Not forsaking the assembling of ourselves together, > as the manner of some is; but exhorting one another:
> and so much the more, as ye see the day approaching."

Tell me, how is this plain injunction from the Holy Spirit to be reconciled with a government policy which closes all of our churches? How can we assemble if our church buildings are shut? How can we assemble if we are forbidden by law, and harrassed or fined by the police, if even three or four of us gather in a believer's home and pray to God?

Please think about this, dear reader, because it is extremely important.

Note too that Hebrews 10:25 says "the assembling of ourselves together", not the assembling of ourselves apart. Contact over social media does NOT satisfy this requirement, no matter how many get 'together' on Zoom and pray in unison. The plain sense of Hebrews 10:25 is that we come together in the same place with our fellow believers, exhorting and encouraging one another, and praying to God.

There is nothing confusing or complicated about this. When we fail to come together in an agreed place and worship God, at least once a week, we are failing to obey the Holy Spirit.

The Chinese communists are not quite as subtle as their western counterparts.

Asking the right question

Now one might ask: If a medical emergency imposes a quarantine restriction, are we still required to do what Hebrews 10:25 asks of us? But that's the wrong question. The question we should really ask is: If the government imposes a mandatory (not a voluntary) quarantine on a large geographical region, is that law or regulation in conflict with Hebrews 10:25? And the answer, obviously, is Yes.

The Holy Spirit would never ask us to do something which we could be debarred from doing under a just law. Note that term – "a just law". The mandatory quarantine or lockdown law is an unjust law. It conflicts with God's Word!

The Satanists want to place believers in a situation where they violate God's Word. If there are no church services anywhere on earth – and it is beginning to look that way – then we know that the law itself is Satanic.

God has asked that we worship Him in spirit and in truth (John 4:24). But in what sense are we doing this when we allow ourselves, as believers, to be corralled in our homes and prevented from coming together in one place and worshipping our heavenly Father in spirit and in truth?

The Satanists must be falling about laughing. In their perverse way of thinking, if they are able to do this to the world body of believers, then they have shown their 'father' (Satan) that he is the real Master.

Your pastors and preachers will never discuss any of this because virtually all of them made peace with the world long ago:

"Ye adulterers and adulteresses, know ye not that the friendship of the world is enmity with God? whosoever therefore will be a friend of the world is the enemy of God."
– James 4:4

Do you see how James describes these people? Adulterers and adulteresses. In other words, they are betraying their faith; they have taken the path of compromise. In effect, they have denied Christ.

Peter realizes, to his horror, that he has denied Christ.

Another question

Some may struggle in their own minds with the question: "Is it right to go to a public place to worship God together with other believers when a pandemic is raging and, in doing so, risk contracting or spreading a deadly infection?"

This, too, is the wrong question. Instead we should be asking: "If it is perfectly legal and medically safe to go shopping for necessities and to take a daily walk for physical exercise, why can't we assemble (two yards apart) in a public park for twenty minutes or so and worship God?"

How do the Satanists answer that one? Well, so far they haven't been pushed to provide an answer because the pastors and preachers who claim to 'lead' the church are not asking it.

And what is the answer? Well, you have probably figured that out for yourself.

The Sabbath Day

We are being lied to by our politicians. They serve the Satanic world system and are working in concert to bring in the New World Order. This is the only way the Antichrist can arise. He needs a world government in place, or something akin to a world government, if he is to carry out his wicked plan in the time available to him.

So why are Christians ignoring God's Word and doing what is plainly contrary to the Fourth Commandment? – "Remember the sabbath day, to keep it holy." (Exodus 20:8)

We call on Christians all over the world to assemble together in their local park on Sunday morning, April 5th, at 12.00 (local time) and sing praises to the wonderful God who made us, and continue to do so every Sunday thereafter.

They will not be breaking the law because (a) they are taking their allowed physical exercise and (b) they will be at least 2 yards apart.

> "For where two or three are gathered together in my name, there am I in the midst of them."
> - Matthew 18:20
> The New World Order, with its quarantine rules, forbids us to do this. They don't want Jesus in our midst. This alone tells us that the quarantine rules are unbiblical and dangerous. It also tells us that they were designed by evil men to attack and destroy true Christianity.

There is no doubt that persecution is coming. Many of you can see that. This is all the more reason why Christians should act now, while there is still a window of opportunity, rather than wait until the Satanists have so many laws in place that you won't be able to step outside your front door – which might be just a few weeks away.

Many said the servants of the Enemy would never do what they are doing until they had first disarmed America – Well, they have! The day most Americans accepted that their Christ-hating leaders had the right to close their churches and prevent them from worshipping the LORD, they were disarmed in the worst possible sense.

One reader wrote to me after my last paper (#224) and expressed dismay that there seemed to be no hope. But there is! Do what our heavenly Father has asked us to do! Obey His commandments:

"For this is the love of God, that we keep his commandments: and his commandments are not grievous [burdensome or onerous]."
(1 John 5:3)

And when you assemble, do so with JOY. Give no place to fear. Honor and praise the Almighty God who made us, and His wonderful Son, Christ Jesus of Nazareth, who redeemed us from this wicked world.

I would urge all Christians to download this paper and send it as an email attachment to anyone they feel would be glad to receive it.

Rockefeller Report of 2010 Proves the 'Pandemic' was Planned

by Jeremy James

Perhaps you were wondering why the Elite are calling the imposed pandemic immobilization a lockdown? The term refers to a group of 'guilty' citizens confined indefinitely to their respective cells. No-one is going anywhere unless – and until – the warden lifts the lockdown or reduces its severity. Does this sound familiar?

Given that the Elite have found you guilty, you may wonder what crime you have committed. Well, you are guilt of 'possibly' ('potentially', 'statistically', 'theoretically') carrying a lethal virus that could wipe out all life on earth. You are, in effect, an incipient disease – just like all your family and friends. This accurately sums up how the Elite view the "cattle", the herd of useless eaters who are taking up space and need to be "culled".

The wardens, of course, are the governments of the countries operating this worldwide lockdown. A very, very small group of people have decided that a very, very large group of people should remain incarcerated until… well, until they decide to suspend your sentence. We can all expect to be let out on good behavior. That means taking the virus test and, later, the vaccine – both of which will provide the Elite with a perfect opportunity to insert a real pathogen into millions of future victims.

Mental paralysis

The world is heavily sedated by incessant propaganda, with wall-to-wall images of death and disease and a lexicon of depressing terms designed to paralyze our mind. In a sense the "cattle" are being hit with a stun-gun. The remorseless nature of this dark propaganda is sapping the strength of anyone – ANYONE – who is foolish enough to sit down and soak it all up.

The Elite have been planning this attack for decades, the first in a series of deadly blows intended to bring down ("transform") western civilization. A seasonal flu has been turned into a raging pandemic. How? By countless lies, tricks and deceptions. [See our papers #222, #223, and #224] The consequences of this insane lockdown, which has no medical justification, will be far, far worse than the alleged disease:

> [The government's anti-COVID19 measures] are grotesque, absurd and very dangerous ... The life expectancy of millions is being shortened. The horrifying impact on the world economy threatens the existence of countless people. The consequences on medical care are profound. Already services to patients in need are reduced, operations cancelled, practices empty, hospital personnel dwindling. All this will impact profoundly on our whole society. All these measures are leading to self-destruction and collective suicide based on nothing but a spook." – Dr Sucharit Bhakdi, specialist in microbiology and one of the most cited research scientists in German history; former professor at the Johannes Gutenberg University in Mainz, Germany; former head of the Institute for Medical Microbiology and Hygiene.

If you doubt whether this is really the case and have not yet come to terms with the material laid out in our recent papers on this topic, then maybe the following piece of concrete evidence will help to convince you.

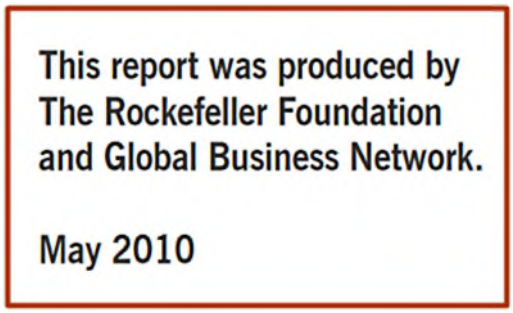

The Rockefeller Foundation

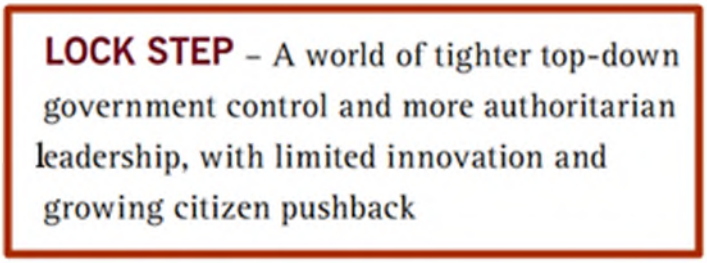

We wish to highlight a report published in May 2010 by the Rockefeller Foundation – one of the main funding agencies for the New World Order – which examined the future use of technology on the world stage. The report was titled, Scenarios for the Future of Technology and International Development.

Any time these people use the term "international development" they mean the imposition of their ideas on sovereign nations.

The report carried out its examination by envisioning four future scenarios, where the outcome in each case is largely determined by political factors and the attitude generally toward new technology.

One of these scenarios was called 'Lock Step'. This envisaged a world where traditional liberties had disappeared and countries were subject to authoritarian control. This is another way of describing a nation under totalitarian government, which is well expressed by the term 'lock step' – the name they have chosen for this scenario:

pushback = resistance, negative reaction

The term lock-step is defined in most dictionaries as a way of marching where each person is as close as possible to the one in front. In other words, total obedience by the masses to a ruling authority. This is closely related to another word that has become familiar to everyone in recent weeks – lockdown – which means the confining of prisoners to their cells. Yes, it is a term closely associated with crime and punishment, where the prisoners are compelled by their guards to remain in their cells 24 hours a day.

This is how the Elite view the cattle. At present they are being kept in quarantine until they are branded. This will likely involve some form of electronic identification or tag which will show who has received the vaccination and store related details [See their reference below to "biometric IDs for all citizens"]. Anyone without this univeral ID will be kept in quarantine or given only a limited sphere of activity.

Scenarios

Here is how the report defines a scenario:

> Scenarios are a medium through which great change can be not just envisioned but also actualized. The more closely you read them, the more likely it becomes that you will recognize their important but less obvious implications to you, your work, and your community.

The words "but also actualized" say a great deal. The Rockefeller gang are not simply envisioning a possible future for humanity but one which, in whole or in part, will become actualized. In short, each of the four scenarios contain elements of the future which the Elite have planned for mankind and which they intend to implement.

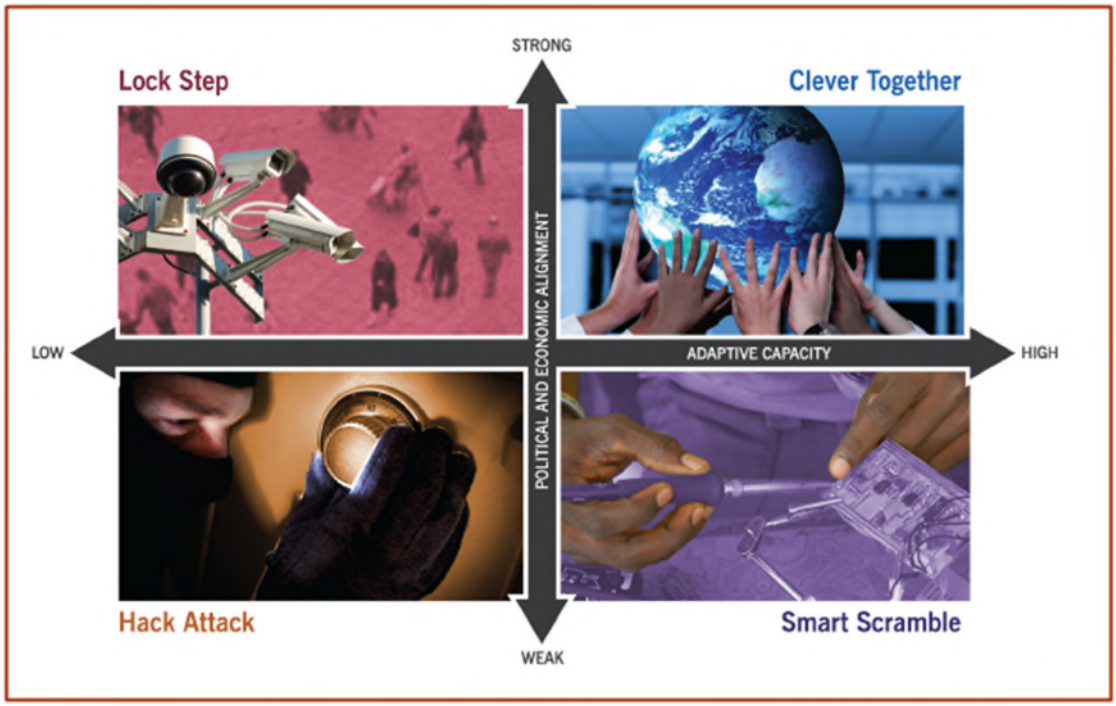

They expand a little on this definition in the following screenshot from their report. Note the time period they are working within, namely 15-20 years following publication.

> THE SCENARIO NARRATIVES
> The scenarios that follow are not meant to be exhaustive – rather, they are designed to be both plausible and provocative, to engage your imagination while also raising new questions for you about what that future might look and feel like. Each scenario tells a story of how the world, and in particular the developing world, might progress over the next 15 to 20 years, with an emphasis on those elements relating to the use of different technologies and the interaction of these technologies with the lives of the poor and vulnerable.

By the way the “poor and vulnerable” in the above excerpt are the entire population of the earth, the “cattle” who must be coralled, branded and culled:

Introduction to the Lock Step scenario.

The four scenarios set in an occult ‘barbed cross’.

The 2020 pandemic was a central part of the Lock Step scenario

We now come to the proof mentioned in the title of this paper. We will confine ourselves to a few short comments since their own text – given in screenshot form – speaks volumes.

I

[The pandemic finally arrives and streaks around the world]

In 2012, the pandemic that the world had been anticipating for years finally hit. Unlike 2009's H1N1, this new influenza strain—originating from wild geese—was extremely virulent and deadly. Even the most pandemic-prepared nations were quickly overwhelmed when the virus streaked around the world, infecting nearly 20 percent of the global population and killing 8 million in just seven months, the majority of them healthy young adults. The pandemic also had a deadly effect on economies: international mobility of both people and goods screeched to a halt, debilitating industries like tourism and breaking global supply chains. Even locally, normally bustling shops and office buildings sat empty for months, devoid of both employees and customers.	The pandemic, as we know, "finally hit" in 2020. Virulent and deadly, the virus "streaked around the world." The pandemic wrecked economies. "International mobility…screeched to a halt." Lockdown! Shops that were normally busy "sat empty for months, devoid of both employees and customers." It was all planned!

II

[Mandatory quarantine for all citizens]

The pandemic blanketed the planet—though disproportionate numbers died in Africa, Southeast Asia, and Central America, where the virus spread like wildfire in the absence of official containment protocols. But even in developed countries, containment was a challenge. The United States's initial policy of "strongly discouraging" citizens from flying proved deadly in its leniency, accelerating the spread of the virus not just within the U.S. but across borders. However, a few countries did fare better—China in particular. The Chinese government's quick imposition and enforcement of mandatory quarantine for all citizens, as well as its instant and near-hermetic sealing off of all borders, saved millions of lives, stopping the spread of the virus far earlier than in other countries and enabling a swifter post-pandemic recovery.

Note how the Chinese are praised for their strict containment strategy.

The "enforcement of mandatory quarantine for all citizens" is summed up today in the word lockdown!

The report identifies lockdown as the best way to deal with the so-called pandemic. Even though it purports to be scientific the report ignores the devastating human cost of a worldwide lockdown.

III

[Authoritarian control imposed by law and retained indefinitely]

China's government was not the only one that took extreme measures to protect its citizens from risk and exposure. During the pandemic, national leaders around the world flexed their authority and imposed airtight rules and restrictions, from the mandatory wearing of face masks to body-temperature checks at the entries to communal spaces like train stations and supermarkets. Even after the pandemic faded, this more authoritarian control and oversight of citizens and their activities stuck and even intensified. In order to protect themselves from the spread of increasingly global problems – from pandemics and transnational terrorism to environmental crises and rising poverty – leaders around the world took a firmer grip on power.

The lurid "mandatory wearing of face masks" gets a prominent mention. The psychological impact of this measure is considerable. We expect Trump to impose this very shortly.

They refer to the increased "authoritarian control and oversight [surveillance] of citizens." Laws enabling this will be retained after the so-called pandemic, and will even be "intensified."

IV

[Biometric IDs for all citizens; loss of sovereignty and privacy]

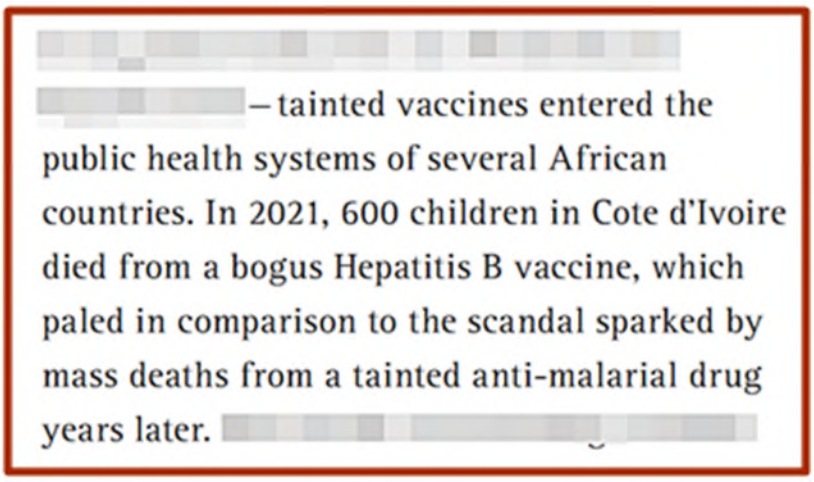

At first, the notion of a more controlled world gained wide acceptance and approval. Citizens willingly gave up some of their sovereignty—and their privacy—to more paternalistic states in exchange for greater safety and stability. Citizens were more tolerant, and even eager, for top-down direction and oversight, and national leaders had more latitude to impose order in the ways they saw fit. In developed countries, this heightened oversight took many forms: biometric IDs for all citizens, for example, and tighter regulation of key industries whose stability was deemed vital to national interests. In many developed countries, enforced cooperation with a suite of new regulations and agreements slowly but steadily restored both order and, importantly, economic growth.

They even have the audacity to spell out the specific methods of control which they plan to impose, such as biometric IDs for all citizens and tighter regulation of key industries. In other words far greater control over citizens and businesses.

This is Marxism!

[Another scenario envisages genocide by stealth and deception]

– tainted vaccines entered the public health systems of several African countries. In 2021, 600 children in Cote d'Ivoire died from a bogus Hepatitis B vaccine, which paled in comparison to the scandal sparked by mass deaths from a tainted anti-malarial drug years later.

CONCLUSION

A great many people are in denial. They cannot accept that something like this could happen in our 'modern' world. But the world is not modern or mature in a spiritual sense. The same war still rages between the forces of Babylon and the true gospel of Christianity. The Babylonians continue to use the same methods that they have been using for thousands of years, all of which rely on cunning and deception.

But Christ Jesus of Nazareth will return – Praise the LORD! – and put an end to this Satanic world system and the wicked children of chaos:

"He that sitteth in the heavens shall laugh:
the Lord shall have them in derision.
Then shall he speak unto them in his wrath, and vex them in his sore displeasure."
– Psalm 2:4-5

Gaelic Gulag:
Ireland is Now Under Marxist Rule

by Jeremy James

While the country was watching Netflix and soaking up uncontested and unverified 'news' about the so-called Coronavirus 'Covid-19', the government of Ireland passed in rapid succession – with virtually no debate as to their Constitutionality or their conformity with basic human rights – two pieces of legislation which bring Ireland formally under Marxist rule.

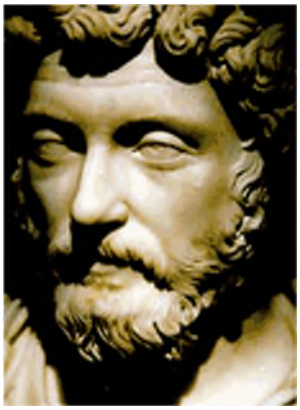

Here is what the 'Opposition' said during the Health Bill debate on 19th March:

> "I do not imagine anyone in this House would contemplate the powers that are in this Bill under normal times. They are vast and extensive. Most of them are not time-limited and do not have a review clause. Most of them are not subject to appeal. These are extraordinary measures and, in normal times, we would not remotely consider such things. Yet, if the task before us is to bring the total number of cases down from a potential of 600,000 to 60,000 in only four weeks, then, unfortunately, we need to consider such measures, and so Fianna Fáil will be supporting the Bill." – Deputy Stephen Donnelly, 19th March 2020, Second Stage debate on the Health (Preservation and Protection and other Emergency Measures in the Public Interest) Bill 2020

Draconian

Only one participant in the debate made explicit reference to human rights or expressed concern at the excessive speed with which the legislation was being introduced: “I used the word "draconian" and I will use it again. There is no doubt in my mind that this is absolutely draconian legislation. I have read it in detail, which has been difficult because of the manner in which it was presented to us.” – Independent deputy Catherine Connolly (19th March).

Independent deputy Michael McNamara also had concerns about the powers contained in the Bill – “I endorse Deputy Catherine Connolly's points about the extraordinary, wide ranging and insufficiently defined powers contained in this Bill.” These two deputies may have been on a different page to everyone else. Most of those engaged in the debate were died-in-the-wool Marxists who were clearly revelling in the legislative revolution unfolding before their eyes. The word “draconian” is music to their ears.

Draco, a ruler in Ancient Greece who introduced laws of unyielding harshness, such as death for stealing a cabbage.

An unprecedented response…that will continue

During the Second Stage debate on the companion Bill – Emergency Measures in the Public Interest (Covid-19) Bill 2020 – the leader of Fainna Fail stated:

> “The measures which we adopted last week and those we are adopting today are not ones we would even discuss in normal circumstances but this unprecedented situation has justified and will continue to justify an unprecedented response.” – Micheal Martin (26 March)

Take note of his words: “will continue to justify an unprecedented response.” This ‘emergency’ situation will be allowed to run and run until it has achieved its purpose.

Two deputies expressed concern at the changes being made to the operation of the Mental Health Act 2001:

> "It would be remiss of me, given my previous life as a psychologist quite some time ago, to allow this to pass without comment, given the extraordinary length of time it took to bring human rights into the mental health area and with the stroke of a pen we have now taken it away for a period of eight months, from 30 March to November." – Catherine Connolly (26 March)
> "I find it an extraordinarily draconian measure that a one-person tribunal, made up of a barrister whose profession is to deal with legal issues, would make a determination on somebody whose mental health was challenged and who was taken against his or her will into a mental health institution. I find this really draconian and upsetting. The Minister should explain fully why this has occurred because at the briefing we had on it, the explanation was not good enough. The explanation that was given to us is that this is what is done in other jurisdictions. I do not accept that and I believe it behoves the Minister to give a full explanation. However, we will support the amendment." – Deputy Brid Smith [Solidarity Party] (26 March)

We will return to this question when we are reviewing provisions of particular concern in this "unprecedented" and "draconian" legislation.

These prisoners are violating the lockdown by not standing at least 6 feet apart.

The Lockdown

These two Acts provide the main legislative authority for a "lockdown" which the government imposed on the four million citizens of Ireland on 17th March. All workers, other than those needed to provide "essential services" are required to remain in their homes until further notice. No-one is allowed to venture out, other than for one daily excursion on foot for physical exercise and a trip to the grocery store by one member of the household to pick up essential supplies. The excursion on foot should be no more than 2km (1 ¼ miles) from one's home. While engaged in any activity outside the home, every person must remain at least 2 metres (6ft) away from anyone else in the vicinity (though closer proximity to family members living in the same lockdown location is permitted).

The Government's insane strategy

Not one person in the Dail commented on the insanity of what the government was proposing or requested evidence that this radical response was both a necessary and proportionate way of containing a contagious viral infection. In fact, the potentially dire economic consequences of these radical measures were virtually ignored. So too were the social and psychological implications of a prolonged quarantine for millions of men, women and children who would normally be out and about, travelling to and from their workplace or school, and interacting socially within the community. On top of this, the immense stress that would be generated by the inevitable fall in income in Irish households and the potential loss of future employment and sustainable customer base by Irish businesses was treated in the main as a purely financial matter which government largesse would alleviate.

The Dail debates for the 19th and 26th March read like the gloatings of an ageing sadist who has just found a new way to inflict pain. The participants showed no ability whatever to think critically about the course the government was pursuing and were entirely oblivious to the sheer destructiveness of what it involved. For example, no regard was had to the fact that every single penny the government was planning to hand out would have to be repaid, with interest, via taxation by the people themselves. The citizens of Ireland were being asked to stop work and live on the revenue generated by their own taxes! – and these taxes in turn would be levied on an economy that was contracting rapidly on foot on the government's insane policy.

Tedros Adhanom, head of the World Health Organisation and senior member of the Tigrayan People's Liberation Front, the tyrannical Marxist regime that has exercised brutal control over Ethiopia for 25 years.

"The wicked walk on every side, when the vilest men are exalted."

– Psalm 12:8

And what is all of this for? To stem the spread of a virus which, according to the World Health Organization (WHO), is so virulent that it cannot be contained and which, again according to the WHO, has no effect whatever on most of those who contract it! What is more the mortality statistics given out by the WHO are known to be greatly exaggerated, being calculated selectively by reference to a cohort with a high morbidity instead of by reference to the total number of persons who contract the disease.

Not one person in the Dail on 19th or 26th March questioned the highly dubious medical arguments on which the government has based its policy. At no stage has the WHO come forward with verifiable proof that a virus known as Covid-19 is the sole or major cause of the symptoms ascribed to it. Neither has it shown that the test for Covid-19 is reliable or why a virus in the Coronavirus group – the same group as the virus that causes the common cold! – could possibly produce symptoms that are utterly different from the symptoms which are typical of that group. There is also compelling evidence that the mortality count for Covid-19 is being inflated by the inclusion of cases where Covid-19 was not the cause of death. This would seem to pertain, in particular, to cases involving pneumonia or seasonal flu.

The World Health Organisation threatens our families.

Powers granted to the Minister for Health

The powers granted to the Minister for Health under these two Acts are akin to those exercised by a totalitarian regime.

He can:

- restrict travel to and from the state
- restrict travel within the state

- require citizens to remain in their homes or "in such other places" as he may specify. What other places? Possibly in detention camps, or worse.
- forbid the holding of events and gatherings (including public protests against the totalitarian provisions in these two Acts).
- close or shut-down businesses (regardless of the financial damage that this will inflict).
- close schools and colleges
- close churches and places of worship (Marxist governments despise the Bible and true Christian worship).
- close childcare facilities
- implement "any other measures" which he considers may be necessary to "prevent, limit, minimise or slow" the spread of Covid-19 [See (i) and (k) in Section 10 on p.9 of the Health Emergency Measures Act]. This is an astounding provision, enabling the Minister to do virtually whatever he wants. It could be used, for example, to detain anyone against their will at an undisclosed location, with no access to a lawyer or other representative, for as long as the Minister decides. How could any member of Dail Eireann allow such a provision to be included? It defies belief.

Failure to comply with the requirements of these provisions when instructed to do so is an "offence" under the Act and anyone found guilty of an offense can receive a prison term of up to 6 months! He can also receive a Class C fine – up to €2500. It is possible, merely by stepping into the street, to commit an offense under the Act and receive a 6-month prison sentence. Of course, the court may decide to be lenient and fine you €2500 instead. If Kafka were alive today, he would be embarrassed by his failure to anticipate these totalitarian absurdities.

Franz Kafka (d.1924), a mere amateur compared to the Marxist absurdists who wrote this vile legislation.

The universal arrest provisions

Perhaps the most disturbing of the many draconian powers which the government is introducing are those relating to the powers of arrest now vested in the Garda Siochana:

- a police officer may arrest a person without warrant if, having requested them to comply with a regulation made under the Act, they fail to do so. All he needs is "reasonable cause to believe" that the individual did not comply. Why bother with old-fashioned notions like evidence, witnesses, a fair hearing, a court order, or proof that any harm was done? Under a Marxist regime such notions are redundant.

- any person authorised by regulation to enforce any of these provisions may call upon the support of the police where force or coercion are likely to be required, including "detaining any person, bringing a person to any place, breaking open of any premises, or any other action in which the use of force may be necessary". [We are not making this up.]

- any medical officer who believes in good faith that a person may be a potential source of infection may order in writing the detention and isolation of that person against his will in the place specified in the order, until such time as he believes the person in question is no longer a potential risk to public health. The person detained in this way can ask for an independent medical review of his case and the medical officer is required to comply with this request, but only "as soon as practicable." [Again, we stress, we are not making this up. This outrageous provision is now part of Irish law.]

Remember this date – 20th March, 2020

When the President signed this Bill into law on 20th March, 2020, Ireland ceased to be a democracy. It is now a Marxist police state, ruled by a scheming cabal of so-called "political parties" whose leading members are working in concert to advance the New World Order.

It would seem the powers conferred on the government under the Health Emergency Measures Act were not deemed by them to be sufficient because, the following week, they presented for debate and Dail approval amendments to the Mental Health Act 2001 via the Emergency Measures in the Public Interest (Covid-19) Bill. Again this was rushed through with great haste and with little opportunity to weigh carefully the drastic nature of its provisions.

While there are many aspects of this second Bill which we would like to discuss, we will confine our comments to the sections of greatest concern, namely 15-24 in Part V of the Act (as signed into law by the President on 27th March):

PART 5

AMENDMENTS TO MENTAL HEALTH ACT 2001

15. Definition (Part 5)
16. Exigencies of public health emergency
17. Amendment of section 17 of Act of 2001
18. Amendment of section 18 of Act of 2001
19. Amendment of section 28 of Act of 2001
20. Amendment of section 48 of Act of 2001
21. Amendment of section 49 of Act of 2001
22. Amendment of section 58 of Act of 2001
23. Certain provisions of Act of 2001 not to have effect
24. Transitional provisions

"For, lo, the wicked bend their bow, they make ready their arrow upon the string, that they may privily shoot at the upright in heart."

– Psalm 11:2

Operation of the Mental Health Act before 2020

The 2001 Act already provides for the following. It may seem tedious to have to examine it in such detail, but only in this way can you see what the government is doing to trash our basic human rights and prepare the way for a purge of political dissidents. The first letters A-E indicate places where significant changes have been made by the new legislation (which we discuss after this summary):

> The admission involuntarily of a patient, at the request in writing of a registered medical practitioner, to an approved center for treatment. A member of the Garda Siochana can take into custody a person on the grounds that they are suffering a mental disorder that is likely to cause immediate harm to him (the patient) or another person, and then refer the matter to a registered medical practitioner for a recommendation. A consultant psychiatrist at the approved center will then examine the patient and, if in his opinion he is suffering from a mental disorder, make out an order of admission ("an involuntary admission order"). This order expires automatically after 21 days, but additional orders may be made for a further period not exceeding three months. Further "renewal orders" allow the patient to be detained for another 6 months and for recurring periods of 12 months thereafter.

The consulting psychiatrist must notify the Mental Health Commission in writing that the patient has been admitted involuntarily. He must also notify the patient in writing, stating that he is entitled, among other things, to legal representation, to communicate with the Inspector of Mental Health Services, and to have his detention reviewed by a tribunal. He must also be informed in writing of the general nature of the treatment he is to receive. The three-person tribunal must comprise a consulting psychiatrist, a lawyer, and another person, usually a qualified practitioner in the field of medicine or nursing [A]. Each member has a vote and decisions are based on a simple majority.

Upon receipt of the involuntary admission order, the Commission must put the case before a tribunal comprising three persons, appoint a legal representative for the patient (if he does not already have one), and direct in writing a member of the panel of consulting psychiatrists to (i) interview the patient [B], (ii) discuss details of the case (including proposed treatment) with the consulting psychiatrist who is treating the patient, and (iii) review any relevant records [C]. His report is then passed to the tribunal which, having reviewed the facts of the case and determined that all necessary procedural steps have been completed satisfactorily, approve the involuntary admission order. To assist with its review the tribunal may in writing direct that certain persons attend before it on a date and time specified to give evidence [D]. If he decides to appeal the making of the order, the patient may do so within 14 days and have his case reviewed by the Circuit Court [E].

Now let's see what the 2020 Act has changed:

[A] The tribunal is reduced from three members to one. This lone member must be a lawyer with at least 7 years' experience in the practice of law. He is not required to have any medical qualifications.

[B] The consulting psychiatrist does not have to interview the patient if "the exigencies of the public health emergency" prevent him from doing so. If that is the case, then the Commission can appoint another member off the panel, but he too can claim that the same "exigencies" prevent him from doing so. In fact, the tribunal itself can claim that the same "exigencies" prevent it from consulting with a member of the panel.

[C] There is no requirement now to do either of these (ii or iii). Instead the consulting psychiatrist who is treating the patient will submit a report on the patient to the tribunal.

[D] The tribunal can complete its review without calling any person before it, not even the patient in question, his legal representative, or the consulting psychiatrist who is treating him. Persons who would otherwise have been called to appear before the tribunal can instead be directed to submit a written statement.

[E] The right of the patient to appeal to the Circuit Court within 14 days would not appear to be affected. As we shall see, however, this option may not be available in practice.

Future targets of the police state

To appreciate just how draconian these new powers are, consider the following hypothetical case: A police officer stops a person in the street and, following a brief discussion, decides that he may be suffering from a mental disorder. He takes the person (against his will) to a mental institution where, following an examination, the consulting psychiatrist reaches the same conclusion. He sends the involuntary admission order to the one-man tribunal which decides, without interviewing anyone, to approve the order. The person so detained can then be forcibly medicated under section 57(1) of the Mental Health Act 2001:

> 57.—(1) The consent of a patient shall be required for treatment except where, in the opinion of the consultant psychiatrist responsible for the care and treatment of the patient, the treatment is necessary to safeguard the life of the patient, to restore his or her health, to alleviate his or her condition, or to relieve his or her suffering, and by reason of his or her mental disorder the patient concerned is incapable of giving such consent. Treatment not requiring consent.

A heavily medicated person will not be able to appeal his detention to the Circuit Court under section 19(1) of the Mental Health Act 2001. Note also that, under this provision, the authorities can have the person vaccinated against Covid-19 against his will as treatment "necessary to safeguard the life of the patient."

Consider the plight of this man: A few hours earlier he was walking quite happily down the street; now he is medicated, vaccinated, and isolated in a mental institution, detained against his will, and reliant on the institution to notify his legal representative that an involuntary admission order has been made against him. It could take a week or more to secure his release, assuming this is even possible. The provisions of the Health Emergency Measures Act could render him permanently detained in that location if the police officer concerned, or a registered medical practitioner, believes he may also be infected with the Covid-19 virus.

There is not an ounce of hyperbole in any part of this example. If, for political reasons, the government (including a future government) ever decided to quietly eliminate existing or potential political opponents, it now has the power to do so. They need the complicit assistance of only a few people – a police officer or two, a psychiatrist, and a lawyer – to carry out this diabolical act. These powers are no different from those of the USSR in the 1930s.

The efficacy of psychotropic drugs today is such that a permanent chemical lobotomy is easy to induce. Other mind-altering drugs can be used to inflict permanent damage in more subtle, undetectable ways. These include drugs that cause paranoia, mental confusion, severe loss of concentration, emotional volatility, crippling depression, chronic insomnia, and many other distressing conditions that would turn the most strident dissident into a mumbling misfit.

Important video presentation

We would urge readers to see a 9-minute video by an Irish lawyer, Ms Tracey O'Mahony [see photo], which was published on YouTube on 4th April: Link-

In it she describes with chilling accuracy the political catastrophe that threatens our nation on foot of the powers unleashed by this new legislation.

Should her video become unavailable, an audio-only version may be found at this link:

CONCLUSION

Ireland is now under Marxist rule. The two pieces of legislation that we have examined show clearly the sociopathic character of the government that produced them. They are designed to do serious long-term damage to our economy, to our social fabric, and to the norms and values which enable a democracy to function.

The Irish parliament, too, has been shown for what it is, a cynical assembly of socialists, driven by greed and a passionate contempt for the 'old world order', the traditional Christian values which sustained our nation in times past.

Any deputy who voted for either of these Acts voted for tyranny, for an Ireland which will shortly be owned and controlled by the venal elite who run the international banking system. Unemployment will remain at intolerably high levels, many will lose their homes, thousands of small businesses will crumble, a huge swathe of the middle class will forfeit a substantial part of their savings, the public finances will contract dramatically, and taxation will soar. And for what? Deaths from suicide alone will exceed the numbers who are likely to die from Covid-19.

To top it all, the government has given itself draconian powers which, in the 'wrong hands', could quickly turn our country into a fully-functioning police state.

It is fair to say that most Irish men and women are largely unaware of the great danger our country is facing. The media continues to spew out distracting propaganda which hides the real nature of what is happening. And the few, like Tracey O'Mahony, who dare to challenge the prevailing orthodoxy are dismissed with abusive sneers and ignorant name-calling.

Please share this paper widely via email and encourage everyone you know to watch Ms O'Mahony's video talk.

"And to you who are troubled rest with us, when the Lord Jesus shall be revealed from heaven with his mighty angels,
In flaming fire taking vengeance on them that know not God, and that obey not the gospel of our Lord Jesus Christ:
Who shall be punished with everlasting destruction from the presence of the Lord, and from the glory of his power;
When he shall come to be glorified in his saints, and to be admired in all them that believe (because our testimony among you was believed) in that day."

The Laodicean Church in All its Vain Glory

by Jeremy James

What has to happen before the leaders of the church on earth open their mouths and defend God's people? How many churches have to be closed? How many countries have to be shut down? How many jobs have to be lost? How many businesses have to be destroyed? Just how much damage has to be done before they stand for God's Word and open their mouths?

We have spoken to several professing Christians in recent weeks and found only apathetic submission to the ruling powers. They show no ability to see that the government is not simply "non-Christian" or even even indifferent to Christianity, but actively hostile to it. They are unable to comprehend the magnitude and significance of certain disturbing facts. For example, never at any time since Christianity came to Ireland around 432 AD have Christians in Ireland failed to come together to worship and praise the LORD.

NEVER.

But when the WHO says Boo! they hide in their homes and pretend that an 'online' worship service somehow satisfies the Biblical requirement of true Christian worship. Shame on all those Christian leaders who hide behind this foolishness and fail to face the plain fact that the state has banned true Christian worship.

The doors of our churches are shut – for the first time in nearly two thousand years! Shame on all of those phony 'Christian' leaders for their cowardice and hypocrisy. One would imagine that all of the pastors and preachers across the nation – whether that nation is Ireland or the USA or Australia or whatever – would have immediately convened a crisis meeting (online if necessary) and discussed at length the nature of this blanket prohibition on Christian worship. And having done so, one would imagine that they would then have immediately informed their congregations of the meeting and the steps they were taking to convince the government that a blanket prohibition on Christian worship was unacceptable.

Did they do this? Remember this is the absolute minimum that one would expect in these circumstances, but they did NOTHING, not even the bare minimum. Without as much as a whimper, they locked the doors of our churches. No wonder Christ said in the Book of Revelation that he will have to knock on the door of the church during the age of Laodicea.

These are the same people who would bleat about the shameful way the church in Germany stepped back and did whatever the Nazis demanded. And yet, even then, the churches remained open! Today they are shut and our own pastors have shut them.

The Marxist 'view' of Christianity.

Caesar

Some believers are saying, 'Oh we must render unto Caesar what is Caesar's.' But this is nonsense. Caesar only owns what belongs to him in law. He cannot steal what belongs to others, and he certainly cannot steal what belongs to the church, namely the right to come together and worship the LORD.

It is horrifying to think that, in the past four weeks, the Lord's Supper has not been publicly celebrated anywhere in Ireland. The explanation we are given for this abomination is that, by coming together – those who might choose to do so – we would risk the health of the nation. We could stand 6 feet apart in an open space and still observe the letter of the law, but NO! that will not do. That's 'congregating' and the government hates 'congregating'. The fact that this prohibition would not make the slightest sense, except in a science fiction movie, is beside the point.

Some believers are saying, "All things work together for good…" This misapplication of Romans 8:28 is also being used by the weak and lazy to justify their apathy. Let's look at the entire verse: "And we know that all things work together for good to them that love God, to them who are the called according to his purpose."

Note those words, "to them that love God". Those who love God keep His commandments, and these include the plain injunction to come together regularly in prayer and worship, to praise the God of heaven and earth, and to celebrate the Lord's Supper.

Others are saying, "Oh yes, things are bad, but God is still on His throne." By this they imply that Christians are under no obligation to challenge what the government is doing to destroy Christian worship, to blaspheme God, to oppress believers, or to inflict irreparable damage on our country through their absurd Marxist policies.

Incredibly it is not even possible to celebrate baptism. The Word of God tells us that, as soon as possible after one comes to faith in Christ, we are to be baptized. This entails attendance at this special ceremony by a number of believing witnesses – which the authorities will not allow. In effect, the government has banned baptism.

The Power of Darkness

If you do not see the Satanic thrust in all that the government is doing, then we suggest you look more carefully. No public worship. No public prayer. No baptisms. No Christian marriages. No celebrating of the Lord's Supper. No Bible study. No preaching. No street witnessing. No Christian counselling. No visiting the sick. No funerals. No sharing of the Gospel…

> "When I was daily with you in the temple, > ye stretched forth no hands against me:
> but this is your hour, and > the power of darkness."
> – Luke 22:53

But these are exceptional times, some might plead. Really? What makes them exceptional? A slightly increased risk of premature death, a risk (if it even exists) that is greatly magnified by the fear of death which grips the hearts of unbelievers. This fear in turn is stoked constantly by new reports – incessant, uncontested, on every news channel – which repeat over and over again the same subliminal message, Be afraid, be very afraid.

A true Christian should be able to see that his mind is being manipulated by the media and that the 'threat', such as it is, does not come remotely close to justifying what our Marxist governments are doing – to our church, to our people, and to our nation.

Your pastors should be explaining all of this to you. So too should your church elders. But they are not. Most haven't a clue. They have ignored the plain truth of God's Word for so long that they lack the necessary Scriptural foundation to understand what is happening. They are not even bothering to challenge the forces that are attacking the very fabric of the church.

The Leaven of Herod

"And he charged them, saying, Take heed, beware of the leaven of the Pharisees, and of the leaven of Herod." (Mark 8:15). Throughout the Bible leaven refers to all that is false – such as hyprocisy, heresy, lies and deception. In Mark 8:15 Jesus warns of the lies devised by false religious teachers, but he also warns of the lies being told by our government ("Herod"). The leaven of Herod is of particular concern because governments today have so many ways to tell their lies. They also have great power and, by the use of coercion and various means of enforcement, are able to control and subjugate the people.

Our pastors and preachers should be warning of the leaven of Herod, but they are not!

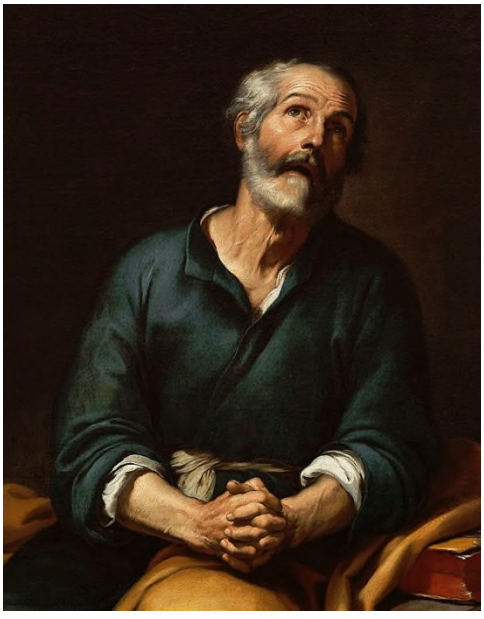

Herod the Great

At present the law of the land is telling Christians that they cannot come together and worship the LORD. This conflicts with the law of God. They are also being told that they cannot preach the Gospel and spread the good news of Christ Jesus. Should we obey? The Bible says no. Consider the arrest of the apostles and the other disciples in Acts chapter 4:

"And as they spake unto the people, the priests, and the captain of the temple, and the Sadducees, came upon them, being grieved that they taught the people, and preached through Jesus the resurrection from the dead. And they laid hands on them [i.e. arrested them], and put them in hold [prison] unto the next day: for it was now eventide. Howbeit many of them which heard the word believed; and the number of the men was about five thousand. And it came to pass on the morrow, that their rulers, and elders, and scribes, and Annas the high priest, and Caiaphas, and John, and Alexander, and as many as were of the kindred of the high priest, were gathered together at Jerusalem." (Acts 4:1-6)

The rulers of the land – the effective government under Roman jurisdiction – had ordered them NOT to preach the Gospel. If they went ahead and did so it would be illegal, an offense under the law, punishable by imprisonment. How did Peter and John answer the government? -

"But that it spread no further among the people, let us straitly threaten them, that they speak henceforth to no man in this name [the name of Christ Jesus]. And they called them, and commanded them not to speak at all nor teach in the name of Jesus. But Peter and John answered and said unto them, Whether it be right in the sight of God to hearken unto you more than unto God, judge ye. For we cannot but speak the things which we have seen and heard." (Acts 4:17-20)

The Apostle Peter by Murillo

Obedience

When God gives us a job to do, we do it! The Apostles Peter and John made this perfectly clear. The government could view their behavior however they liked ("judge ye") but we must give the message. We too must do as the LORD has commanded – celebrate the Lord's Supper, sings praises to the LORD on the sabbath, visit and comfort the sick, baptize new converts, pray together for God's children and the countless lost souls who have yet to accept the Gospel, perform marriage ceremonies for believers, study God's Word in a classroom setting, preach the Word to believers, counsel believers in need of guidance and support, bury the dead with respect, preach the Gospel to unbelievers… And we have the assurance of God's Word that we can do all of this without endangering anyone!

This work is ESSENTIAL and should be regarded as essential by all pastors, preachers and believers. Christian leaders should defend and uphold this work and demand that governments everywhere enact no laws that ban what God permits.

Psalm 150

Praise ye the LORD. Praise God in his sanctuary:
praise him in the firmament of his power.
Praise him for his mighty acts:
praise him according to his excellent greatness.
Praise him with the sound of the trumpet:
praise him with the psaltery and harp.
Praise him with the timbrel and dance:
praise him with stringed instruments and organs.
Praise him upon the loud cymbals:
praise him upon the high sounding cymbals.
Let every thing that hath breath praise the LORD.
Praise ye the LORD.

Which part of this Psalm is difficult to understand? Where does it say we cannot come together and worship the LORD when our government forbids it? Have I missed that verse?

Note too the presence of musical instruments – which are overwhelming evidence that these people are worshipping and praising the LORD together.

Conspiracy

The Bible tells us that the Herodians and the Pharisees worked together to destroy Jesus (Matthew 22:16; Mark 3:6; Mark 12:13). That, dear reader is a CONSPIRACY! That conspiracy has continued to the present day, when Marxists, Freemasons, Kabbalists, and Luciferians conspire together to destroy the Bride of Christ. Christ is not on earth, so they hunt down His Bride instead.

Is any of this difficult to understand? Of course not! The Satanists will tell every lie they can to deceive the saints and lead them to destruction. It is imperative, therefore, that the saints stand firm in God's Word and do as the LORD instructed. He is our High Tower. We are inside that high tower ONLY when we are obedient to His Word and have faith in His promises.

When will the Satanists cease from their lies? Never. Their lies will only get worse – more outrageous, more blasphemous, more venomous. Unless we immerse ourselves daily in God's Word and pray for discernment, we will fall for some of these lies. We will forget that we have an Enemy and that, under his direction, his legion of votaries will never stop until they have taken over the earth.

The Satanic world system

Jesus said: "For where two or three are gathered together in my name, there am I in the midst of them." (Matthew 18:20). Gathered together. In his name. And when we do, he is in our midst. What a glorious promise!

But Satanists despise it. They don't want true believers coming together, praying to Jesus, and bringing light into the world. They thrive in spiritual darkness. While they pretend otherwise, they know that Christ is the light of the world and that he has overcome Satan. So, if they are to take complete control of this earth on behalf of their demon Master, they must silence true Christianity.

WHO threat of 30 March 2020

World Marxism threatens our families.

This is what happens when we allow the Satanic Elite to close down our churches.

Preachers and pastors who allow them to do this, sitting back and saying nothing, are betraying the body of Christ. They too have become accustomed to the darkness and flee the light that would expose their sins. They experience neither delight in the truth nor revulsion in the face of iniquity. As Jesus said, they are neither hot nor cold.

We have today a manmade church which looks remarkably like the true church. Unless we look closely, they might seem like twins. But the manmade church will gladly lock its doors when ordered to do so, without demur and without any obvious discomfort.

No public worship. No public prayer. No baptisms. No Christian marriages. No celebrating of the Lord's Supper. No Bible study. No preaching. No street witnessing. No Christian counselling. No visiting the sick. No respect for the dead. No sharing of the Gospel…

This is the Church of Laodicea, a church dominated by people whom the Lord will spew out of his mouth. Has it occurred to these individuals, or to their congregations, that they are denying Christ before men? Has this awful thought never crossed their minds?

> "Also I say unto you, Whosoever shall confess me before men, him shall the Son of man also confess before the angels of God: But he that denieth me before men shall be denied before the angels of God." (Luke 12:8-9)

We would strongly urge the church leadership to wake up and weigh the magnitude of what they are doing, that by their silence they are allowing the Enemy to deny the glory due to God, to oppress the saints, and to withhold the Gospel message from a world that sorely needs it.

True pastors

We find comfort in the knowledge that there are still true pastors in the field, men of God who are making a genuine effort to uphold God's Word. While there are doubtless many more than the two we mention here, we have the facts in this instance and would like to share them.

After the lockdown began, Temple Baptist Church and the King James Bible Baptist Church, both in Greenville, Mississippi, began broadcasting services via low-power FM radio to the cars in their parking lot for about three weeks. Attendees would sit in their cars, spaced at least a car-width apart, with the windows rolled up. By any reasonable estimation they were acting in accordance with the Coronavirus guidelines. On Thursday 9th April, as they sat in their respective cars listening to a sermon by Pastor Arthur Scott, the police arrived – about ten squad cars in all, we understand – and began trolling the cars in the lot and intimidating the occupants. They issued $500 fines to those who stayed and listened to the sermon by Pastor Scott. One officer even informed Pastor Charles Hamilton, who was a steward at the event, that his Second Amendment rights were suspended.

Notice on Temple Baptist Church Facebook page.

As Pastor Hamilton later remarked, it was illegal to hold a church service in a safe and secure manner, but perfectly legal to sell booze at a liquor store. The sale of liquor is deemed an essential service under the Coronavirus guidelines, but the worship of God is not.

These parishioners were honest, decent folk, many quite elderly, but they were treated like criminals. Several were threatened with the possibility of a jail sentence.

Police in Kentucky are using a different method to intimidate and harass Christians who attend a drive-in service. Their car license plates are recorded and sent to the local health authority which can then forcibly 'quarantine' the so-called offenders for 14 days.

Our heartfelt thanks to Pastors Scott and Hamilton, and to their faithful flocks, for honoring the LORD and His Son, for coming together (as best they could) and bearing witness to the truth of the Gospel. Their two churches – Temple Baptist Church and the King James Bible Baptist Church, both in Greenville – are an example to all who love God and want to honor His Holy Name.

"I know thy works, that thou art neither cold nor hot:
I would thou wert cold or hot. So then because thou art lukewarm, and neither cold nor hot,
I will spue thee out of my mouth."
- Revelation 3:15-16

CONCLUSION

We are not asking anyone to break the law, but we are asking all true believers to protest against a law which is obviously hostile to Christianity, a law which violates the instructions that the LORD in heaven gave to His church on earth. We would not have been directed by the Holy Spirit to do these things if it were not possible for us to do them. God is not the author of confusion. The Satanic world system has engineered a situation where it, and it alone, decides what we can and cannot do. It wants to overrule God and oppress His people. There is plenty of room, where a pandemic situation genuinely exists, to continue to observe God's holy will and keep His commandments. Alas, the church of Laodicea will not bother to seek that opening, preferring instead to submit to the edicts of those whose god is Baal, whose shrine is the obelisk in Washington DC, and whose greatest pleasure is blaspheming the Living God.

Be sure of one thing: If Christian leaders fail to contest the wickedness that is currently enslaving the visible church, the next cycle of chaos and oppression will be even worse.

The Gods of Ancient Egypt and the Mark of the Beast

by Jeremy James

We now live in a world where social behavior is overwhelmingly determined by fear generated through the media. The object of that fear is "an untimely death", and this in turn is encrusted with a number of subsidiary fears, such as fear of illness, fear of a financial penalty, fear of imprisonment, fear of job loss, fear of poverty, fear of starvation, and – most importantly – fear of ridicule.

The media at this time, as part of the social control program known as 'lockdown', is dedicated virtually full-time to stoking and maximizing these fears. To that extent the media has been weaponized and the target is the general population.

There is probably no social situation in the Bible as fraught and terrifying as that involving a siege where the entire population was starving and faced with a slow, agonizing death. We are told that on such occasions, many mothers boiled and ate their children. This was true of the siege of Samaria which took place during the time of Elisha. The Syrian troops had surrounded the city in vast numbers and were content to sit and wait as the besieged masses starved to death.

The lockdown was working admirably until four wretched lepers had a very revealing discussion. Here is how it went:

> "[And there were four leprous men at the entering in of the gate (of Samaria): and they said one to another,] Why sit we here until we die? If we say, We will enter into the city, then the famine is in the city, and we shall die there: and if we sit still here, we die also. Now therefore come, and let us fall unto the host of the Syrians: if they save us alive, we shall live; and if they kill us, we shall but die." (2 Kings 7:3-4)

These four "leprous men" in Samaria were able to use their minds, their power of reason, to overcome their fears. If only the leaders in the church today would utilize the "spirit of power and of love and of a sound mind" which all men of faith possess. They would realize that God has not given us a spirit of fear and is prepared at all times to succor and support all who trust in Him – that is all who trust in Him completely.

The next time you see Fauci and Birx stand before the nation and spout their propaganda, remember the four leprous men of Samaria. As frail as they were, they could still use their minds and think objectively. They would have looked at the 'briefing' on our TV screen and asked how it was possible for such patent imposters to imprison a nation.

The Baphomet hand sign.

Pharmakeia

These people work for the pharmaceutical mafia – Merck, Glaxo, Pfizer, Sanofi, Bayer, Hoffman LaRoche, Novartis, Eli Lilly, etc. These companies make their own rules. They buy politicians and regulators. They alone decide what is 'safe' and what is not safe. As hard as it is to believe, if their vaccines cause harm they are immune from prosecution. Their vaccines are seldom tested using controlled double-blind trials and a valid placebo – the minimum standard needed for new medical products.

The banks can take your savings, but defective pharmaceutical products can take your life. Such is the nature of sorcery. We need to remember that the Antichrist will come to power in part through the influence of sorcery on the minds of men: "...for by thy sorceries [Greek: pharmakeia] were all nations deceived." (Revelation 18:23)

If it is this easy to deceive a nation of over 330 million people, the task facing the Antichrist may not be as daunting as we had once imagined. If a criminal consortium of pharmaceutical companies can induce so many people to remain under siege in their own homes, to abandon their livelihoods, to disregard the future needs of their children, to squander their savings, and – incredibly – to neglect all worship of God, then the Man of Sin will easily garner millions of followers in only a few weeks. And if anyone says "Hey, I don't trust that guy," he or she will be intimidated in public, reported to the police, or – heaven forbid – mocked on social media.

The Lord's Supper

Christ told us that his yoke is easy and his burden is light. He did not lay onerous rules and demands on us. He asked simply that we love our Father in heaven with our whole heart, that we treat others as we would like to be treated ourselves, and that we keep his commandments.

At the Last Supper, he took bread, broke it, gave it to his disciples and said: "This is my body which is given for you: this do in remembrance of me." (Luke 22:19)

But for the past month or more countless churches across the world have failed to obey this commandment. Why? Because the Marxists and Freemasons who control our governments made a law forbidding them to do so. This law is supposedly designed to 'protect' the people, but a leprous man could see that this is nonsense. Sweden has no such law, and dozens of experienced epidemiologists across the world affirm that 'lockdowns' are pointless.

Propaganda

When men and women stop using their God-given power of reason they fall prey to propaganda. Today we are witnessing a strategically planned advertising tsunami, not unlike the one that the world will experience when the Antichrist arrives.

The Man of Sin is called "the beast" because, spiritually, he is akin to a wild animal. He is utterly disobedient. He has not been tamed by the Truth but revels in the flesh and is rebellious to the core. A great many people today want a leader like this, a Nimrod-like rebel who will teach them to be as rebellious as he is. Instead of becoming a 'god', as they like to imagine, they will become demons in human form.

In any discussion of the mark of the beast, it is important to bear in mind that anyone who accepts it is beyond salvation.

> "And the smoke of their torment ascendeth up for ever and ever: and they have no rest day nor night, who worship the beast and his image, and whosoever receiveth the mark of his name." (Revelation 14:11)

"And I saw thrones, and they sat upon them, and judgment was given unto them: and I saw the souls of them that were beheaded for the witness of Jesus, and for the word of God, and which had not worshipped the beast, neither his image, neither had received his mark upon their foreheads, or in their hands; and they lived and reigned with Christ a thousand years." (Revelation 20:4)

Once they take the mark, it's as though they are no longer spiritually capable of repentance. Some have speculated that the 'mark' may include a component which permanently alters a person's biology or cognitive function. Whether this will be the case, we cannot say, but we must acknowledge that Scripture clearly teaches that ANYONE who takes the mark is lost forever.

A person who seeks to save his life by taking the mark will actually lose it, while someone who turns to Christ and refuses the mark under penalty of death will save it. It is just as Christ said, "For whosoever will save his life shall lose it: but whosoever will lose his life for my sake, the same shall save it." (Luke 9:24)

The Ten Plagues of Egypt

To understand the End Time in the context of all that went before it – the great sweep of history – we need to look carefully at what the Word of God has highlighted for our benefit. Apart from Calvary, the last great "battle" between God and the forces of Satan took place in Egypt around 1430BC. We know that this encounter is of great spiritual significance because the LORD refers to it many times in His Word. Again and again He reminds His people that He took them out of the iron furnace with a mighty hand and a stretched out arm. He also asked His people to recount His incredible exploits to their children, to keep alive for generations to come the memory of what took place in the land of Egypt during the Ten Plagues and the Exodus.

Humiliating the “gods”

The LORD humiliated the "gods" of Egypt when He sent the Ten Plagues. In doing this He demonstrated to all mankind that He alone is sovereign, that He alone is LORD:

> "For I will pass through the land of Egypt this night, and will smite all the firstborn in the land of Egypt, both man and beast; and against all the gods of Egypt I will execute judgment: I am the LORD." (Exodus 12:12)

We need to weigh this statement carefully. It tells us that, not only was the Exodus designed to free the children of Israel from the tyranny of Pharaoh (a figure of the End Time Antichrist), but it was also framed as a devastating public rebuke to the gods or demons (fallen angels) that controlled Egypt.

Moses’ father-in-law referred to this great triumph when he said:

> “Blessed be the LORD, who hath delivered you out of the hand of the Egyptians, and out of the hand of Pharaoh, who hath delivered the people from under the hand of the Egyptians. Now I know that the LORD is greater than all gods: for in the thing wherein they dealt proudly he was above them.” (Exodus 18:10-11)

The pride of Satan and his top lieutenants must have been severely hurt by this debacle. The gods of Egypt were seen by all the world at that time as the most powerful of all the gods, just as the magicians of Egypt were seen as the most powerful of all magicians, and yet they were thoroughly trounced by the LORD God of Israel. The gods or demons of the Nile, the sun, the sky, the wind, and so forth were unable to mount even a token resistance. Their humiliation could not have been greater.

The LORD even protected His own people while pouring down judgment on Egypt. The Egyptians themselves could see how this ‘foreign’ God could protect His chosen in Goshen while their own gods, supposedly all-powerful in their respective domains, could provide them with no protection whatsoever!

Moses and Aaron before Pharaoh

Satan and his demon hoard must have been convulsed with anger. Here was Moses, the meekest of men, raising his rod and defying – with stunning success – the proud and boastful leader of the rebellious angels. This may explain why Satan later tried to steal the body of Moses after his death – see Jude 1:9.

The Seven Year Famine

Even before the Ten Plagues, the gods of Egypt had received a stinging rebuke from the LORD. About 400 years earlier, a great famine struck Egypt. It lasted seven years and caused widespread disruption. Seemingly, the annual inundation of the Nile, which came around as regularly as clockwork, had failed to occur. Unbelievably, this happened seven times in succession. Everyone would have known that God – the one, true Living God – was judging Egypt. They would also have known that divine providence had given them a savior in the form of Joseph, whose auspicious appearance signalled the existence of a Deity whom they had not previously known. Through prudent planning this unusual man – who worshipped the unknown God – laid up an ample supply of stored grain over seven bountiful years, thus saving Egypt from extinction.

Joseph interprets the dreams of Pharaoh

A later generation of Egyptians changed this historical episode into one which honored one of their own gods instead. An inscribed stela relates the following tradition about Khnum – the sun god Ra in his dawning aspect – and an ancient ruler named Djoser: "It tells how Egypt suffered seven terrible years of famine, because the Nile did not rise high enough to flood the agricultural land. Djoser summoned the wisest of the priests who could read the sacred books and ordered him to discover the source of the inundation." (G Pinch, Egyptian Mythology, p.154). Following their advice Djoser made offerings to the deities who controlled the inundation, notably Khnum, who later appeared to him in a dream and promised to allow the Nile to resume its annual inundation.

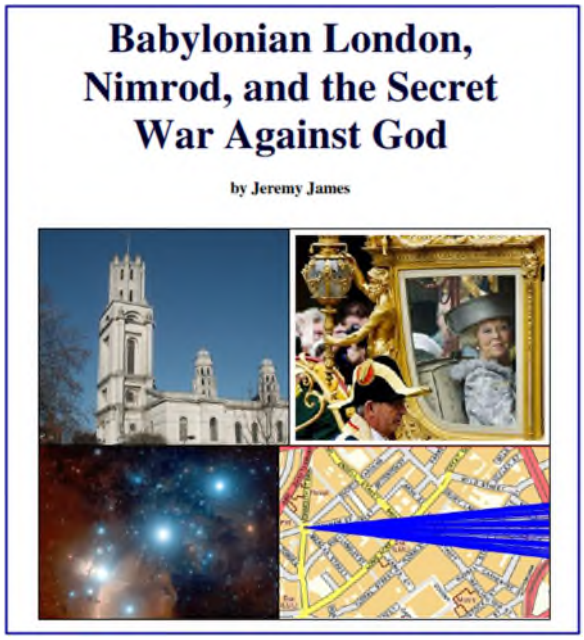

We can see here how the facts were changed to turn Djoser (Joseph) into an Egyptian ruler who used his skill as a dreamer to contact the god Khnum and learn what must be done to restore normality.

It must have annoyed the fallen angels even more to find that the LORD had recorded their humiliation in His Word, where it would be preserved for all time. Every succeeding generation of mankind would know that He had executed judgment "against all the gods of Egypt" and "in the thing wherein they dealt proudly he was above them."

The Antichrist as a modern Pharaoh

The great End Time conflict will, in some respects, be an act of revenge by Satan against mankind and in particular against God's chosen people. He wants to plague the earth in much the same way that God plagued Egypt and, through the Antichrist, to do what Pharaoh was unable to do. In this way he will appear to be demonstrating to one and all his ability to compete with God on his own terms.

Of course, we know that in attempting this he is gravely mistaken – and laughably so – and yet we need to see how this outrageous ambition will shape the way future events unfold.

In our previous work, Babylonian London, Nimrod, and the Secret War Against God (#56), we showed how the modern city of London is, in occult terms, a contemporary manifestation of the ancient Egyptian city of Heliopolis, the 'City of the Sun.' The Luciferian cult of Freemasonry, through which Great Britain has been exercising enormous influence on world events, is steeped in the worship of the gods of ancient Egypt. In a very real sense, the same gods or demons that controlled Egypt in ancient times are now attempting to control the world as a whole through the Masonic abomination based in London.

If we examine the mythology of these 'gods', and in particular the symbols associated with them, we will get a better understanding of the mark of the beast and what it is likely to comprise.

Khepri

We will begin with what is probably the best known of all Egyptian religious symbols, the scarab or dung beetle. Here is how Geraldine Pinch describes the god or deity behind this symbol:

> The dawn manifestation of the sun god, usually shown as a scarab beetle, Khepri was one of the four main forms of the sun god, Ra. His name derives from the Ancient Egyptian word kheper meaning "to become" or "to be transformed." ... and Khepri was the one who transformed or "created himself."
> "The scarab beetle's habit of pushing a large ball of dung was transformed into the image of a giant beetle pushing the sun and other celestial bodies across the sky."
> "In the Book of the Dead, Khepri is invoked to overcome the intense fear of putrefaction. The deceased declares that his corpse will not decay because "I am Khepri. My body parts will continue to exist." This promise of a permanently renewable life after death made the scarab form of Khepri the most popular of all Egyptian symbols. Millions of scarabs were made as amulets over a period of 2,500 years."

As we can see, this symbol is highly revered by those who worship the gods of Egypt. It promises new life, rebirth, and freedom from decay. Since it represents the sun god in his "dawn manifestation" it depicts the dawning of a new day, or a new age – a New World Order.

The scarab or dung beetle.

The Queen of England and her husband, the Duke of Edinburgh, unveiled a huge sculpture of two scarabs at London Zoo on 3 June, 1999. The date alone tells us that this was an important Illuminati ritual, where 999 is a proxy for 666, and 3 June (3rd of the 6th) represents 36 or six times six. The sum of all numbers from 1 to 36 equals 666.

The famous statue of Khepri at Karnak, in the form of a scarab or dung beetle.

She was officially at the zoo to open a new Biodiversity Center, while the “unveiling” of the scarab sculpture was seemingly no more than a side show. We could find only one photo of the event, which shows how low-key it was.

The Queen of England seldom unveils a public monument and when she does it has occult significance.

A modern scarab symbol

In 1966 the Dow Chemical Corporation released a symbol which later became known as the international Biohazard symbol:

This happens to be surprisingly suggestive of a scarab – see images below:

The Biohazard symbol itself denotes a high level warning or alert, the presence of extreme danger, a potent substance that can destroy life if not handled with great care.

This is very much how the occultists view their relationship with the "gods" or demons. If they obey the strict rules of the supernatural world – with its numerology, symbology, ritual and astrological timing – they can harness unseen forces and direct them according to their will. However, if one were to attempt this without first undergoing the necessary rites of initiation and arcane induction one would risk serious harm or even death.

A possible candidate for the mark of the beast

Given the nature of the symbol and the way it relates to a public ceremony performed by the Queen of England on a potent occult date, a date steeped in the numerology of 666, we can ask whether it might qualify as a candidate for the mark of the beast? -

> "And he causeth all, both small and great, rich and poor, free and bond, to receive a mark in their right hand, or in their foreheads: And that no man might buy or sell, save he that had the mark, or the name of the beast, or the number of his name. Here is wisdom. Let him that hath understanding count the number of the beast: for it is the number of a man; and his number is Six hundred threescore and six." (Revelation 13:16-18)

While the Word of God does not state that the mark must embody the number 666 in some manner, many commentators are of the opinion that it will. They base their assumption on the close affinity between the name and the number, specifically the phrase, "the number of his name." Given the immense pride of this rebellious individual, the ultimate Man of Sin, it is reasonable to surmise that his mark will be associated in some way with either his name or his number, and since his name and number are connected, the number 666 is likely to feature somewhere in his mark.

If we examine the Biohazard symbol we make two surprising discoveries. Not only does it contain the numeral 6 in three places, but it also contains it in three places in mirror form:

Plain form Mirror form

The mirror theme is important in occult symbolism since it expresses the core esoteric concept, As above, So below. This is the notion that the physical world is a reflection of the higher world and that a change made in the higher world using a properly executed magical ritual will manifest as a corresponding change in the physical world.

As we probe deeper, we find that the associations between this 'modern' symbol and the gods of Ancient Egypt become even more apparent. Let's consider the god Khnum, whom we have already encountered in the story of Joseph. Khnum was the god of the annual Nile inundation which effected a massive transfer of rich alluvial soil from the high mountainous regions of Ethiopia into the Nile valley. This annual event was vital to the continued prosperity of Egypt and underpinned her entire social order.

Angela Merkel giving her customary 'Salutation to the Sun' hand sign. The sun god Ra in his "dawning" aspect is called Khepri (see text).

Here is how Geraldine Pinch described him:

> "The god Khnum was usually shown as a man with the head of a long-horned ram. He was thought to control the Nile inundation, and he embodied the dangerous but life-giving power of this annual flood."
> "Later texts and scenes that describe the conception and birth of divine kings show Khnum making the royal body and its ka or double on his potter's wheel."
> "…Khnum was sometimes identified with the soul of other deities such as Geb, Osiris, and Ra. Most Underworld Books show the noctural sun as a man with a ram's head, because it is the soul of Ra that is passing through the underworld."

In the northern kingdom Khnum was more usually known by the name Banebdjedet:

> "A ram god associated with the town of Mendes (Djedet), Banebdjedet was the northern equivalent of the god Khnum. His sacred animal was a ram or a goat... As the word for ram (ba) and the word for soul or manifestation [ka] sounded the same in Egyptian, ram gods were often regarded as manifestations of other deities. Banebdjedet could be shown with four rams' heads representing the fours bas of the creator sun god. This linked Banebdjedet with Osiris, who was often named as a ba of the sun god. The Book of the Heavenly Cow states that "the ba of Osiris is the ram of Mendes"... Banebdjedet could also be identified with the first four gods to rule Egypt: Ra-Atum, Shu, Geb, and Osiris. Huge granite shrines for these four deities were set up in the sanctuary of Mendes." (Pinch)

Following the work of the French occultist, Eliphas Levi, this god became known in the West as Baphomet, the horned goat god of Mendes. This made him seem separate from the pantheon of Egyptian deities and disguised his role vis-à-vis Ra and Osiris. When examined in his proper context, however, we can see how Baphomet is really the horn-headed god, Khnum, and one of the principal deities worshipped in Ancient Egypt.

We can infer his status from the embodiment of his iconic horns in three places in the Biohazard symbol:

Khnum / Goat of Mendes

Ouroboros

One of the most important Egyptian symbols to enter the Western occult tradition was the Ouroboros, the coiled snake swallowing its own tail. It represents eternity and infinity, the cycle of rebirth (since the snake was believed to renew itself by sloughing off its skin), and the potent power of Ra which, if misused, can prove fatal, rather like the venom of a snake.

The snake was revered for its protective prowess and for this reason was used as an amulet – known as the uraeus – on the headdress worn by royalty.

The ouroboros features in three of the Rider-Waite tarot cards and in countless ways on occult jewellry.

Significantly, the snake also appears in the Biohazard symbol, three times as a standard ouroboros and once as a coiled serpent.

Above: Ouroboros

Below: Coiled serpent

Apis

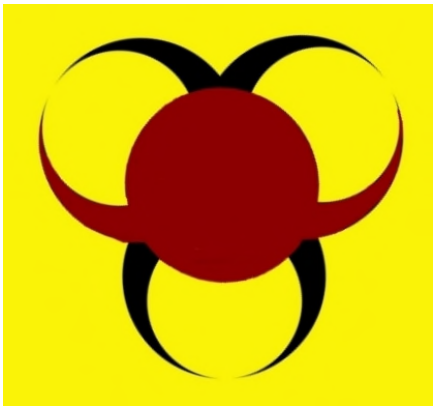

The god Apis, which is normally shown as a bull with a sun disc between his horns, is also found in the Biohazard symbol.

Apis

"Apis was a bull kept at Memphis who was the most important of all sacred animals. In life, Apis was honored as the physical manifestation of Ptah; in death he was worshipped as a form of Osiris… When an Apis bull died, he was mourned as if he were Osiris himself and given an extravagant funeral." (Pinch)

Apis bronze at the Ashmolean Museum, Oxford.

Hathor

The Biohazard symbol would also seem to include an allusion to the goddess Hathor:

Hathor

"Hathor was the golden goddess who helped women to give birth, the dead to be reborn, and the cosmos to be renewed. This complex deity could function as the mother, consort, and daughter of the creator sun god. Many lesser goddesses came to be regarded as "names" of Hathor in her contrasting benevolent and destructive aspects. She was most commonly shown as a beautiful woman wearing a red solar disk between a pair of cow's horns. Hathor's name means "domain (or mansion) of Horus," which may make her the original mother of the celestial falcon." (Pinch)

Thoth

The god Thoth is shown below in his traditional form of an Ibis, with its long curving bill. He, too, has a place in the Biohazard symbol:

Thoth

"Thoth's offering of the whole eye (the wedjat) to Horus and Horus's offering of it to Osiris became the precedent for all offerings to gods and spirits."

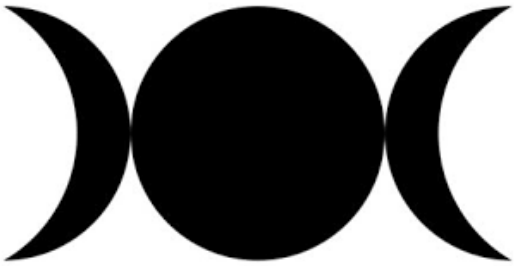

"Thoth played an important role on everyone's afterlife. In the Pyramid Texts the dead kings fly up to the heavens on the wings of Thoth."

> "All funerary spells could be regarded as works of Thoth. A tradition grew up that Thoth had written forty-two books containing all the knowledge needed by humanity. Some of this was occult knowledge to be revealed only to initiates who would not misuse the power it gave them. The Greeks identified Thoth with their messenger god, Hermes. The body of literature known as the Hermetica claimed to preserve the teachings of Hermes Trismegistus (Thoth the Thrice Great)." (Pinch)

The center of the Biohazard symbol is suggestive of the wedjat or Eye of Horus, with which Thoth is closely associated.

The Triple Goddess of Witchcraft

Practitioners of modern witchcraft will even find in the Biohazard symbol a close approximation of one of their favorite symbols, the Triple Goddess, representing the divine feminine:

Solar Deities

The gods of Ancient Egypt were extensively depicted in their mythology as a group or groups that worked together, especially where it became necessary to navigate the Solar Barque across the sky under the constant threat of attack by the serpent Apophis, the dark god of Chaos. It was the task of these gods to continually produce order out of chaos.

Some of their principal deities – gods and goddesses – were closely associated with the sun and were often shown with a red sun disc above their heads. This motif is also expressed via the solar circles in the Biohazard symbol:

Ra

Sekhmet

Isis

Lunar Deities

The main lunar deities, Thoth and Khonsu, receive similar recognition through the incorporation of crescent moons in the Biohazrd symbol:

Thoth Khonsu

The Mark of the Beast

In the foregoing we have reviewed a good deal of information connecting the 'gods' of Ancient Egypt, the same gods who defied the LORD God of Israel in the time of Moses, and the secret cabal who today are engineering – through the use of sorcery – what they like to call a New World Order.

In order to assess the significance of this finding, we need to look more closely at what the Word of God says about the mark of the beast.

The Greek word for "mark" is charagma (Strong's number G5480), which Strong defines as -

> "from the same as G5482; a scratch or etching, i.e. stamp (as a badge of servitude), or scupltured figure (statue):—graven, mark."

The entry for the same term in Vine's Expository Dictionary states:

> Graven:
> from charasso, "to engrave" (akin to charakter,
> "an impress," RV, marg., of Hbr 1:3), denotes
> (a) "a mark" or "stamp," e.g., Rev 13:16, 17; 14:9, 11;
> 16:2; 19:20; 20:4; 15:2 in some mss.;
> (b) "a thing graven," Act 17:29.

Perhaps the most distinguishing feature of a mark is its visibility. It is difficult to make sense of the way this term is used in the book of Revelation unless the mark is naturally visible to others in the community.

As Strong states, the word charagma is related to the word charax (Strong's G5482), meaning a stake with a sharpened end, like those used to make a palisade or rampart.

Strong also associates the word charagma with a badge of servitude. This is indicative of ownership, where the individual bears a permanent, visible mark which tells the rest of the world that he or she is the property of another person. This certainly conforms with the way this word is used in the book of Revelation, where all who receive the mark are thereafter the property of the Antichrist. The word charax carries a similar idea, where a palisade or rampart is used to encircle or enslave a city under siege.

The Word of God tells us that all true believers belong to Christ, that we have been "bought with a price" (1 Corinthians 6:20). We cannot thereafter become the 'property' of Satan. For those who reject the saving blood of Christ, however, and end up taking the mark of the beast, their enslavement is permanent.

Satan's counterfeit

All true believers are "bought with a price" and enter the body of Christ at the moment they are born again. Thereafter they are sealed by the Holy Spirit and reserved by the Father for His Son unto the day of redemption. To that extent all true believers carry a mark or a seal, albeit an invisible one, through the earnest of the Holy Spirit dwelling within them.

Seen in this light, the mark of the beast is Satan's counterfeit version of God's mark or seal. However he will not be satisfied with an invisible mark. In his pride he wants a mark that the whole world can see, a visible sign of his triumph over mankind.

Through the mark of the beast, Satan is branding his livestock. Every head of cattle in his herd will carry his symbolic number. At first, everyone who submits to his brand will be proud of their action. The rebelliousness buried deep in their own fallen nature will convince them that they are finally on the threshold of fulfilling their true potential and becoming gods in their own right. This was Satan's lie in the Garden and, after six thousand years, it continues to this day to exert the same devastating, seductive allure.

To take the mark of the beast is to take the Luciferian initiation. It means accepting the Antichrist as one's spiritual master. For this to happen, the Antichrist must already have revealed himself to mankind and proclaimed that he is God incarnate.

This means that it will not be possible to take the mark of the beast, in a Scriptural sense, prior to that date. Those who warn of this possibility may have the best of intentions, especially where the purported mark is associated with a vaccine or a microchip, but they are mistaken.

By taking the mark of the beast, a person is doing something which is as destructive spiritually as the worship of his image. This means the Antichrist must already have arrived and revealed himself, otherwise his image could not be worshipped:

> "If any man worship the beast and his image, and receive his mark in his forehead, or in his hand" (Revelation 14:9)
> "...who worship the beast and his image, and whosoever receiveth the mark of his name." (Revelation 14:11)
> "...which had the mark of the beast, and upon them which worshipped his image." (Revelation 16:2)
> "...them that had received the mark of the beast, and them that worshipped his image." (Revelation 19:20)
> "and which had not worshipped the beast, neither his image, neither had received his mark upon their foreheads, or in their hands" (Revelation 20:4)

The number 666

God uses numbers here and there in His Word to signify something other than the number itself. This is not 'numerology', since the number is not being used as a conduit of spiritual power, but merely as a pointer. When He uses the number 7, we know (from the context), that it relates in a special way to His holy will. Equally, when he uses the number 6, we know he is pointing to man and his pride.

When the two numbers combine, as they do in a few places, we have a "battle" where man always loses. When Elisha was mocked and verbally abused by the "little children from the city" in chapter 2 of 2 Kings, "there came forth two she bears out of the wood, and tare forty and two children of them." This number, 42, comprises 7 sixes or 6 sevens. When one confronted the other near Jericho, the number of man was obliterated. (By the way, the KJV calls these "little children" but they were really young adults. The Hebrew word in the first instance is na'ar (Strong's H5288) and in the second yeled (Strong's H3206), each of which can mean "young man." For example, the word yeled is used to describe the young men who advised Rehoboam in 1 Kings 12, while the word na'ar is used to refer to the "young men" who went to battle alongside Abraham in chapter 14 of Genesis.)

In another example, Jehu was commissioned by God to destroy the male descendants of Ahab, an evil king, just as He had previously decreed the execution of all descendants of Jeroboam, and later Baasha. One such group – all with close ties to the house of Ahab – was innocently making its way from Judah to Samaria when they chanced upon Jehu. Before they knew what was happening he had them all arrested and executed:

"And he said, Take them alive. And they took them alive, and slew them at the pit of the shearing house, even two and forty men; neither left he any of them." (2 Kings 10:14)

Once again we see how God decrees the destruction of the wicked. We are shown also, through His use of the number 42, how His purpose cannot be impeded in any way, no matter what man may think to the contrary.

The Sons of Belial who control the cities of Washington, London, Paris, Rome, Berlin, Moscow and Beijing, among others, are all scheduled for destruction. They can recite and magnify their number, 666, as often as they like, but when the time is right the LORD will annihilate every last one of them. The testament that He gave to his Son, Christ Jesus, which we know as the Book of Revelation, contains numerous references – through its repeated use of the number 7 – to His absolute sovereignty and to the certain fulfillment of all His judgments. (The Book even divides the 7 year period of tribulation into two parts, each of 42 months.)

Two Biblical numbers pointing to Salvation

The Bible gives us another important insight into the number 666. It does this by citing explicit numbers in passages dealing with the preservation of the souls of men. The first is the number 276, which is the total number of souls saved from drowning in Acts 27:37 when the ship in which Paul was being transported to Rome foundered on the rocky shores of Malta. The second is the number 153, which is the number of fish caught in the "Miraculous Draught" in John 21:11 when Jesus said, "Cast the net on the right side of the ship, and ye shall find." (John 21:6)

The connection between these three numbers – 666, 276, and 153 – may not be obvious at first, but they have an unusual property in common. The first number, 666, is the sum of all numbers from 1 to 36, inclusive. The second, 276, is the sum of all numbers from 1 to 23, inclusive. And, finally, 153 is the sum of all number from 1 to 17, inclusive.

The last two numbers, 153 and 276, refer to those who are pulled from the sea of humanity and saved, while the number 666 represents all whom Jude describes as the "raging waves of the sea" (Jude 1:13).

The message is clear. Only those who come to Christ are saved; all the rest are lost.

This may be why there are 42 generations – 3 x 14 – in the genealogy of Jesus, as recorded in the gospel of Matthew:

> "So all the generations from Abraham to David are fourteen generations; and from David until the carrying away into Babylon are fourteen generations; and from the carrying away into Babylon unto Christ are fourteen generations." (Matthew 1:17)

It may also explain the occult fascination with the number 42. As we noted earlier, "A tradition grew up that Thoth had written forty-two books containing all the knowledge needed by humanity. Some of this was occult knowledge to be revealed only to initiates who would not misuse the power it gave them." (Pinch) This is the famous Hermetic knowledge which is meant to supplant in all respects the Word of God.

In his popular book, 'The Hitchhiker's Guide to the Galaxy,' Douglas Adams concludes that The Answer to the Ultimate Question of Life, The Universe, and Everything is 42. Lewis Carroll, another British writer of fantasy fiction, also made several references to the number 42 in his writings, including 'Alice in Wonderland' and 'The Hunting of the Snark.' It continues to crop up in popular culture, in ways which show that it has a special place in the occult underground. By citing this number devotees are broadcasting their allegiance to the 'old religion.' They expect Mr 666 to win the great End Time battle and restore order out of chaos.

CONCLUSION

We will not understand what is happening in the world today unless we recognize that a great supernatural war is raging all around us, a war whose protagonists we cannot see. If the LORD in His Mercy had not given us the Book of Revelation we would find it almost impossible to comprehend the intensity of the hatred of those who oppose Him and His wonderful Son, Christ Jesus. This hatred is driven by an evil so great that, when he is finally bound, Satan is restrained in a bottomless pit.

It is not our task to confront or oppose this evil, but we do have a duty to expose it. When we preach the gospel it will be received only by those who can see some aspect of this evil within themselves. Only then will a person repent and seek salvation through the blood of Christ.

Since we live in a world where the word "repentance" is hardly ever spoken, even by Christians, we can be sure that this invisible evil is feverishly at work in ways we could never have imagined. The last book of the Bible is like a curtain rising on the world stage, revealing in its vindictive fury an evil which, through stealth and cunning, has flourished undetected in our midst for millennia.

From time to time, over the course of history, we are given a glimpse of its existence – such as the campaign of slaughter waged by the Roman Catholic Church in Croatia in the period 1941-1944 or the murder of over a million civilians in Indonesia in 1965-66 with the blessing of the U.S. State Department – but we never really believed that something this wicked could have a real and continuous presence at the highest levels of government.

Well, it has. And today this presence is showing itself like never before.

The demon 'gods' of Ancient Egypt are working through these people to achieve total control over society. Along the way they intend to produce counterfeit plagues of their own. The current 'lockdown' in many countries across the world is akin to the plague of darkness which the LORD sent over Egypt, forcing everyone to stay indoors for three days:

> "And Moses stretched forth his hand toward heaven; and there was a thick darkness in all the land of Egypt three days: They saw not one another, neither rose any from his place for three days..." (Exodus 10:22-23)

Alas, a three-day lockdown is not long enough for these demons.

They are also using their modern 'pharaohs' to hold Christians back from worshipping God as He intended, just as Pharaoh opposed the Israelites. These Christians can 'Zoom' as much as they like, but they are not doing what the LORD asked them to do. The true meaning of worship is plain and simple: Assemble together in one place in true humility and praise the LORD with one voice. But the latter-day pharaohs will not allow this. It also means celebrating the Lord's Supper from time to time, but the modern pharaohs will not allow this either.

For a more detailed analysis of the way the 'gods' of ancient Egypt are worshipped today – in secret, of course – the reader is referred to our somewhat lengthy paper, Babylonian London, Nimrod, and the Secret War Against God (#56), as well as two shorter papers, The Secret of the Solar Barque: How the Gods of Ancient Egypt Control Great Britain Today (#133) and The Star of Isis: How Britain's Ruling Elite Venerate the Gods of Egypt (#155)

These papers look mainly at Great Britain, but there are several in our archives which examine the hold that the ancient Egyptian/Babylonian system of paganism has on the rich and powerful elite who rule America, including The Continental Obelisk Grid and the Babylonian Elite who Control the United States (#149) and Babylonian Blasphemy and the Washington Monument (#152). See also #150, #153 and #154.

The great whore we call Rome is also steeped in Babylonian idolatry – see our paper, The Papacy, Babylonian Magic, and the Thirteen Obelisks of Modern Rome (#148). The Catholic Church itself – with its rituals, rites, vestments, priests, statues, candles, incense, rosaries, medals, scapulars, relics, holy water, 'vicar' of Christ, sacrificial mass, absolutions, indulgences, grace-infused sacraments, mediatrix and goddess worship – is nothing but a Babylonian parody of true Christianity.

The Elite who worship these gods are also working hard to get the rest of the world to join in. One prominent example of this is the annual Oscars ceremony held in Hollywood and broadcast live all over the world. See our paper, The Hollywood Oscars are a Modern Reenactment of an Ancient Egyptian Sun-god Festival (#71). The name 'Oscar' is derived from the middle part of the name, Ptah-Soker-Osiris, the most highly revered of all the Egyptian gods.

False Antichrist

We would also refer readers to our paper, Beware of the False Antichrist and a False Rapture (#58). In it we examine an End Time scenario where the real Antichrist is preceded by a 'false' Antichrist, very likely a powerful Islamic Caliph-type leader, who has been put in place by the Elite to convince the world that he is the true Antichrist. After he commits genocidal crimes of appalling savagery, broadcast in sickening detail in the mainstream media, the nations of the world conclude that he must be the Antichrist. This means that whoever defeats him and restores world peace must be the Messiah.

This false Antichrist will need his own 'mark of the beast.' Perhaps the candidate we have already discussed, based on the Biohazard symbol, will be used for that purpose. It will have particular appeal to the Islamic world because of the prominence it gives to the crescent moon.

False Rapture

The Enemy may also be planning a false Rapture, an event that would send shock waves around the world. In our paper we state:

> We believe a False Rapture would add to the deception, but only if a significant number of professing Christians still believed in the Rapture. At present it is doubtful whether even 50 million professing Christians believe that the church will be removed by the Lord before the Antichrist commences his reign of terror. This number appears to be falling all the time. It would hardly seem necessary therefore to create a False Rapture unless it could be exploited to maximize the level of fear among the global community of professing Christians. It could also be used to boost the teaching of the false One World Religion by including large numbers of Hindus, Buddhists and Moslems among those 'raptured'. As the current Pope says, all 'good' people will be saved, even if they don't believe in Christ.

> So, even if only a relatively small proportion of the global community of professing Christians believe in the Rapture, it could still be exploited by the Enemy to great effect as a propaganda or "shock and awe" tool. If 20 million people, say, simply 'disappeared' one night, the rest of the world would surely take notice. Most of those 'left behind' – which would include a large number of born-again Christians – would be utterly demoralized. The event would also signal to the world that, if the Rapture has just occurred, then the Antichrist must be here. Thus a False Rapture, if executed correctly, would be an extremely valuable propaganda tool in the great End Time deception. The majority of professing Christians everywhere would be certain to take this as sure-fire proof that the Caliph was the Antichrist, just as the media and their religious leaders had portrayed him. And if that is the case, then whoever defeats the [False] Antichrist must be Christ.

We then went on to show that modern surveillance technology would allow law enforcement and security personnel across the world to pick up, in one night, a few million candidates for this purpose. If those 'raptured' include a large number of non-Christians, the rest of the world will start to accept the coming One World Religion, where all doctrines are inclusive and all 'good' people are saved. The frightened masses left behind will be anxious to do all that the Antichrist (the real one) asks them to do and prove that they, too, are 'good' people.

The Bible actually warns of this awful deception. A false Rapture would greatly trouble true believers. In our paper, Why the Enemy Hates the Pre-Tribulation Rapture (#107), we wrote:

> As Scripture tells us, the resurrection of church-age believers will take place on the same day as the Rapture. Paul told Timothy that two false teachers, Hymenaeus and Philetus, were teaching that "the resurrection is past already" (2 Timothy 2). If that was true, then the Rapture would have taken place also. The fact that some believers were taken in by this deception is proof that the early Christians knew that the resurrection – just like the Rapture – could occur at any time, with no prophetic signs to mark its approach. Since the resurrection is an imminent event, then so too is the Rapture, and both must occur before the seven-year Tribulation.

As Paul stated in 2 Timothy 2:18, such a deception could "overthrow the faith of some."

> "Now we beseech you, brethren, by the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ, and by our gathering together unto him, that ye be not soon shaken in mind, or be troubled, neither by spirit, nor by word, nor by letter as from us, as that the day of Christ is at hand. Let no man deceive you by any means: for [that day shall not come], except there come a falling away first, and that man of sin be revealed, the son of perdition; Who opposeth and exalteth himself above all that is called God, or that is worshipped; so that he as God sitteth in the temple of God, shewing himself that he is God. Remember ye not, that, when I was yet with you, I told you these things?" (2 Thessalonians 2:1-5)
> [Note: The words "that day shall not come" is not in the original text but was added for the sake of clarity by the translators of the KJV.]

Christians often confuse "the day of Christ" (to which Paul refers in the above passage) and "the day of the LORD." The former is a glorious day, the day of the Resurrection/Rapture, while the latter is "the great and the terrible day of the LORD" (Joel 2:31), when the Wrath of God falls upon a rebellious, unrepentant humanity.

Paul is telling the Thessalonians that the day of Christ must come before the day of the LORD. As soon as the church leaves the earth, the Man of Sin will be revealed. Those who were teaching that the Resurrection (and therefore the Rapture) had already taken place were causing confusion among believers. Paul wanted them to understand that they were victims of a deception. He asked them to reason as follows: If the Resurrection/Rapture had already taken place, then they should now be witnessing a great "falling away" from the faith and hearing reports that the Antichrist had revealed himself to the world. Since neither of these were happening, they could be sure that the day of Christ had not yet arrived.

Historical Precedent

The last time the Enemy tried to brand a group of people as his own, he fixed a hexagram on a yellow background to their outer garment and tattooed an identification number onto their forearm. This comprised both a mark and a number, where the mark had six equal sides and six equal angles. The symbol itself represented the ancient pagan principle, "As above, so below."

On that occasion the exercise was compulsory. The great End Time branding exercise, however, will be 'voluntary' – where candidates can choose between the mark of the beast or face immediate execution.

This precedent would suggest that the End Time mark will also include some form of personal identification, most likely a microchip. This would mean the mark of the beast is both "on" and "in" the right hand or the forehead.

A further and compelling reason to believe the mark will include a microchip is the overview it will give of all humanity. Satan does not have the ability to see everywhere at once, unlike the Holy Spirit. He can only be in one place at a time. So, if he is to have oversight of all his subjects at the same time, he will need a centralized system of surveillance. A worldwide computerized system of real-time tracking and surveillance will provide the Antichrist with a proxy or a counterfeit of divine 'omnipresence.'

Great joy and inner peace

Before closing we need to remind ourselves that our wonderful savior, Christ Jesus of Nazareth, has already defeated the Enemy. The sentence has been passed but its execution is still pending.

When he returns, Christ will demolish the Satanic world system and destroy the wicked leaders of the Fourth Kingdom. He will draw into one place, the Valley of Jezreel, the armies of the End Time pharaoh and, in a scene reminiscent of the Red Sea crossing, extinguish the lot. Satan and his fallen angels, including the 'gods' of Ancient Egypt, will then be locked away for the Millennium.

Despite the turmoil that may or may not be taking place around us, we can look forward with great joy and inner peace to "the day of Christ" and to his wonderful Millennial reign.

"Arise, shine; for thy light is come, and the glory of the LORD is risen upon thee.
For, behold, the darkness shall cover the earth, and gross darkness the people: but the LORD shall arise upon thee, and his glory shall be seen upon thee.
And the Gentiles shall come to thy light, and kings to the brightness of thy rising."

He is a Shield unto Them that Put their Trust in Him

by Jeremy James

Remember Saul! He played around with God's Word until it gave him the meaning he wanted. Today we say of Saul, What pride! But is the professing church today any different?

God asked us to worship Him. It is hardly necessary to cite verses which prove this. The Bible is full of them. Take the words, "Praise him", for example, which are found multiple times in Psalm 150 alone. When Jesus was asked to give his disciples a guiding prayer, he began "Our Father, Who art in heaven, hallowed be Thy Name" – we are to praise or hallow His Holy Name. In Hebrews 13:15 we are exhorted to "offer the sacrifice of praise to God continually." And the Psalmist says:

> "Let all those that seek thee rejoice and be glad in thee: let such as love thy salvation say continually, The LORD be magnified." (Psalm 40:16)
> "Let all those that seek thee rejoice and be glad in thee: and let such as love thy salvation say continually, Let God be magnified." (Psalm 70:4).

There is something about the word "continually" that seems to mean, at least to me, an activity that is not interrupted or impeded in any way. There is also something about these verses that seems to imply, at least to me, that the activity in question will never be interrupted or impeded by God Himself. He is asking us to do it, and we will always be able to do it, if we are obedient to His Word.

That's fairly straightforward, is it not?

A question

Here's a question: Who could possibly countermand this simple, God-given instruction?

Hmmm. Let me think. (Don't rush me.) Hmmmm. I'm still thinking….Aaaah. Yes, I've got it – "Satan!"

Did you get it? Do the pastors of the world get it? Do professing Christians in Europe and America get it?

Alas, it would appear not. For seven weeks or more countless churches across two continents have decided that they cannot come together and worship God because of an ordinance, a regulation, a rule or a law which strictly prohibits such gatherings. If you really must worship God, the governments say, then please do so at home and not in public.

"There is no wisdom nor understanding nor counsel against the LORD." (Proverbs 21:30)

If you were told of such an ordinance, regulation, rule or law three months ago, how would you have reacted?

Many Christians would have said, "Well, if something like that is ever foisted on the church, our pastors and leaders will lobby strongly to have it overturned. They would see it for what it is – an attack on religious liberty – and work tirelessly to ensure that all believers can continue to come together and worship the LORD God of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ."

But did that happen? No.

Why not?

"Yeah, why not?"

Well, it seems the Institute for Health Metrics and Evaluation (IHME), which is part of the University of Washington based in Seattle, had a mathematical model that was supposed to predict the spread of Covid-19 and monumental decisions affecting the entire USA – and the world in general – were based solely on its predictions. As it happened, the model was seriously flawed, its predictions were outrageously defective, and virtually any statistician of modest ability could have designed a model that was equally useless.

Apparently the model and its predictions were largely the work of just one person. The IHME itself was founded in 2007 by the Bill & Melinda Gates Foundation because Gates liked the work this person was doing. Thus, a billionaire who could expect to make staggering profits from a prospective vaccine if Covid-19 was declared a pandemic disease with a dangerously high mortality rate was also the person who founded and funded the very institution on whose professional opinion this decision would depend.

The term 'conflict of interest' was designed to cover cases much less egregious than this. What Gates and the IHME did was tantamount to unprofessional conduct of the highest order. The Trump administration, urged on by Anthony Fauci – who has been the Director of the National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases (NIAID) for a disquieting 36 years – acted with equally contemptuous disregard for ethical standards when it accepted the IHME predictions without any professional critique or independent evaluation, knowing full well that they came from a source that was closely connected to Gates and couldn't be trusted.

So, a useless predictive model, funded by Gates, was used to close down our churches! A man who funds the slaughterhouse known as Planned Parenthood is allowed to decide whether Christians can worship the LORD at a public venue.

It defies belief.

"A righteous man falling down before the wicked is as a troubled fountain, and a corrupt spring." (Proverbs 25:26)

Did your Christian pastors and leaders challenge any of this? Of course not. The lukewarm Laodicean church will never exert itself to defend the truth and purity of God's Word.

"His watchmen are blind: they are all ignorant, they are all dumb dogs, they cannot bark; sleeping, lying down, loving to slumber."
– Isaiah 56:10

A second (equally useless) opinion

When it became apparent to many Americans that the decision to shut down the entire country would do serious social and economic damage that could take years to undo, the President – once again with scheming Fauci by his side – sought 'scientific' guidance from a second source. This guidance happened to come from – yes! – another organization funded by the Bill & Melinda Gates Foundation, namely, Imperial College, London. Again the opinion of just one person was allowed to dictate the fate of nations. His mathematical model, which predicted millions of deaths in the US alone, was used to produce a 20-page paper which put the UK in a lockdown as severe as the one imposed by Trump on the US. It later emerged that the paper, which was a draft only (!) and which had not undergone any critical scrutiny or peer review, had several serious defects and had to be withdrawn.

Again, we ask, did our Christian pastors and leaders demand an end to this atheistic insanity? The destruction of our economy, our social order, and our religious freedoms is being accomplished, as planned, by an endless stream of lies based on bogus science, phony data, fictional expertise, incentivised euthanasia, false reporting, outlandish media propaganda, and a cavalier disregard for moderate, evidence-based opinions. [For an evidence-based assessment of what is actually happening, see Appendix A.]

The clique who control Washington DC are doing exactly what their god, Baal-Osiris, has urged them to do. Every day they look across the Mall to the symbol of their power, the massive obelisk known as the Washington Monument, and remember the oath they took all those years ago to their "Worshipful Master."

Christian "discernment" has evaporated

The people at the top of this political power pyramid – Gates, Fauci, and the rest – are psychopathic. They are very dangerous people. But if we turn to Christian 'discernment' websites for guidance, we find not the slightest indication of this. Rather, the very opposite impression is being conveyed.

It is truly disturbing to visit these sites and see the extent to which the plain truth is being ignored or suppressed. If in doubt, check them for yourself. Here are some of the better-known ones: The Berean Call (led by Tom McMahon, who succeeded Dave Hunt), Lighthouse Trails (David and Deborah Dombrowski), Discernment in the Church (Sandy Simpson and Mike Oppenheimer), Lion & Lamb Ministries (David Reagan), and Way of Life Ministries (David Cloud).

None of them will admit that there is a highly organized conspiracy involving Freemasonry, Marxism, and the Jesuit Order to undermine and destroy true Biblical Christianity, that this conspiracy is financed and co-ordinated by wealthy Luciferian families, and that it involves the creation of a New World Order and a One World Religion.

Compare their stance with that of a Roman Catholic organization which issued a searing indictment of this wickedness on 7 May – see excerpts in Appendix B.

"Hey, what's up? The big guys said this faucet would flow forever!"

What have we lost 'temporarily'?

What is the church losing by acting as it has, namely, by accepting without demur every pronouncement by the authorities as though it was based on sound medical evidence; by falling into line with every restriction, no matter how ridiculous; and by failing to pursue with the authorities a line of dialogue which would secure for Christians the freedom to worship in accordance with acceptable 'distancing' procedures?

We are witnessing a great betrayal. To date we have lost – temporarily, we are told:

- the right to assemble and worship the LORD
- the right to assemble and celebrate the Lord's Supper
- the right to assemble and witness a baptism
- the right to assemble and study God's Word
- the right to assemble at a funeral or memorial service
- the right to evangelize and share the Gospel
- the right to visit the sick
- the right to meet and counsel believers.

"Therefore to him that knoweth to do good, and doeth it not, to him it is sin." (James 4:17)

Our political leaders are lying

We could meet in an open area, a few feet apart and in small numbers, and not breach any valid medical protocol known to man, but – heaven forbid – that might put innocent lives at risk! They are lying, of course. And they will continue to lie while Christians are too spineless to challenge their lies.

True believers should be able to see all of this for what it is – a shameless attack on Christianity, spearheaded by the Christ-hating Masonic elite who control Washington DC and who abhor the Word of God. Their god is Baal-Osiris. Under the pretence of "protecting" public health, the same people who fund the slaughter of unborn children are demanding that we surrender our religious freedom, destroy our economy, and bequeath to our children a society so damaged and so unstable that our own parents wouldn't recognize it.

However, there is a solution. Gnostic Bill Gates has promised to all mankind the elixir of life and if we take it, everything will return to "normal" (We will discuss his Gnosticism in a moment). This is his message to the world (ex cathedra, urbi et orbi)! Clearly he considers himself sufficiently exalted to deliver such a message. It says a great deal about the spiritual sickness that afflicts our society today – the real pandemic – that credence is given by seemingly ethical people to an arch-Luciferian like Gates:

"The wicked walk on every side, when the vilest men are exalted."
(Psalm 12:8)

The real Bill Gates

Here are some important facts about this man, facts which shed a great deal of light on all who associate with Gates or support his "vision."

- monopolistic power

1. He exercises an undisputed monopoly over world health initiatives. Many of the institutions and organizations that feed into the world health programs which are overseen by the World Health Organization (WHO) are funded, either partly or entirely, by the Bill & Melinda Gates Foundation (BMGF).

2. The WHO itself is funded to a substantial extent by the BMGF. This enables him to influence the kinds of programs the WHO pursues and the policies it adopts. No figure in world health comes remotely close to exercising this kind of influence.

3. Careers are advanced and personnel selected by reference to the extent to which the individuals concerned are prepared to put Gates' "vision" into practice. Since he has had a significant role in the formulation and implemenation of world health policy for over 20 years, a large spectrum of the most senior officials in public healthcare across the world today have been appointed through channels endorsed by Gates or which benefit from his patronage.

- control extends to research

4. Gates uses his considerable war chest to finance research into the areas of healthcare which fit his "vision." By this means he exercises considerable control over the kinds of research that are conducted and, by implication, the areas that are ignored. The same is true of the big pharmaceutical companies, with whom Gates works very closely – Merck, Pfizer, Glaxo, Sanofi and others. They use Gates as an access route to third world markets, driving up the price of vaccines along the way. According to Médecins sans Frontières, the vaccine regime for a child in an undeveloped country has increased by more than a factor of 50 in only 10 years.

- an obesssion with vaccines

5. Gates has consistently advocated the extensive use of vaccines to address public health issues in both developed and developing countries, even where known alternative solutions are cheaper, safer and more effective. For instance improved accessibility to clean water would do substantially more than a whole battery of vaccines to improve health standards in Africa, but such initiatives receive little attention from the BMGF. The common herb, artemisia vulgaris, is known to have significant benefits in both the prevention and treatment of malaria – at virtually no cost – and yet this valuable resource is ignored by the BMGF.

Artemisia vulgaris

6. Since Gates has invested heavily in facilities that develop and produce vaccines, his association with public health programs which focus strongly on the use of vaccines, including the development of new ones, is a dangerous conflict of interest. Since vaccine production is an exceptionally profitable line of business, Gates is effectively using his 'philantropic' donations to secure access to business opportunities which have the potential to earn him a substantial return on his 'investment.'

- a bewildering array of political connections

7. Using his extraordinary wealth, Gates has been able to win the support of top politicians and national leaders for initiatives, in a form designed and approved by Gates himself, which would not otherwise have been implemented. Part of this control is exercised through the World Economic Forum – a quasi world government comprising ultra-wealthy individuals – which meets annually at Davos. As a result a forum which has no role in public health issues (or in any public policy matter) is being used to approve international health programs and health-related initiatives devised and masterminded by just one person. These include GAVI and ID2020. The former is an international alliance designed to greatly increase the uptake of vaccines in third world countries. Its members include the WHO, Unicef, the World Bank, the BMGF, and the big pharmaceutical companies. The ID2020 program, which was launched under the auspices of the UN in 2016, aims to assign a personal electronic identification number to everyone on earth and, using blockchain technology, to associate with this unique identifier – via an interconnected online platform – all financial, health and other information pertaining to the individual.

- the Covid-19 connection

8. Virtually all of the organizations involved in the 'fight' against Covid-19 have direct ties to the BMGF and have received foundation funding. Dr Fauci, who is the principal strategist behind the US lockdown, is seemingly on the board of several companies owned or funded by Gates. The two have had an ongoing working relationship for twenty years or more.

Gates and Fauci

"The man that wandereth out of the way of understanding shall remain in the congregation of the dead."
(Proverbs 21:16)

- Event 201

9. In conjunction with the Johns Hopkins Center for Health Security (funded by Gates) and the World Economic Forum, the BMGF sponsored a conference, known as Event 201, on 18th October 2019 in New York city to consider how best to respond to a worldwide coronavirus pandemic – just weeks before the actual outbreak in Wuhan.

- control through funding

10. Just as Gates used various monopolistic and anti-competitive tactics to dominate the world software market, he is now using his considerable wealth to secure a stranglehold over the world healthcare market. In addition to the dominant role of the BMGF in shaping and directing international health policies, it also has a major role in deciding the policies implemented by individual countries to combat infectious diseases. The foundation provides direct funding to many national healthcare institutions and maintains close working relations with key figures in each country, thus ensuring that its policies are faithfully pursued. These same figures are often national representatives at international events. They thus serve as ambassadors for the Gates "vision" and squeeze out any serious discussion of alternative approaches to healthcare.

- two sets of accounts

11. Despite operating under the guise of a philantropic organization, the BMGF does not use the transparent structure of a charitable body, where grants and assets are reported through the same set of accounts. Instead all BMGF assets are handled by a separate organization known as the Bill & Melinda Gates Foundation Trust. This enables Gates to make 'charitable' grants to both individuals and corporate entities which have a positive effect, either directly or indirectly, on assets owned by the Trust. The Trust also invests heavily in companies whose business relies on the close co-operation of developing countries. These include Barrick Gold, BHP Billiton, Rio Tinto, Glencore, and a long list of oil and coal companies.

12. Gates also forges partnerships with other corporate interests who are more than willing to participate in a program overseen by the BMGF, confident that the leverage exerted by the foundation will guarantee a handsome return on their investment. In this way, Gates is able to utilize funds from a variety of sources, including public funds from national revenues, to pay for his "vision."

- polio disaster

13. Polio vaccine programs funded by the BMGF have been severely criticized. A paper published in the Indian Journal of Medical Ethics in 2012 stated that the vaccine, and specifically the number of doses administered, caused twice as many deaths and cases of paralysis as wild polio infection. The authors noted that the number of cases of non-polio acute flaccid paralysis (NPAFP) in India was now 12 times higher than normal. The Lancet had already reported (in July 2007) that the incidence of NPAFP had increased exponentially in India after the high potency polio vaccine was introduced. Given that the authors of the 2012 paper put the excess number of cases of NPAFP at 47,500 in 2011, there is every reason to accept as credible the recent claim – widely reported on the Internet – that the Gates polio vaccination program in India has resulted in hundreds of thousands of Indian children being paralyzed over the past two decades.

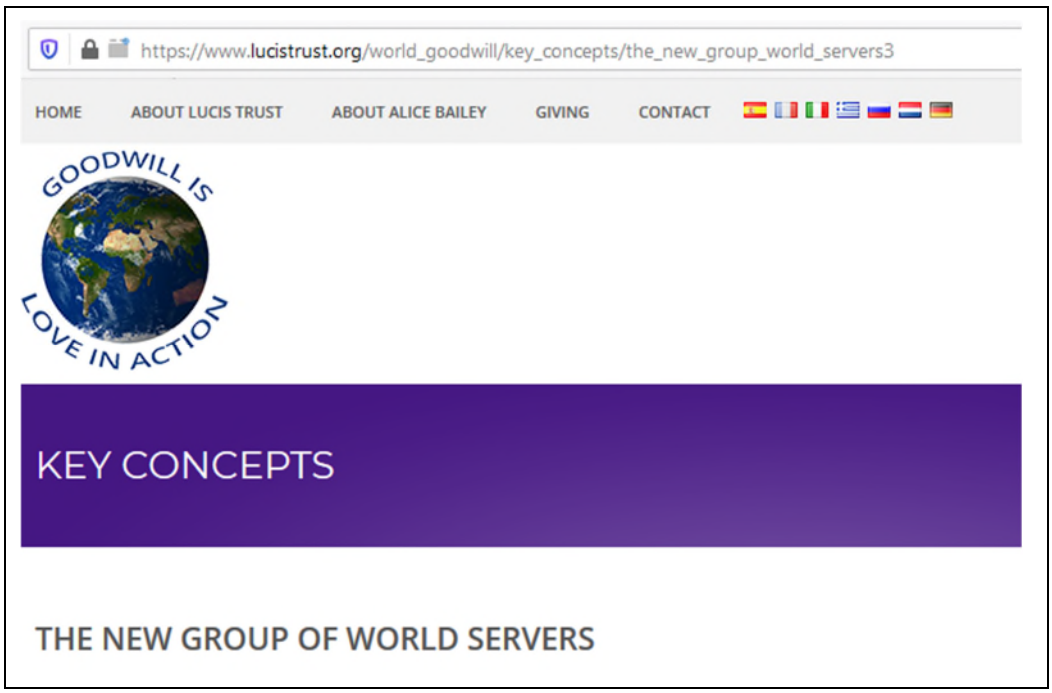

Some members of the elite club that runs America from behind the scenes. All support the New World Order. All are complicit in the Communist conspiracy to 'transform' America. All are prepared to keep everyone in 'lockdown' until they crack.

- monopolistic influence over world agriculture and food production

14. A report on the BMGF in 2016, prepared by curtisresearch.org on behalf of Global Justice Now, revealed its extensive involvement in a range of inter-linked activities to bring third-world countries under the control of multinational corporate interests. The foundation has a close relationship with Bayer (formerly Monsanto), the agricultural giant Cargill (GM soya), DuPont (transgenic sorghum), Mars and Nestlé (cocoa), Syngenta (anti-malarial technologies), and many others. These activities include the promotion of GMOs (which are harmful to human health and make farmers dependent on corporations for patented seed), insecticides, and expensive agricultural chemicals (which have significant health risks for farm workers). Referring to the head of the BMGF agricultural program, The Guardian stated that he is "possibly the most powerful figure in world agriculture today…No government minister, banker, civil servant or corporation wields such influence or has so few political restrictions." (6 July 2012)

- Gates the Gnostic

15. Gates has donated substantial funds to the branch of the Theosophical Society known as the New Group of World Servers (see screenshot below). Furthermore, Gates himself would appear to be regarded by Lucis Trust, the parent body, as one of the current 'world servers'. Anyone who is familiar with the Lucis Trust and the Theosophical Society, as well as the occult writings of Alice Bailey on which they are based, will know that the New Group of World Servers is a clique appointed by Lucifer to prepare the world for the arrival of the Antichrist. According to Lucis Trust members of the New Group of World Servers are accountable to the Custodians of the Plan, "the inner spiritual Government of the Planet" (the fallen angels). A 'world server' is generally an influential player on the world stage, whether in business, politics, science, journalism, rock music, cinema, and so forth. Their task is to change the way people think, reason and perceive, and through their collective efforts draw society further and further from Christianity. They aim to implant in the minds of the masses an openness to Luciferian ideology. For example, in the sphere of rock music many readers will be familiar with the Luciferian content of the stage performances and song lyrics of 'stars' like Madonna, Lady Gaga, Rihanna, Katy Perry, and Beyoncé, amongst others. It is Gates' task, by constant repetition in the media and through his involvement in world healthcare, to convince the masses that "vaccines are good, vaccines are necessary, and vaccines are safe."

Screenshot for the Lucis Trust website

16. As worshippers of Baal-Osiris, Luciferians are fascinated by death. In an interview with Bill Moyers in 2003, Gates said "My dad was head of Planned Parenthood. And it was very controversial to be involved with that." Gates would have been reared with the Luciferian mindset, which includes a strong belief in eugenics, abortion, and euthanasia. The foundation helps to fund Planned Parenthood. The bloody killing of unborn children is especially pleasing to them because, not only is a little child murdered but his or her mother has consented to the crime. Gates has often expressed in public his desire to greatly reduce the population of the world. There are only three ways to do this – abortion, sterilization, and genocide. His obsession with vaccines is driven, he claims, by his belief that they will make possible what he calls "the final solution." By this he means the eradication of all disease, but they never mention that, in their philosophy, the human 'herd' is the worst disease of all.

"And Elijah came unto all the people, and said, How long halt ye between two opinions? if the LORD be God, follow him: but if Baal, then follow him. And the people answered him not a word."
(1 Kings 18:21)

Putting the pieces together

The Enemy has sown so much confusion in the minds of men that making a straightforward logical connection between two related phenomena is, for many, like solving an algebraic equation. Something that would have been fairly easy for our Christian grandparents to understand is now a mind-numbing conundrum.

However, our grandparents had a great advantage over most Christians today because they believed God's Word, NO MATTER what garbage they were fed from other sources. Life is simple when you take God at His Word! Seemingly insurmountable problems shrivel up before it.

Alas, when Christians bow down to 'science' and 'authority' and 'peer pressure', not to mention the countless invisible fears spawned by the media, they buckle beneath the weight of their own imagination. They forget the wonderful God who made them! They forget His glory and His sovereignty and His infinite solicitude. They forget that He hears all who call upon Him in the name of His Son with a sincere and repentant heart.

"Woe to the rebellious children, saith the LORD, that take counsel, but not of me;
and that cover with a covering,
but not of my spirit, that they may add sin to sin:"
(Isaiah 30:1)

If the Christians in Europe and America today could look at the world through the eyes of their believing grandparents, they would be horrified at how easily the Enemy has deceived them. "Lockdown, Schlockdown!" they would have exclaimed. "What idiocy is this? You sit at home all day and let your beautiful country go to wrack and ruin – why? Because some goosey-lucifer shouts The sky is falling! Are you insane! Are you completely out of your mind?" Or words to that effect.

Leviathan can pop up anywhere... Just keep driving!

The failure to come together for Christian worship and celebrate the Lord's Supper would have left them speechless. Has the country been invaded by a foreign power, they might have asked? "Have all the pastors and preachers been interned? Are hoards of gun-toting heathen patrolling the streets and shooting Christians on sight?"

How would we answer them? Do you think the following would suffice? – "Well, it's like this. A nasty flu in going around and our leaders are claiming it will kill us all and destroy our way of life. The only way we can survive is to stay at home all day and hide under the kitchen table until the boogeyman goes away. If everybody does this, we are told, then our nation will continue to prosper!"

Let's try some Biblical realism for a moment. Satan has been steadily undermining America for over a hundred years. He has been using Communists, Freemasons, Luciferians, atheists, humanists, and anyone else he can recruit to help him. A direct military attack will not work until the nation has been greatly weakened, both economically and spiritually. The liberties her citizens currently enjoy must be stolen from them, by lies if necessary, so that a traitorous regime can take control and steer the country over a cliff.

Their two great weapons are fear and lies. With their lies they create more fear, and, as the level of fear increases, their lies become more dangerous (and more outrageous).

The current insanity will continue until Christians speak out. These are the men and women of America who truly love Christ, not the holy phonies who tag along for the ride. These are the men and women who fear God, not man. These are the real believers, who trust in God and who strive at all times to honor and exalt His Holy Name. They have considered and taken to heart the fearful words uttered by Jeremiah:

"Thus saith the LORD; Cursed be the man that trusteth in man, and maketh flesh his arm, and whose heart departeth from the LORD." (Jeremiah 17:5)

Suggestion for Christians in 'lockdown' states

Why not arrange with some fellow believers to meet with you next Sunday at the local park and proclaim His Holy Name? Sing hymns and psalms and spiritual songs together. Stand ten feet apart if you have to, but sing even louder! Recite God's Word. Hold up your Bibles. Tell each other how wonderful it is to be a blood-bought child of Christ, to know that, despite our fallen, wretched condition, our Father sent His Son to set us free. Remind each other of the true freedom we have in Christ, that we no longer need to fear man or that old dragon, the devil. Bring wine and unleavened bread and celebrate the Lord's Supper. Rejoice in all that Christ has done for us!

You'll be glad you did.

"He is a shield unto them that put their trust in Him."

APPENDIX A

From the website 'Swiss Propaganda Research'

Subject: Covid-19

Summary of position as at 6 May 2020

1. According to data from the best-studied countries and regions, the lethality of Covid19 is on average about 0.2%, which is in the range of a severe influenza (flu) and about twenty times lower than originally assumed by the WHO.

2. Even in the global "hotspots", the risk of death for the general population of school and working age is typically in the range of a daily car ride to work. The risk was initially overestimated because many people with only mild or no symptoms were not taken into account.

3. Up to 80% of all test-positive persons remain symptom-free. Even among 70-79 year olds, about 60% remain symptom-free. Over 95% of all persons show mild symptoms at most.

4. Up to one third of all persons already have a certain background immunity to Covid19 due to contact with previous coronaviruses (i.e. common cold viruses).

5. The median or average age of the deceased in most countries (including Italy) is over 80 years and only about 1% of the deceased had no serious preconditions. The age and risk profile of deaths thus essentially corresponds to normal mortality.

6. In most Western countries, 50 to 70% of all extra deaths occurred in nursing homes, which do not benefit from a general lockdown. Moreover, in many cases it is not clear whether these people really died from Covid19 or from extreme stress, fear and loneliness.

7. Up to 50% of all additional deaths may have been caused not by Covid19, but by the effects of the lockdown, panic and fear. For example, the treatment of heart attacks and strokes decreased by up to 60% because many patients no longer dared to go to hospital.

8. Even in so-called "Covid19 deaths" it is often not clear whether they died from or with coronavirus (i.e. from underlying diseases) or if they were counted as "presumed cases" and not tested at all. However, official figures usually do not reflect this distinction.

9. Many media reports of young and healthy people dying from Covid19 turned out to be false: many of these young people either did not die from Covid19, they had already been seriously ill (e.g. from undiagnosed leukaemia), or they were in fact 109 instead of 9 years old.

10. The normal overall mortality per day is about 8000 people in the US, about 2600 in Germany and about 1800 in Italy. Influenza mortality per season is up to 80,000 in the US and up to 25,000 in Germany and Italy. In several countries Covid19 deaths remained below strong flu seasons.

11. Regional increases in mortality may be influenced by additional risk factors such as high levels of air pollution and microbial contamination, as well as a collapse in the care for the elderly and sick due to infections, mass panic and lockdown. Special regulations for dealing with the deceased sometimes led to additional bottlenecks in funeral or cremation services.

12. In countries such as Italy and Spain, and to some extent the UK and the US, hospital overloads due to strong flu waves are not unusual. In addition, up to 15% of doctors and health workers were put into quarantine, even if they developed no symptoms.

13. The often shown exponential curves of "corona cases" are misleading, as the number of tests also increased exponentially. In most countries, the ratio of positive tests to tests overall (i.e. the positive rate) remained constant at 5% to 25% or increased only slightly. In many countries, the peak of the spread was already reached well before the lockdown.

14. Countries without curfews and contact bans, such as Japan, South Korea or Sweden, have not experienced a more negative course of events than other countries. Sweden was even praised by the WHO and now benefits from higher immunity compared to lockdown countries.

15. The fear of a shortage of ventilators was unjustified. According to lung specialists, the invasive ventilation (intubation) of Covid19 patients, which is partly done out of fear of spreading the virus, is in fact often counterproductive and damaging to the lungs.

16. Contrary to original assumptions, various studies have shown that there is no evidence of the virus spreading through aerosols (i.e. particles floating in the air) or through smear infections (e.g. on door handles, smartphones or at the hairdresser).

17. There is also no scientific evidence for the effectiveness of face masks in healthy or asymptomatic individuals. On the contrary, experts warn that such masks interfere with normal breathing and may become "germ carriers". Leading doctors called them a "media hype" and "ridiculous".

18. Many clinics in Europe and the US remained strongly underutilized or almost empty during the Covid19 peak and in some cases had to send staff home. Numerous operations and therapies were cancelled, including some organ transplants and cancer screenings.

19. Several media were caught trying to dramatize the situation in hospitals, sometimes even with manipulative images and videos. In general, the unprofessional reporting of many media maximized fear and panic in the population.

20. The virus test kits used internationally are prone to errors and can produce false positive and false negative results. Moreover, the official virus test was not clinically validated due to time pressure and may sometimes react to other coronaviruses.

21. Numerous internationally renowned experts in the fields of virology, immunology and epidemiology consider the measures taken to be counterproductive and recommend rapid natural immunisation of the general population and protection of risk groups. The risks for children are virtually zero and closing schools was never medically warranted.

APPENDIX B

Appeal initiated by Roman Catholic Archbishop, Carlo Maria Viganò, on 7 May 2020

EXCERPTS ONLY

[Archbishop Vigano is an outspoken critic of the current 'Pope', the Argentinian Marxist, Jorge Bergoglio, who calls himself Pope Francis I.]

https://veritasliberabitvos.info/appeal/

[Note: Emphasis (bold) in the original]

We have reason to believe, on the basis of official data on the incidence of the epidemic as related to the number of deaths, that there are powers interested in creating panic among the world's population with the sole aim of permanently imposing unacceptable forms of restriction on freedoms, of controlling people and of tracking their movements. The imposition of these illiberal measures is a disturbing prelude to the realization of a world government beyond all control.

We also believe that in some situations the containment measures that were adopted, including the closure of shops and businesses, have precipitated a crisis that has brought down entire sectors of the economy. This encourages interference by foreign powers and has serious social and political repercussions. Those with governmental responsibility must stop these forms of social engineering, by taking measures to protect their citizens whom they represent, and in whose interests they have a serious obligation to act. Likewise, let them help the family, the cell of society, by not unreasonably penalizing the weak and elderly, forcing them into a painful separation from their loved ones. The criminalization of personal and social relationships must likewise be judged as an unacceptable part of the plan of those who advocate isolating individuals in order to better manipulate and control them.

We ask the scientific community to be vigilant, so that cures for Covid-19 are offered in honesty for the common good. Every effort must be made to ensure that shady business interests do not influence the choices made by government leaders and international bodies...

We also ask government leaders to ensure that forms of control over people, whether through tracking systems or any other form of location-finding, are rigorously avoided. The fight against Covid-19, however serious, must not be the pretext for supporting the hidden intentions of supranational bodies that have very strong commercial and political interests in this plan. In particular, citizens must be given the opportunity to refuse these restrictions on personal freedom, without any penalty whatsoever being imposed on those who do not wish to use vaccines, contact tracking or any other similar tool. Let us also consider the blatant contradiction of those who pursue policies of drastic population control and at the same time present themselves as the savior of humanity, without any political or social legitimacy. Finally, the political responsibility of those who represent the people can in no way be left to "experts" who can indeed claim a kind of immunity from prosecution, which is disturbing to say the least.

We strongly urge those in the media to commit themselves to providing accurate information and not penalizing dissent by resorting to forms of censorship, as is happening widely on social media, in the press and on television. Providing accurate information requires that room be given to voices that are not aligned with a single way of thinking. This allows citizens to consciously assess the facts, without being heavily influenced by partisan interventions. A democratic and honest debate is the best antidote to the risk of imposing subtle forms of dictatorship, presumably worse than those our society has seen rise and fall in the recent past.

…We are all called to assess the current situation in a way consistent with the teaching of the Gospel. This means taking a stand: either with Christ or against Christ. Let us not be intimidated or frightened by those who would have us believe that we are a minority: Good is much more widespread and powerful than the world would have us believe. We are fighting against an invisible enemy that seeks to divide citizens, to separate children from their parents, grandchildren from their grandparents, the faithful from their pastors, students from teachers, and customers from vendors. Let us not allow centuries of Christian civilization to be erased under the pretext of a virus, and an odious technological tyranny to be established, in which nameless and faceless people can decide the fate of the world by confining us to a virtual reality. If this is the plan to which the powers of this earth intend to make us yield, know that Jesus Christ, King and Lord of History, has promised that "the gates of Hell shall not prevail" (Mt 16:18).

Medical Tyranny as a Weapon to Break Up Families and Harm Children

by Jeremy James

We would be foolish to ignore the destructive potential of the laws and powers now vested in the Ruling Elite through their planned Covid-19 pandemic.

The UK Coronavirus Act gives the government and the security forces, supported if necessary by medical personnel, the right to enter one's home and remove children. This may not be apparent at first when one studies the Act, but the powers are there nonetheless. The same is true of the 'emergency' legislation introduced by the Marxist regime that controls Ireland. Similar laws have probably been introduced in many other countries, under the guise of measures to "protect" the community.

The Democrats in the US are now supporting a Bill, currently before the Senate, which would give equally draconian powers to the US authorities. (We will discuss these shortly.)

Any normal person should be alarmed by this. The architects of the New World Order are exploiting our inability to comprehend the depth of the evil behind their schemes. After all, who could possibly want to harm our children? It doesn't make sense. But if by this means they can crush all resistance to their totalitarian plan, then, from their point of view, it makes a great deal of sense.

In two of our previous papers we reproduced the following image:

I would urge our readers to share it with everyone they know. The message is very plain, is it not?

The same message was conveyed in a press conference on 4 May in Ventura County, California, when the director of public health made the following ominous disclosure:

Many may have seen this on TV and not fully grasped what the man was saying. He is claiming that the state will very shortly have the right to enter your home, test everyone present – the entire family – and on the basis of the results, which they alone will interpret, decide whether any family member is "infected" by Covid-19. If they decide that a person is infected, they will require that this person be "isolated" within the home and use a separate bathroom. However, if the home does not have separate bathroom, the state will gladly provide the person concerned – who could be a child or a teenager – with accommodation outside the home. In short, the state is about to assume the right to take away your children.

Statements by Dr Robert Levin of Ventura County

1:38 "As we do more testing we will find more and more people who have Covid-19 and again we'll isolate every one of them and we will find every one of their contacts, and we will make sure that they stay quarantined and will check in with them every day."

2:49 "We also realize that as we find more contacts [infected persons] some of the people we find are going to have trouble being isolated. For instance, if they live in a home where there is only one bathroom and there are three or four other people living there and those people don't have Covid infection we're not going to be able to keep the person in that home. Every person who we're isolating needs to have their own bathroom, and so we'll be moving people like this into other kinds of housing that we have available."

This may seem preposterous, but it is now legal for the state to do this in both the UK and Ireland. It is a power which the authorities in those countries are not yet exercising and therefore the public is not aware of its existence. The mainstream media will not alert the public to the danger because they exist only to distribute and endorse government propaganda. Dr Levin stepped over the line when he made it as plain as he did. So too did the Irish doctor at the briefing by the World Health Organization on 30 March (see insert above).

The citizens of the UK got a dark reference to this power during the Queen's televised address to the nations on 5 April. We say "nations" because she was actually giving the message to the world as a whole, on behalf of the secret Elite who are running the Covid-19 operation. Take careful note of what she said, bearing in mind that her entire address was less than 5 minutes long:

Television broadcast by Queen Elizabeth II on 5 April 2020

The address related to the 'lockdown' ordered by the UK Government. She was trying to win the support of the British people for this outrageous violation of their civil rights. In doing so she referred back to the Blitz and the threatened invasion of England in the early part of the Second World War. As a precautionary measure hundreds of thousands of children in the London area were evacuated to farms and other locations outside London. This was a source of great emotional pain for both the children affected and their parents. The separation in many cases lasted for several years.

So what exactly was the Queen saying? She implied that there is a direct parallel between the hardship that will be caused by the 'lockdown' and the evacuation of children during World War Two. But this doesn't make any sense. The 'lockdown' is not separating parents and children. Rather, it obliges parents to spend even more time with their children.

The real message in this carefully crafted speech – written very likely by the social engineering gurus at the Tavistock Institute – is that the 'lockdown' will evolve into something far more unpleasant in the coming year when, as the Queen says, "many will feel a painful sense of separation from their loved ones." Note that she is using the future tense. Now her WW2 analogy begins to make sense. If there is a "second wave" of Covid-19 and draconian testing-and-isolation measures are introduced, then there is every possibility that parents will be separated from their children. However, she reassuringly adds, "But now, as then [1940], we know, deep down, that it is the right thing to do."

Her address was both a magic ritual and an exercise in mass hypnosis. The minds of everyone who heard her address would have registered what she was saying, but would not have understood as yet where it would lead. They were being conditioned "deep down" to accept that "it is the right thing to do."

Later, when the authorities call at their door and commence testing, they will feel unable to object because, at a subconscious level, they have already agreed to part with their children if they test positive. This may seem very subtle, but when people have lost their connection with God, their ability to resist conditioning like this is greatly impaired. Many will be made to feel proud and patriotic for being so brave and allowing the state to "care" for their children in a time of crisis. The government will remind them of the great patriotism shown by earlier generations in WWI and WWII. This is their chance to show that they too have the courage and fortitude to deal bravely with adversity and to suffer for the greater good of their country.

Do you see how it works? All those mums and dads will shed copious tears as their children are taken away, but they will know "deep down" that it is all for the best, or as Queenie says, "that it is the right thing to do."

The Enemy is incredibly clever. His servants have learned how to dupe the masses into accepting their slavery. Why use force when the victims are willing to walk calmly to their cells and lock the door behind them? Last year, the Elite carried out a dry run to test the depth of Britain's national desensitization. They did this by shutting down Parliament for 5 weeks – for absolutely no reason. The great British public simply took it as a peculiar defect in the democratic process, a minor anomaly that would quickly correct itself. By and large they were not alarmed at the ease with which their parliamentary apparatus could be switched off, and that it could be done at the whim of just one person. (See our paper #210.)

Television broadcast by Queen Elizabeth II on 5 April 2020

True to form, the Queen made a further reference to their Occult Agenda when she mentioned the rainbow – see screen-shot above.

As we stated in a previous paper (#202), the Illuminati take pleasure in blaspheming the LORD God and Father of Christ Jesus. Since the rainbow is such an important symbol in the book of Genesis, a remarkable sign of our Creator's compassionate concern for the welfare of all mankind, they are using it instead to represent gender perversion and sexual depravity. They take special pleasure in getting children to interpret the rainbow in this way and to absorb the lawlessness and pleasure-seeking nihilism that, in its re-imagined form, it represents.

Why would the Queen connect the rainbow with children in a speech of this kind? When we understand the way the Elite are weaving their web, where ensnarement is their abiding concern at every level, we can see how its various strands criss-cross and overlap as they do:

"They hatch cockatrice' eggs, and weave the spider's web:
he that eateth of their eggs dieth, and that which is crushed breaketh out into a viper."
- Isaiah 59:5

The Illuminati like to conduct rituals in plain view which, in accordance with their As above, so below philosophy, will facilitate the manifestation of their plans via the hidden 'Force' which they believe permeates the universe. It is a deranged, egocentric philosophy based on a magical perception of reality. Since Satan is unable to create anything, he must resort to symbols and rituals in order to impress his followers. They, in turn, are convinced that their plans will come to pass as intended only if they implement them in conformity with the symbology, numerology and astrological system of signs and correspondences employed for generations by practitioners of the Babylonian religion.

The Opening Ceremony at the 2012 Olympics

Perhaps the largest and most carefully choreographed magical ritual in history took place at the opening ceremony at the 2012 Olympics in London. It was both an elaborate psychodrama directed at an estimated audience of some 900 million people worldwide and a brazen statement of Illuminati surpremacy. The occult ascendancy who control the UK were claiming credit for the creation of the British Empire and the coming New World Order. The latter culminated in a shameless, vainglorious display of their supposedly all-powerful Phoenix in the closing ceremony. The Phoenix is probably the symbol most highly esteemed by the Elite, representing as it does the complete destruction by fire of the 'old world order' and the magical emergence of a new and perfect order – the Fire Bird reborn – from the smouldering ashes of chaos.

We will review a 7-minute segment of the opening ceremony, where the psychodrama combined a celebration of the National Health Service with a sinister sketch eulogizing the British contribution to childen's literature, notably occult fiction. The reading was conducted by J K Rowling, who has done more to glamorize sorcery and witchcraft around the world than any other British author.

Over the next 4 pages we will consider 24 screenshots which spell out a very bizarre narrative, a sequence of events involving a plague of demons, child abduction, implied pedophilia, mass panic and terror, loss of adult protection, some form of adult hypnosis, the imminent risk of harm and mutilation, and delivery of a magic formula by 32 witches who descend from the sky. If we knew nothing of the Covid-19 scare and its complex social ramifications, not to mention its effect on children, we would still find the story unsettling – as indeed many did. But when we look at it again in light of recent events we can see that the massive psychodrama enacted in the opening ceremony was a ritual anticipation of a deadly disease that would target children. As such it points to a later phase of the Covid-19 planned pandemic where children will die.

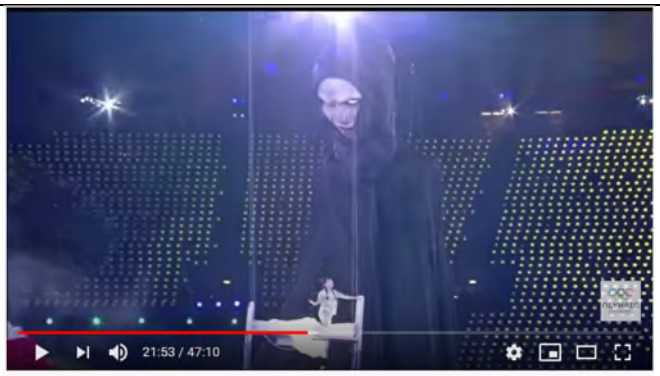

Opening Ceremony - London 2012 Olympic Games

There are 320 hospital beds, each with a child in care.

Opening Ceremony - London 2012 Olympic Games

A swarm of ghouls arrive and begin to move the beds, taking the children along.

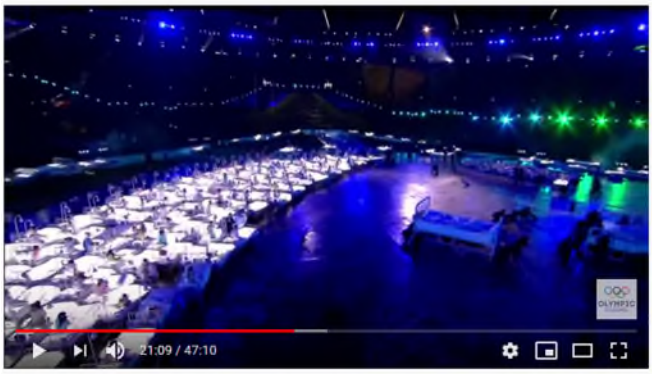

Opening Ceremony - London 2012 Olympic Games

A giant demon targets a specific girl and draws her bed upward.

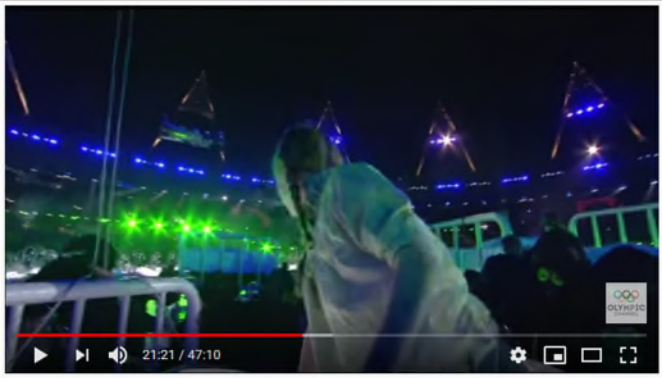

Opening Ceremony - London 2012 Olympic Games

The ghouls become more active and begin to cause mayhem.

Opening Ceremony - London 2012 Olympic Games

The orderly hospital setting is being taken apart.

Opening Ceremony - London 2012 Olympic Games

The children are in a state of panic. They know they are in great danger.

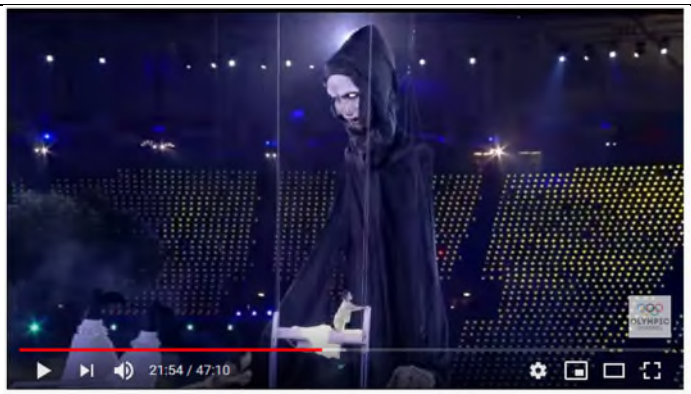

Opening Ceremony - London 2012 Olympic Games

The mayhem increases as the ghouls go on the rampage.

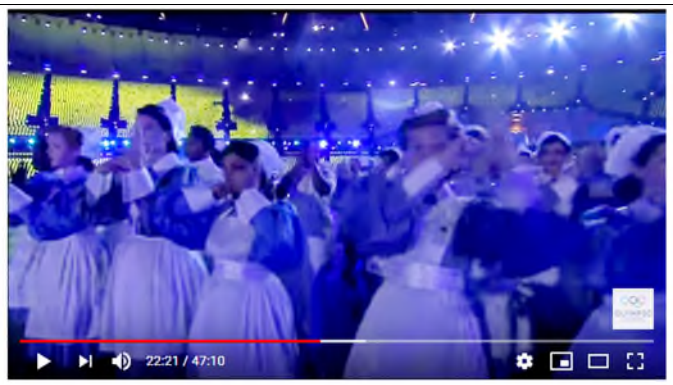

Opening Ceremony - London 2012 Olympic Games

The nursing staff and the hospital doctors are frozen with fear.

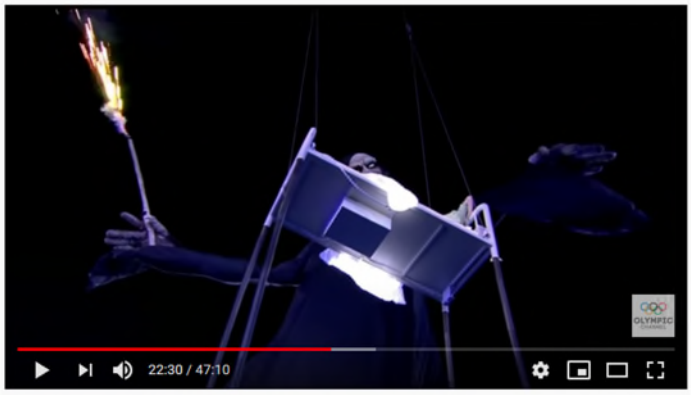

Opening Ceremony - London 2012 Olympic Games

Filled with lust, the giant demon continues to focus on his chosen female victim.

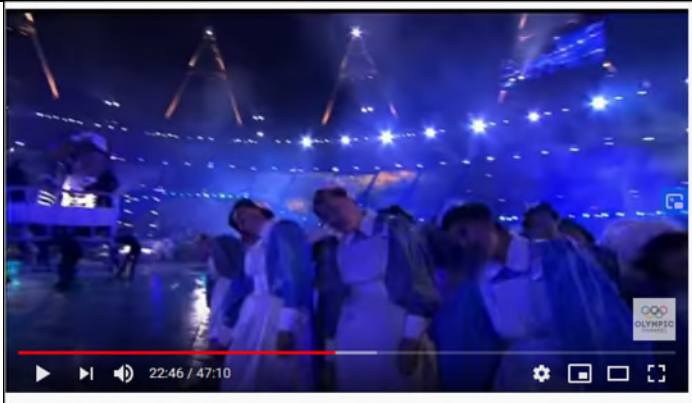

Opening Ceremony - London 2012 Olympic Games

The nursing staff start to perform ritual rhythmic movements.

Opening Ceremony - London 2012 Olympic Games

The giant demon becomes so excited that he spews from his wand. A very sexual image.

Opening Ceremony - London 2012 Olympic Games

The nurses' ritual puts them to sleep.

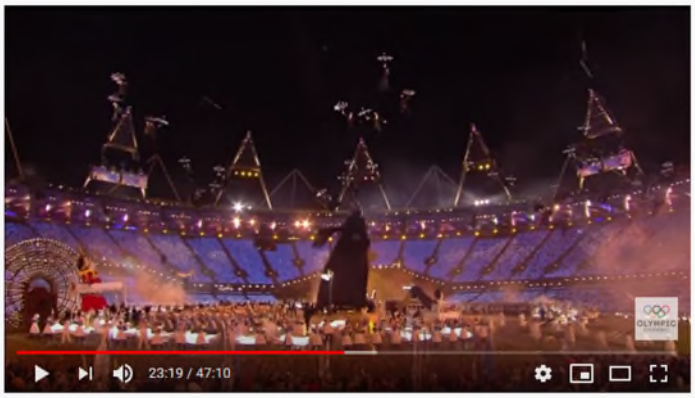

Opening Ceremony - London 2012 Olympic Games

The ghouls are now chasing individual children.

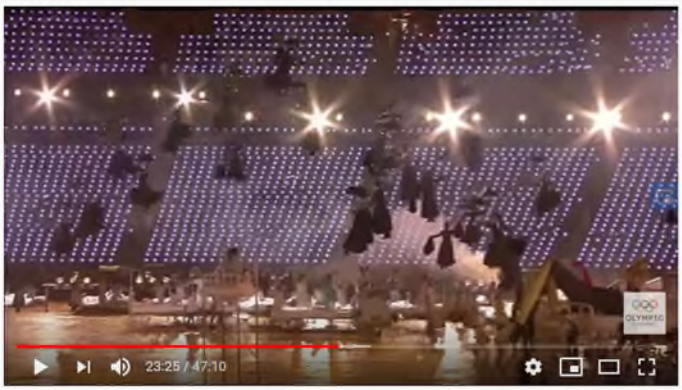

Opening Ceremony - London 2012 Olympic Games

While the useless nurses sleep, the children look up to see salvation coming from the sky.

Opening Ceremony - London 2012 Olympic Games

'Mary Poppins' figures, 32 in all, descend from the sky using their magic umbrellas.

Opening Ceremony - London 2012 Olympic Games

They arrive at the hospital just in time.

Opening Ceremony - London 2012 Olympic Games

Jubilant doctors rush over to greet them and, seemingly, to receive a special medicine.

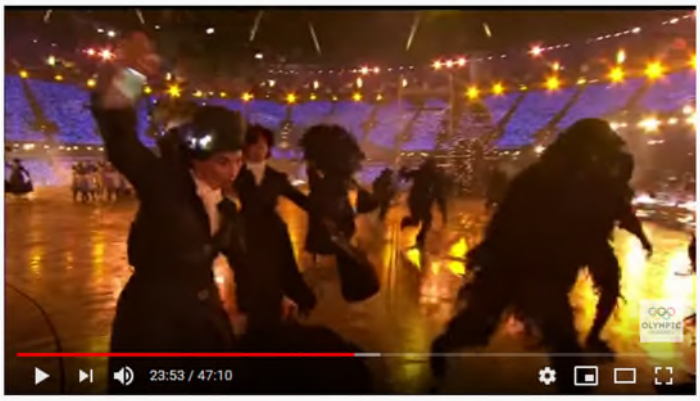

Opening Ceremony - London 2012 Olympic Games

Each doctor goes to a 'Mary Poppins' witch and retrieves the medicine from a pouch.

Opening Ceremony - London 2012 Olympic Games

The nurses now come alive again. Perhaps the medicine was for them?

Opening Ceremony - London 2012 Olympic Games

The 'Mary Poppins' witches chase the ghouls from the hospital.

Opening Ceremony - London 2012 Olympic Games

Now the medical staff finally get involved and help to eject the ghouls.

Opening Ceremony - London 2012 Olympic Games

Everyone is overjoyed to have defeated the giant demon and his ghouls.

Opening Ceremony - London 2012 Olympic Games

With everyone safely in bed, an enormous baby appears on the scene.

This strange ritual may seem rather obscure, but its “message” becomes intelligible when we see how it relates to subsequent events on the world stage. The future scenario that they envisaged is as follows: A new disease will infect our children. A large number will become sufficiently ill to warrant hospitalization. Their condition will deterioriate to the point where medical staff will be unable to do anything for them. An outside agency will then appear on the scene and provide a perfect solution or therapy. This outside agency will use sorcery or “pharmakeia” – the Greek word for sorcery in the Bible – to develop a cure.

The giant baby which appeared at the end of the ritual represents the “birth” of the New World Order. It therefore corresponds to the Phoenix which appeared at the end of the closing ceremony.

The children’s hospital depicted in the ritual was Great Ormonds Street Hospital, sometimes known by the acronym, GOSH. This word (“Gosh!”) has entered the vernacular today as an expression of surprise, but it is actually an old English way of blaspheming the name of God.

H.R.6666

We now come to the troubling Bill which the Democrats have brought before the U.S. Congress – H.R.6666. The Republicans, it is believed, are working on a similar Bill. The goal of both is a nationwide scheme of contact tracing, where a record will be kept of every person who contracts Covid-19 and all persons whom they are likely to have “contacted” and potentially infected. Such a scheme would require a veritable army of contact tracers across each state, with the aim of implementing the surveillance system envisaged by Dr Levin (see above): "As we do more testing we will find more and more people who have Covid-19 and again we'll isolate every one of them and we will find every one of their contacts, and we will make sure that they stay quarantined and will check in with them every day."

The magnitude of this bizarre undertaking is reflected in the price tag cited in H.R.6666, namely €100 billion in the first year alone. (That money could more usefully be spent on sending every member of Congress to a luxury tropical resort for the rest of their natural lives, where they could inflict no more harm on the American people.)

The number chosen to present this piece of draft legislation – 6666 – is hardly accidental. Apparently the Elite cabal who control America are proud to attach their most distinctive number to this totalitarian statute. In doing so they are effectively mocking the American public, daring the "herd" to rise up from their stupor and oppose this sinister surveillance-and-internment plan.

Home invasion

The stated purpose of the Bill is "To authorize the Secretary of Health and Human Services to award grants to eligible entities to conduct diagnostic testing for COVID-19, and related activities such as contact tracing, through mobile health units and, as necessary, at individuals' residences, and for other purposes."

The inclusion of the words "individuals' residences" should set off alarm bells. So too should the words "and for other purposes." They plan to enter your home and test everyone present. Those who test positive can be removed (if the authorities deem it necessary) and placed in secure facilities for quarantine purposes. Parents may not be able to retain custody of a child who tests positive or, conversely, where both parents test positive and the child does not.

They also plan to test everyone who came in contact with a person who tested positive. This means up to ten or fifteen people could be tracked down and tested in their homes solely on the grounds that they came in contact with the person. This will set off a chain reaction, enabling the authorities to enter virtually every home in the state. Huge numbers of people could be taken away and quarantined for the so-called good of society. Such a round-up – for that's what it is – could be carried out in a relatively short span of time.

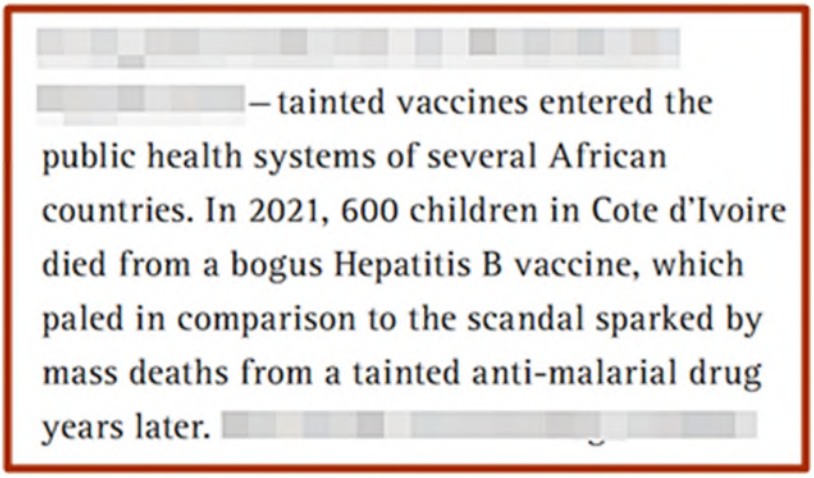

If the state wanted to intern all persons who were likely to resist a totalitarian regime, having identified all such potential 'dissidents' through a comprehensive trawl of their personal online data, it would be easy do so under the guise of protecting public health.

The killing fields of Cambodia under the Khmer Rouge. This is what can happen when a small but ruthless regime decides how everyone else should behave.

It beggars belief that anything of this kind could be contemplated in a democratic society. The proposed program is a tailor-made tool for tyrants, as well as a way of training the general population to fear and obey the state. It also represents a staggering shift in the balance of power, where the rights of the citizen will now be defined by the ruling regime, without reference to the Constitution. Social interaction will also fall dramatically as citizens seek to minimize the risk of associating with someone who might be "of interest" to the authorities.

For those who still have doubts about the willingness of those who control our respective nations to attack the very people they have pledged to 'protect,' we should look again at the Rockefeller report of 2010, which we examined in an earlier paper (#226). The report sets out a number of future scenarios reflecting how the world might be expected to evolve, depending on the way the masses react to the technocratic controls being imposed by the ruling elite. While presented in the form of a theoretical exercise, these scenarios reflect in various ways the counter-measures that the Elite will use to impose their will in each instance. In one scenario, which touches on their proposed use of vaccine programs to extend their influence in developing nations, they made the following incongruous observation, as though alluding to something which they know is sure to transpire:

—tainted vaccines entered the public health systems of several African countries. In 2021, 600 children in Cote d'Ivoire died from a bogus Hepatitis B vaccine, which paled in comparison to the scandal sparked by mass deaths from a tainted anti-malarial drug years later.

By "mass deaths" they mean fatalities that number in the millions. Malaria is endemic across the continent of Africa and a 'promising' new drug would likely be administered to tens of millions of people, including children. Not surprisingly, these deaths will be attributed, not to the pharmaceutical companies, but to the fraudulent distribution of substandard products by ruthless middlemen.

Debilitation, sterilization and death by injection

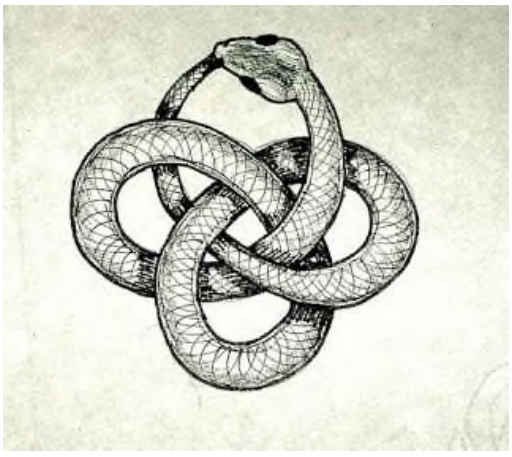

It should be clear from the evidence presented in this paper that large-scale vaccination will play a major role in the sinister program to impose a New World Order. It could serve a number of purposes. The vaccines may be designed to weaken our immune system, leaving a population more vulnerable to infection and chronic fatigue, or they could be used to introduce new diseases, especially highly infectious pathogens which can be activated at the right time by an external trigger, such as electromagnetic radiation of a given frequency. This would allow selected geographical regions, such as centers of food production or food processing, to be sabotaged and rendered ineffective.

The scope for abuse in this way is so great that no country should leave itself open to a health scheme that is managed, influenced or connected in any way by the big pharmaceutical companies. This includes the involvement of organizations that stand to gain from such a scheme, or which receive funding – philantrophic or otherwise – from persons connected with these companies. Millions of people could die or suffer permanent damage to their health from products marketed by companies which know they will never be held accountable for their actions. Note that word – Never. They know they are untouchable, that the legal indemnities that protect them are effectively a license to amass gargantuan profits at no risk to themselves.

Even in the absence of a plan to impose a New World Order, we would still have to contend with the grossly manipulative conduct of the pharmaceutical companies, their lies and pseudo-science, their frenetic marketing of unsafe and untested products, and their almost infinite capacity to bribe, subvert or intimidate anyone who stands in their way.

Serpentine magick

Before closing we would like to refer back to our paper #229 in which we discussed the similarities between the international symbol of toxicity and the ancient symbol of Satan, the coiled serpent:

On 10 May, The Sunday Times carried a prominent cartoon in its central pages:

The powers that be are mocking the British public. Trump in the US and Johnson in the UK are carrying out their assigned Castor and Pollux roles – see our paper #200. Here we see a major newspaper linking the sign of the snake with the awful predicament that is causing such harm to Britain and her people. While their "leader" points with a smirk to the problem ("You are here" – just where we put you – and somehow or other you will have to find your own way out.") The "road map" is one of serpentine confusion, even though the "exit" is in plain view. But, hypnotized by the snake, the masses are unable to see the exit. The cartoon itself is part of the ritual magic that the Elite are using to control the minds of the British public.

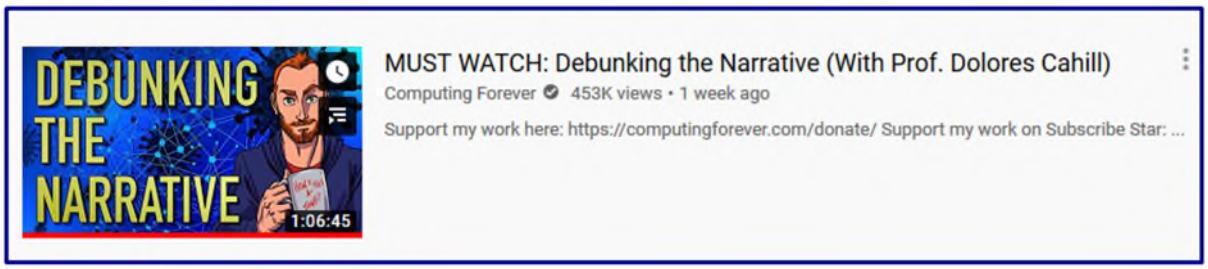

The Sunday Times [center page], 10 May 2020

CONCLUSION

Have no doubt, this crisis is far from over. The wicked have seized the initiative and are seemingly intent on taking their pandemonium to the next level. They wield the power of money and deception, not to mention blackmail, to control key players on the world stage. They crave even greater control over the "herd" and are using their traditional methods – fear, lies, death and confusion – to bring this about. They are also exploiting the power of modern technology to flood the minds of the masses with news that has no factual basis, as well as mischievous speculation and disinformation disguised as genuine science.

For a very revealing discussion of how this is being done in Ireland, we would recommend an interview which Dave Cullen of Computing Forever conducted with Professor Dolores Cahill on 10 May (This should be accessible on YouTube. If it is censored, try one of the alternative platforms like BitChute.) Professor Cahill is rightly calling for a public inquiry, both into the way this whole matter has been handled by our government and into the way the media – RTE, The Irish Times, The Irish Independent – have behaved, with their deliberate suppression of debate, their gross distortion of facts, and their aggressive endorsement of government policy. A properly conducted inquiry would reveal the levels of duplicity and criminality involved and the extent to which the policies now being implemented in Ireland are actually set by foreign powers.

We would also recommend a 7-minute address given by an Italian politician, Sara Cunial, in the Italian parliament on 14 May (This should also be available on YouTube or BitChute). Ms Cunial fearlessly condemned the "the deep state" – the hidden Elite who control and manipulate politicians and the media – and the powerful, unaccountable institutions like Bilderberg, the Gates Foundation, the WHO, the pharmaceutical companies, the big technology companies, and many others which, collectively, are working to overthrow independent sovereign states. She reminded her audience that these subversive entities have nothing but contempt for the Italian people:

> "The real goal of all of this is total control. Absolute domination of human beings, transformed into guinea pigs and slaves, violating sovereignty and free will. All this thanks to tricks/hoax disguised as political compromises… you rip up the Nuremberg code with involuntary treatment, fines and deportation, facial recognition and intimidation, endorsed by dogmatic scientism…"

Sara Cunial delivers her withering address.

Our thanks to people like Dolores and Sara who have the courage to expose the real agenda behind the destructive policies being imposed by our "governments" and the extent to which they are beholden to the New World Order.

We will introduce this paper with a simple quiz. What do you think the two images shown above represent? We will return to this question later in the paper.

When people lose their ability to think rationally, there is no point in trying to reason with them. The best one can hope for is a realization on their part that there may be more to the "official story" than they are being told.

Regular readers of the papers posted on this website will know that we gather the facts as carefully as we can and try to show how they fit into the bigger picture. We must never lose sight of the bigger picture since we already know what it is. God in His mercy has shown it to us in His Word. This is why it is so important that Christians read and re-read the Bible and in particular those passages which relate to the End Time.

The world is currently in the middle of a carefully contrived crisis which the Children of Wickedness have engineered with considerable craft and cunning. Since this crisis is set to get worse, we need to understand how the public is being manipulated, and implacable attitudes shaped, by 'facts' and reports which have little or no scientific basis.

PART ONE

In earlier papers we have shown that the official account of the Wuhan plague is inconsistent with all that we know about epidemics and disease. If Covid-19 is highly contagious, as alleged, then why has it had little or no impact on countries close to China, such as Taiwan, Vietnam, Laos, Cambodia and Mongolia? Why hasn't it had a severe impact on a densely populated country like Japan, with the highest proportion of "at risk" (elderly) people in the world? Tokyo is less than 9 hours flying time for Wuhan, the centre of the outbreak. Hundreds of businessmen flew between these two commercial hubs every week. The virus would therefore have "hit" Japan in early January (In fact its first official case was diagnosed on 14 January). Using the mortality projections being made by scaremongering specialists like Imperial College London, Japan should have had at least 20,000 deaths from the virus by the end of March. What was the actual figure? – 52. Yes, 52, out of a total population of 127 million. Bear in mind, Japan has an unusually high cohort of elderly citizens, the category normally deemed most vulnerable to coronavirus infections. In addition, the population density per square mile in Japan is considerably higher than it is in, say, the US, so the rate of contagion should be much greater.

Belarus

Population 9.5 million. No lockdown, not even social distancing. Number of deaths ascribed to Covid-19? – only 204 (as of 24 May). Most died from other causes but happened to test positive for Covid-19.

As of 24 May, the average number of Covid-19 deaths in Japan per million of the population is 6. The corresponding figure for the UK is 541! If you have any doubts about these figures, check them at https://www.worldometers.info/coronavirus/ -

#	Country, Other	Total Cases	New Cases	Total Deaths	New Deaths	Total Recovered	Active Cases	Serious, Critical	Tot Cases/ 1M pop	Deaths/ 1M pop	Total Tests
5	UK	257,154		36,675		N/A	N/A	1,559	3,790	541	3,348,507
39	Japan	16,536		808		13,244	2,484	174	131	6	268,477

None of this makes any sense. A virus cannot distinguish between populations in this way. There is clearly another factor at work.

Looking at Europe

Let's look at Europe as a whole. We will use the figures from the EUROMomo website. The charts in respect of 19 countries are shown in Appendix A. Up-to-date figures are submitted regularly by individual countries. When tabulated they allow long-run trends to be identified, thus allowing "excess deaths" to be computed. All of the charts take account of excess mortality above the normal range in the period January 2017 to April 2020. Spikes above the dotted red line on each chart ("substantial increase") would be considered significant.

We can break these 19 countries into four sets, based on the extent to which the excess death rate in March/April 2020 varies from recent historical trends:

Little change	Minor change	Notable increase	Major increase
Austria	Portugal	UK (Scotland)	UK (England)
Denmark		Sweden	Belgium
Estonia		Switzerland	France
Finland		Netherlands	Italy
Germany [B&H]		Ireland	Spain
Greece
Hungary
Norway

How is it possible for half the countries in western Europe to have effectively side-stepped a "highly contagious" disease, while a quarter suffered a significant spike in excess deaths?

In order to answer this question, we will look at two of these "major increase" countries – Italy and the UK (England). Each will tell a very disturbing story.

Italy

Everyone has heard of the high death rate from "Covid-19" in northern Italy, notably the region around Brescia and Bergamo. Our TV screens were full of images of accumulating coffins as space was hastily sought in local cemeteries to accommodate the mounting death toll. The rate was so great, we were told, that corpses had to be cremated.

According to the medical experts the air quality in the region was poor, aggravating respiratory tract infections and weakening the immune systems of the high risk elderly population. However, the air quality in Lombardy is not much different from the air quality in many parts of Europe, where the number of "Covid-19" deaths was virtually zero. Furthermore, Italians, even those in the northerly regions, traditionally eat a diet which is conducive to good respiratory health. There was really no reason why elderly people living in the region should be more susceptible to "Covid-19" than the elderly living around Dusseldorf, say, or Warsaw, or Lyons, or Bratislava, or anywhere else for that matter.

Here are some crucial facts which we were not told, and which very likely will never be disclosed in the mainstream media.

Firstly, according to FluTrackers.com, the region around Brescia experienced a severe outbreak of respiratory illness in the period 9 September to 18 October, 2018. In total 878 cases of pneumonia were reported, hundreds of whom had to be hospitalized and given emergency treatment. The cause of this unprecedented epidemic was never properly identified, though many experts offered their opinions. Initially it was believed that Legionella bacteria may have been carried through the air by emissions from industrial cooling towers, but evidence for this was scant. Besides, even if Legionella was involved, it could not have accounted for the scale of contamination.

The average age of those afflicted by the outbreak was 65. Since the infection was bacterial and not viral, patients could be treated successfully with antibiotics. This meant the final death toll was relatively low.

The next undisclosed fact is also relevant. In October 2019, 185 thousand doses of flu vaccine were delivered to Bergamo.

"Prenderà il via il 4 novembre la campagna 2019-2020 antinfluenzale e antipneumococco organizzata dall'Agenzia di Tutela della Salute e dalle ASST della provincia di Bergamo in collaborazione con i Medici di Famiglia."

[Translation of above: The 2019-2020 anti-influenza and anti-pneumococcal campaign organized by the Health Protection Agency and by the ASST of the province of Bergamo will start on 4 November in collaboration with the Family Physicians.]

https://www.bergamonews.it/2019/10/21/vaccinazione-antinfluenzale-a-bergamo-ordinate-185-000-dosi-di-vaccino/332164/

Many commentators believe the seasonal flu vaccine may have caused "viral interference" with the Covid-19 virus, increasing its virulence. It has also been suggested that the flu vaccines delivered to northern Italy were prepared in a canine cell line which contained other coronaviruses (At least three different coronaviruses have been identified in dogs). For example, Flucelvax by Novartis is made, not in the traditional chicken egg cell line, but in canine kidney cells.

The third important fact is probably the most alarming of all. Judge for yourself. It too is not generally known, despite its obvious relevance in any genuine analysis of the so-called Covid-19 pandemic in northern Italy.

https://www.bsnews.it/2020/01/18/meningite-vaccinate-34mila-persone-tra-brescia-e-bergamo/

A local newpaper carried the above headline on 18 January 2020. It reads: "Emergenza Meningite, Vaccinate 34mila persone tra Brescia e Bergamo" – "Meningitis emergency, 34 thousand people vaccinated between Brescia and Bergamo."

From the newspaper report

"Sono quasi 34mila le persone vaccinate in poche settimane contro il Meningocco C, con punte del 70% del target previsto… Ben 40 medici di base del territorio hanno aderito a questa operazione senza precedenti…"

Translation of above: "Almost 34 thousand people vaccinated against Meningocco C in a few weeks, with peaks of 70% of the expected target… As many as 40 general practitioners in the area have joined this unprecedented operation…"

Please take a moment to let this sink in. Meningitis is a dangerous disease. It comes in two forms, bacterial and viral. The bacterial form is far more dangerous. The newpaper report is telling us that 34,000 people in the region of interest to us – Brescia and Bergamo – got this free vaccine in an "unprecedented operation" just a few weeks before the famous 'Covid-19' outbreak.

So, in addition to coping with a serious unexplained epidemic in September 2018, tens of thousands of people living in the region, especially those in the older age bracket, were burdened with a flu vaccine a few months before the 'Covid' outbreak, along with a vaccine to combat meningitis. With the arrival of a seasonal flu virus, the potential for "viral interference" is obvious, not to mention the possible residual impact of latent pathogens following the 2018 epidemic.

If you are eighty years old, with an underlying co-morbidity (which impairs the immune system), these factors could constitute a death sentence. This certainly proved to be the case for thousands of elderly people in the region. It is difficult to dismiss the possibility that the people of Brescia and Bergamo were unwitting guinea-pigs in a vile human experiment.

UK (England)

The excess death rate in England is so great that The British Medical Journal drew attention to it on 13 May, and even used the word "staggering" in its heading. It stated that:

> "Only a third of the excess deaths seen in the community in England and Wales can be explained by Covid-19, new data have shown."

One may need to read this statement a few times to appreciate just how much it conflicts with the standard narrative – the full report may be found in Appendix B.

The report stated that "over the past five weeks, care homes and other community settings had had to deal with a 'staggering burden' of 30,000 more deaths than would normally be expected, as patients were moved out of hospitals that were anticipating high demand for beds. Of those 30,000, only 10,000 have had Covid-19 specified on the death certificate."

The matter was discussed at a high-level meeting of medical and other professionals in the UK on 12 May. While it was acknowledged at the meeting that some of these "excess deaths" might have been the result of under-diagnosis, "the huge number of unexplained extra deaths in [family] homes and care homes is extraordinary." A representative from the University of Cambridge said, "this rise in non-Covid extra deaths outside the hospital is something I hope will be given really severe attention."

"really severe attention"

It is seldom that an organ like the The British Medical Journal carries an expression as dramatic and crisis-laden as "really severe attention." It is obvious that the authorities are dumbfounded by this finding. In just a few weeks, around 20,000 more people died in the UK from standard (non-pandemic) illnesses than would normally be expected. The excess is too great, by far, to be dismissed as a statistical spike. So, what is going on?

There would appear to be three possible explanations:

(a) The sharp reduction in health services available to non-Covid patients caused many of them to die earlier than might have been the case if they had been hospitalized. Regarding this possibility the professor of epidemiology at the London School of Hygiene & Tropical Medicine stated: "Some of these deaths may not have occurred if people had got to hospital. How many is unclear. This issue needs urgent attention, and steps [need to be] taken to ensure that those who would benefit from hospital treatment and care for other conditions can get it." This comment would suggest that there were few at the meeting on 12 May who believed that reduced hospitalization could account for such a high figure.

(b) Thousands died unlawfully, whether through neglect or euthanasia.

(c) Thousands were fatally harmed by an unknown environmental agent.

The second possibility is not as outrageous as it might first appear. We have already discussed in a previous paper (#167) the systematic murder of over 650 patients at a hospital in Gosport over a ten-year period. The medical profession in the UK and elsewhere has for decades been sympathetic to the view that human life should end when people have ceased for many years to make a productive contribution to society. They are effectively seen as "useless eaters" whose continued existence is a drain on the economy and serves no useful purpose. The English ruling classes have long held this view:

> "We should facilitate, instead of foolishly and vainly endeavoring to impede, the operations of nature in producing this mortality; and if we dread the too frequent visitation of the horrid form of famine, we should sedulously encourage the other forms of destruction, which we compel nature to use. In our towns we should make the streets narrower, crowd more people into the houses, and court the return of the plague."
> - Thomas Malthus, Essay on Population, 1798

"Please make comfortable."

The famous 'Liverpool Pathway,' an end-of-life care program in the UK which came dangerously close to enabling euthanasia, was grounded in this utilitarian philosophy. We saw how it manifested in the "Please make comfortable" instruction which was used at Gosport. When a new patient was admitted the doctor on duty wrote "Please make comfortable" in the patient's medical chart, thereby enabling the nurses caring for the patient to certify his or her death without consulting further with the doctor. Using this protective license, a team of nurses at the hospital were able to murder hundreds of patients over a period of several years without detection. The murder rate was horrifying – one patient every 5 days – but possibly just as horrifying was the extent to which the British medical establishment went to cover it up. In fact, the cover-up continues to this day since the media won't touch the story and not one person has been jailed.

“Do not resuscitate” (DNR)

A similar if less cynical procedure is used in Ireland, known by the term, “Do not resuscitate” (DNR). Even though there is no legislative basis for this practice, it is believed to be widespread. Under it, a doctor can indicate, either in writing or simply by word of mouth, that the nurse is not to resuscitate the patient using CPR should he or she go into cardiac arrest. In effect, the nurse has sole discretion to decide whether a patient lives or dies.

A member of Dáil Eireann raised this matter with the Minister for Health on 21 May. He was concerned that the high number of Covid-type deaths in a nursing home in his constituency may have been due to the liberal use of the DNR option. It is a mark of how prevalent this practice has become that it is now being raised in Dáil Eireann. Normally Irish deputies steer well clear of anything that might embarrass the Government – there has been no political opposition in Ireland, and therefore no accountability by the Executive, for over twenty years.

“an unbelievably serious matter”

In raising the matter, Deputy Fitzpatrick said: “A HIQA report from a number of years back referred to the fact that "do not resuscitate" orders were written on the medical charts of patients in some nursing homes without the consent or knowledge of the next of kin. This is an unbelievably serious matter and the only response to this is more openness and public debate on the issue.”

The Minister did not deny that this was happening but said he would “consider” the matter!

In a damning review of DNR in Ireland in 2018, the website irishhealth.com stated:

> Currently, there are no Irish medical guidelines, nor is there any legislation that covers this particularly sensitive area. It means that the decision can be taken by just one healthcare professional, without any input from the healthcare team involved or the family of the patient. That is a most unsatisfactory situation. Furthermore because the healthcare professional who issues the DNR order may be reluctant to formally record it in the patient's record, it may be passed on verbally to staff and relatives may never even know that CPR was not attempted on their loved one.

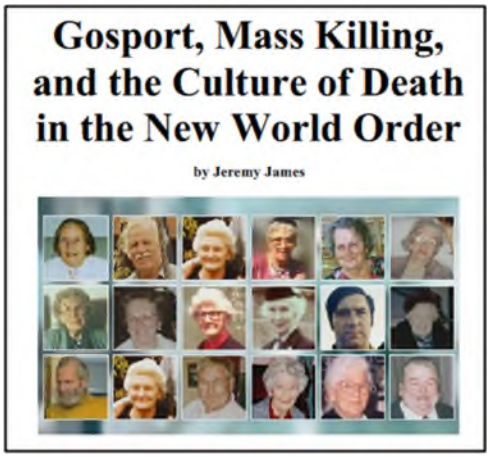

The third possibility – where thousands are fatally harmed by an unknown environmental agent – must also be taken into account. It is difficult to say what this might be, other than 5G.

Manipulation and Deception by our Governments

In summary, the situation in both Italy and the UK is a cause of real concern. In each instance we have identified factors which could have contributed to the high excess death rate, factors which have nothing to do with a pandemic disease. If the Elite are determined to press ahead with their 'lockdown' and associated system of social control – social distancing, contact tracing, official testing, vaccine passports, home entry, family separation, remote quarantine, and compulsory vaccination – then they must be able to maintain a high "excess death" rate by one means or another. Quite possibly all of the factors we have identified are being used, as and when the occasion requires.

The Gosport murders and the official cover-up

For readers who may still doubt the willingness of the architects behind the coming New World Order to employ pathological methods of this kind, we would recommend that they re-read our paper on the Gosport killings (#167). We are not dealing here with normal people but with a power-hungry consortium whose morals are no different from those of the Nazis.

The official report into the Gosport killings, which was published in June 2018, concluded that, over a period of 10 years or so, the staff at Gosport War Memorial Hospital were guilty of the unlawful killing of over 650 patients. The circumstances of these killings, the steps taken to conceal what was happening, and the complicity of dozens of trusted persons in positions of authority are simply chilling.

Conscience and compassion are alien words to these people, a sign of weakness. In their philosophy, the end justifies the means. They are convinced that the population of the world must be reduced to 500 million or so, otherwise the earth will be "overrun" by useless eaters. In order to achieve that reduction, a centralized system of world government is required. Since sovereign nations are not going to voluntarily surrender their independence, they believe it is necessary to create a series of major crises to convince them that a centralized world government is essential. If they are to achieve the desired effect, these crises must be sufficiently traumatic that no alternative solution is even considered. Massive economic distress, widescale social unrest, and a high death toll are seen as a sure path to success.

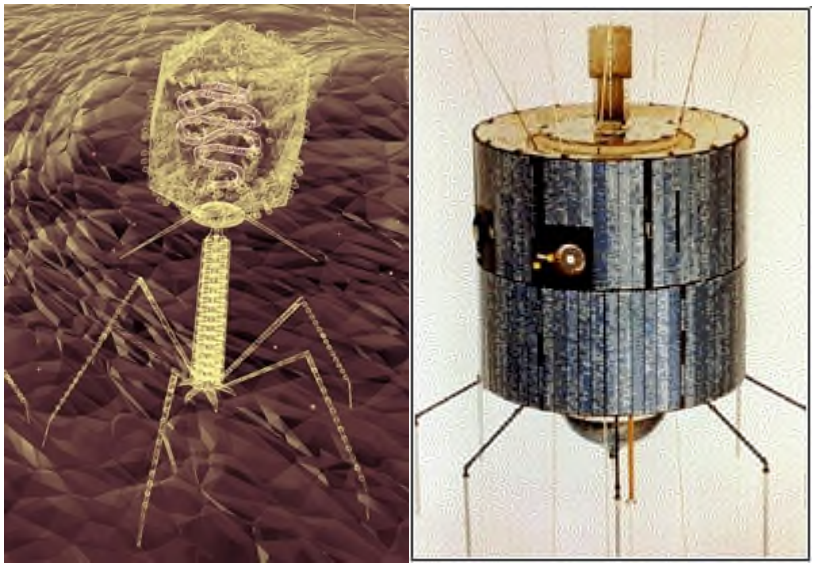

That's what the planned "pandemic" is all about. It's a massive exercise in mind control and social manipulation. And it's getting results.

PART TWO

The Ruling Elite are described in the Bible as "the children of wickedness." Their god is not the God of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob. They despise the Word of God and they loath the living Word, Christ Jesus. As practitioners of the "old religion" they worship and serve the Adversary and the 'host of heaven' – mostly through the pantheons of ancient Egypt, Babylon, Greece and Rome. The various 'gods' in these pagan religions are essentially the same high-ranking demonic entities, but expressed in different, albeit similar, forms from one culture to another.

In our recent paper, The Gods of Ancient Egypt and the Mark of the Beast (#229), as well as in several papers cited therein, we have shown how the magical system of Ancient Egypt is shaping and guiding the minds of the Ruling Elite. The city of London is, esoterically, a modern version of Heliopolis, the City of the Sun, while the religious system which the British Empire spread across the world is basically that of Ancient Egypt but expressed in the form of Freemasonry.

Before we give a concrete example of this, we will return briefly to our opening quiz:

Some readers may have guessed that the image on the right is that of an early NASA 'satellite', but few will have identified the image on the left. It is supposed to be a photo of a virus taken by a mass spectrometer in 2018 (Note the coiled serpent beneath the pyramid!) In our opinion, both are fictional.

Since we have already dealt with this theme at some length in previous papers, such as #118 (The Illuminati are Using Sham Science and Bogus Theories to Deceive Mankind), we will not pursue it further on this occasion. However, he will ask our readers to treat with suspicion the claim that the image on the left is a virus and to consider instead the possibility that it is just one of the many tricks that the Elite are using to confuse mankind and create a false reality.

We'll return briefly to this 'virus' in Part Three.

We will now address, using a concrete example, the way the gods of ancient Egypt are worshipped today in Freemasonry.

Since this practice has been shrouded in secrecy for hundreds of years, it has not been possible until recently to put the two side by side and prove they are connected. While much evidence for this pagan practice may be found in Masonic writings, not to mention the regalia and insignia used in certain lodges and rites, the smoking gun, as it were, has not been easy to find. This is why the following example is so important, enabling sceptics to see for themselves that Freemasonry is the religion of Ancient Egypt in a thinly disguised form.

The 'Egyptian Room', Scottish Royal Arch Masonic Temple, Sydney, Australia.

Regarding the above, Wikipedia says:

> The major feature of the Egyptian Room is the frieze which depicts the funeral procession and burial rites of the scribe, Ani, together with the after-death trials of his soul before the gods. These scenes come from a version of what is popularly known as "The Book of the Dead", but which, in fact is entitled "The Book of Coming Forth By Day" – that is, the day of the after-life. Such papyri were intended as "guide books" for the soul in its after-death condition so that it could negotiate the perils which it would be encountering in the world beyond the grave. The Egyptian texts, which have been found in tombs from around 1600 to 1300 BC assume that the dead person's ka (or spirit body) will encounter various trials (including demons of various forms), before facing judgement and (hopefully) resurrection into a new life.

The Papyrus of Ani, from which the vignettes around the Room have been accurately reproduced, was acquired by the British Museum about 1935 and had been written in the 18th Dynasty (about 1450 BC) for Ani, "Veritable royal scribe, scribe and accountant of the offerings of all the gods, governor of the granary of the Lords of Abydos, scribe of the offerings of the Lords of Thebes". His wife Tutu, a member of the royal college of singers in the temple of Amen-Ra at Thebes had died some years before him, but she appears in some of the vignettes...

That section of the frieze in the east, over the throne for the Master of the Lodge, shows the judgement in which the dead man's soul, represented by his heart, was placed on a balance and weighed against truth and righteousness (Maat), represented by a feather.

The balance is held by the jackal-headed god, Anubis. If Ani's heart is heavier than the feather he is condemned. However, if he is found righteous "His heart is found righteous coming forth from the balance" and he is taken before Osiris in the Hall of Truth.

Freemasons, especially those in the higher degrees, worship the gods of Ancient Egypt. For years they have concealed their allegiance to this pagan religion, but today they are much more open about their veneration of Ra, Maat, Osiris, Anubis etc, whom they revere as divine beings.

Freemasonry despises Christianity and has been working stealthily for centuries to destroy it. All newly inducted Masons are taught that it is alright to deceive – both the public and each other – to protect the Craft. They swear a blood oath never to reveal what Freemasonry is all about.

In the lower degrees they are taught to believe that Jesus Christ was a "good man", but certainly not the Son of God. As they advance up the ranks, the lies deepen and the darkness grows more intense. Every Masonic lodge is actually a temple to the gods of Ancient Egypt and anyone who attends a lodge is paying homage, through the rites, symbols and doctrines of Freemasonry, to the gods of Egypt.

The Egyptian Book of the Dead

The above excerpt from Wikipedia mentions that the scenes in question are taken from the Egyptian Book of the Dead. In his authoritative Encyclopaedia of Freemasonry, Mackey quotes approvingly from The Book of the Dead, showing how central it is to Masonic philosophy. In fact he cites the following passage at length in order to prove that the initiations and gods of Freemasonry are those of Ancient Egypt:

"Says Thot to Osiris, King of Eternity, I am the great God in the divine boat; I fight for thee; I am one of the divine chiefs who are the TRUE LIVING WORD of Osiris. I am Thot, who makes to be real the word of Horus against his enemies. The word of Osiris against his enemies made truth in Thot, and the order is executed by Thot. I am with Horus on the day of celebrating the festival of Osiris, the good Being, whose Word is truth; I make offerings to Ra (the Sun); I am a simple priest in the underworld, anointing in Abydos, elevating to higher degrees of initiation; I am prophet in Abydos on the day of opening or upheaving the earth. I behold the mysteries of the door of the underworld; I direct the ceremonies of Mendes; I am the assistant in the exercise of their functions; I AM GRAND MASTER OF THE CRAFTSMEN WHO SET UP THE SACRED ARCH FOR A SUPPORT." (See Truth.)

From this we can see that, to high-level Masons, the "TRUE LIVING WORD" is the pantheon of gods who sail in the Solar Barque or "divine boat" – Thoth, Osiris, Horus, Ra and the rest.

The gods of ancient Egypt – the very demons who opposed Moses – are worshipped today in cities and towns across America. The same demons are also worshipped in England, Scotland, Ireland, Canada, France, Italy, Germany, Netherlands, Sweden, Austria, Poland, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa, Brasil, Mexico and, according to the list of 'Masonic Grand Lodges' in Wikipedia, more than a hundred other countries.

Freemasonry is the unspoken religion of the Anglo-American ascendancy who control the wealth and ruling institutions of the world and who are bringing in a New World Order.

PART THREE

In this part we intend to show how the matters discussed in Parts One and Two are related. For readers who are not yet familiar with the strange world of astral duality in which the Elite spend their lives, a world full of symbolism and ritual activity, the following information may seem too fantastic to be true. However, for those who have learned the importance of the magical principal, As above, so below, in the Babylonian-Egyptian-Masonic religion, the connection we are about to reveal will make a great deal of sense.

As we have already noted, the city of London is a modern 'City of the Sun', akin to Heliopolis in Ancient Egypt. In our earlier paper, Babylonian London, Nimrod, and the Secret War Against God [#56], we gave many examples of the way the obelisks, spires and steeples of London are arranged to represent the constellations in the night sky. These star patterns are known as asterisms, while the obelisks and spires are, as the Bible tells us, Asherim or shrines to the pagan god, Baal/Satan.

> "And he [Josiah] brake in pieces the images [Hebrew: Matstsebah, obelisk], and cut down the groves [Asherim], and filled their places with the bones of men. Moreover the altar that was at Bethel, and the high place which Jeroboam the son of Nebat, who made Israel to sin, had made, both that altar and the high place he brake down, and burned the high place, and stamped it small to powder, and burned the grove [Asherah]." - 2 Kings 23:14-15

The principle, As above, so below, would seem to require that the terrestrial or earthly representations of the celestial bodies reflect in some manner their stature or prominence in the night sky. In our earlier paper we speculated that, since the brightest star in the northern sky is Sirius, which lies in the constellation Canis Major, and since the largest of the massive Asherim of London is the Fire of London Monument, the latter might be related in some way to Sirius.

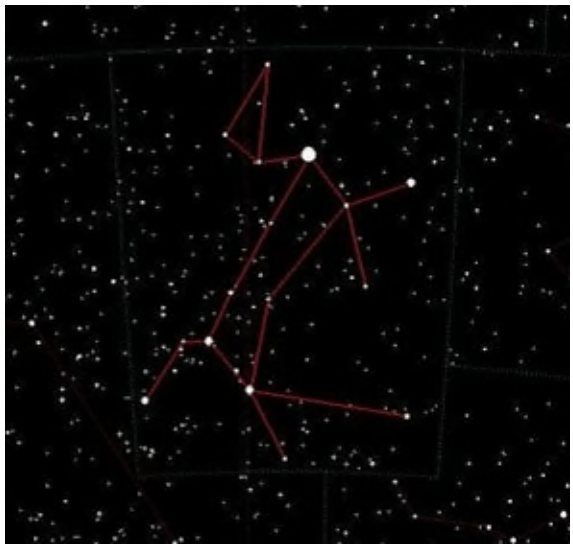

If so, then it might also be associated with certain other Asherim to form an asterism of Canis Major, the constellation in which Sirius is located.

We give some charts below showing the structure of this asterism:

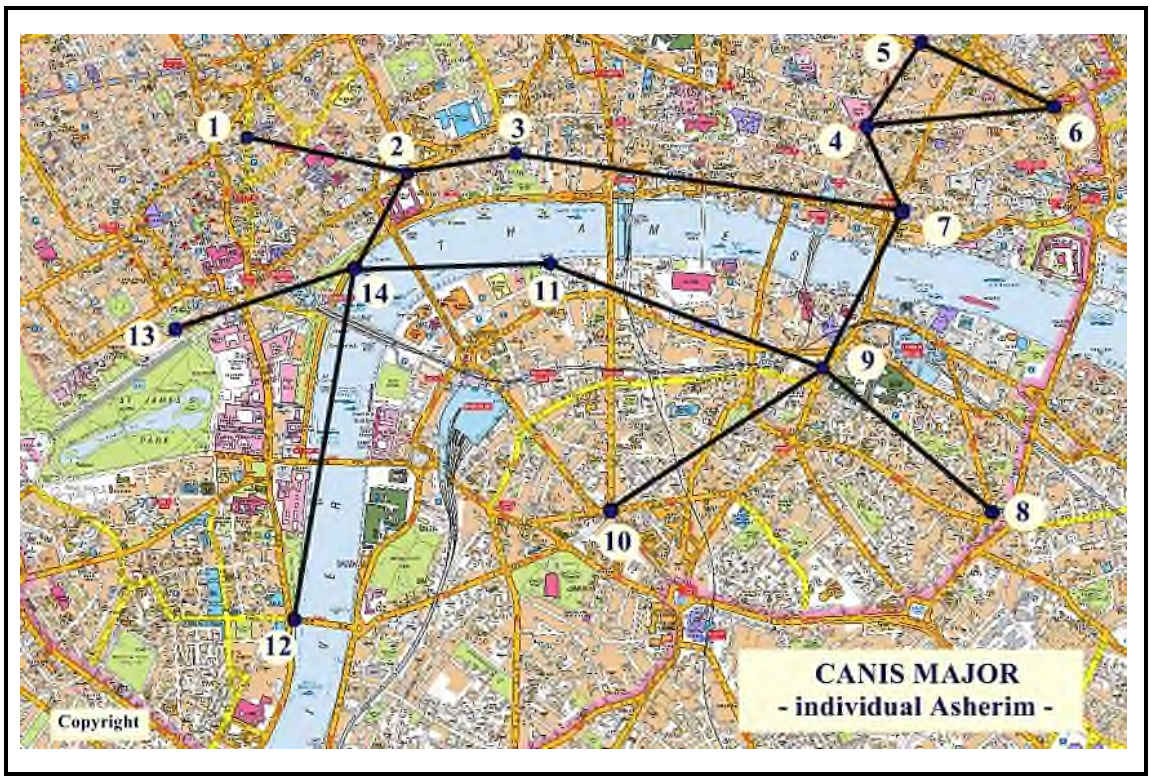

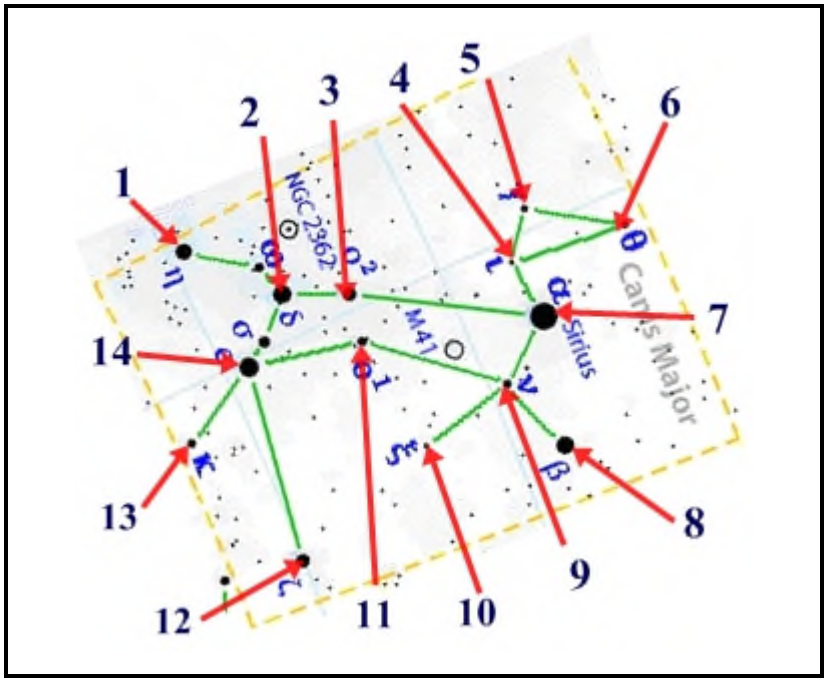

Images of the Asterism known as Canis Major.
Canis Major* means "greater dog". It is regarded as Nimrod's principal hunting dog.

On the basis that the Fire of London Monument corresponded to Sirius, it was possible to identify the other 13 Asherim in the asterism, as follows (Sirius is #7):

Each of the numbered Asherim on the map above corresponds with one of the individual stars in the Canis Major asterism below:

Canis Major Asterism
	Asherim	Classical name of star
1	Seven Dials Column	Aludra
2	St Mary-le-Strand spire	Wezen
3	Temple Column, Temple Church	O2
4	London War Memorial, Royal Exchange	Muliphein
5	All Hallows-on-the-Wall
6	St Botolph, Aldgate
7	Fire of London Monument	Sirius – brightest star in sky
8	St Mary Magdalen, Bermondsey	Murzim
9	War Memorial, Borough High Street
10	Obelisk, St George's Circus
11	Oxo Tower	O1
12	Two obelisks on west side of Lambeth Bridge	Furud – a binary star
13	Duke of York Column
14	Cleopatra's Needle [actual Egyptian obelisk]	Adhara

These Asherim comprise some of the biggest monuments in London and are among the most significant of their type in the world. Cleopatra's Needle, for example, a massive 69 foot obelisk on the bank of the Thames, was first erected in Heliopolis in Ancient Egypt around 1450BC. As we noted in our earlier paper [#56] the Seven Dials Column is also steeped in occult significance. The Fire of London Monument, at a massive height of 202 feet, is the tallest free-standing stone column in the world. At over 130 feet, the Duke of York column is another colossus. Temple Church is dedicated to the Knights Templar, precursor to the Freemasons, while its column is supposed to mark the spot where the Great Fire of London (1666) was finally extinguished.

The photos overleaf will give the reader a better idea of the magnitude and stature of these buildings and monuments. Given that they went to such lengths to construct this asterism, we may safely conclude that Canis Major and Sirius itself are especially significant to the Illuminati.

Sirius

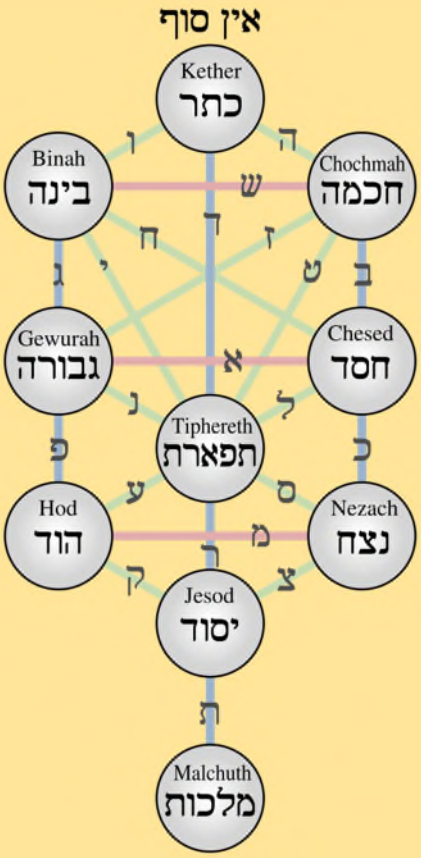

The key element is Sirius, the brightest star in the night sky and the star most esteemed in ancient Egyptian mythology. It is the famous "dog star." As such it represents the savage dog that Nimrod used for hunting and killing both animals and men. Nimrod himself, as the Bible tells us, was the first great rebel in the post-Diluvian era, a ruthless leader who defied the will of God and tried to establish a system of world government. In the eyes of the Illuminati – the Babylonians of our modern era – the coming Antichrist will be the ultimate embodiment of Nimrod and his ideals.

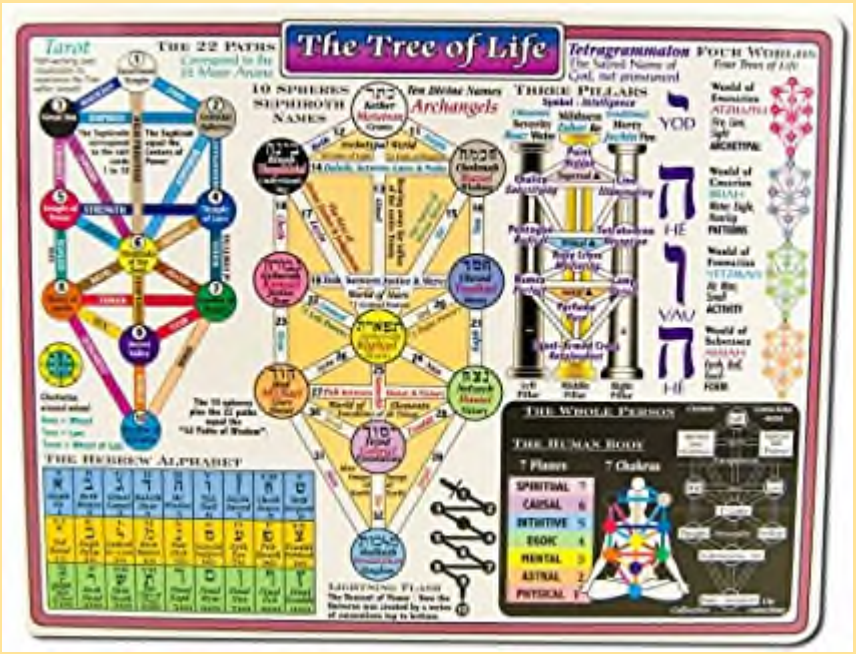

The constellation of Orion, the great hunter.
The Bible called him Nimrod.
Sirius, the brightest star in the sky, is bound by a leash to Orion's 'belt'.

Sirius was greatly prized by all Egyptians – royalty, military, the priestcraft, and the common people – since its appearance above the horizon at dawn marked both the start of the Egyptian New Year and the commencement of the annual Nile inundation.

This theme – appearing above the horizon at dawn – is embodied in the occult architecture of London, the City of the Sun. As we demonstrated in #56 (see chapter 15), the Asherim of London are arranged by reference to a set of circles spread across the city, each with an obelisk at its center. All of these circles have the same radius, namely 3,111 feet (This may be why the Fire of London Monument has exactly 311 steps). Since they all have the same radius, they inscribe a right-angled triangle – which is 'sacred' in the iconography of Freemasonry – whose hypotenuse is in all cases 4,399 feet long. That number is highly significant in the numerology of Babylon since its factors are 666 x 6.606.

First: Qabbalah Tree of Life (Wikipedia).
Second: Tree of Life reference chart sold on Amazon.

Sirius itself was closely associated with both Isis and Osiris, and seemingly was deemed almost as potent in the night sky as the sun in the daytime. In esoteric terms, therefore, the earthly 'representative' of Sirius, the Fire of London Monument, must in some way express the notion of deity. In order to see how this concept is handled in Freemasonry, we turn to what many Masons regard as their 'scripture,' the work known as Morals and Dogma of the Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite of Freemasonry (1871) by Albert Pike.

Perhaps more than any other Masonic writer, Pike reveals the extent to which Freemasonry is rooted in Kabbalah, the system of magic acquired and developed by apostate Jews based in Babylon around the time of the Captivity and later codified by various Cabalist mystics. It explained creation as a process involving 10 'divine numbers' or ciphers, the 22 letters of the Hebrew alphabet and, as Pike notes, "a triangle, a circle, and a square." He goes on to say that, "All truly dogmatic religions have issued from the Kabbalah and return to it: everything scientific and grand in the religious dreams of all the illuminati, Jacob Boehme, Swedenborg, Saint-Martin, and others, is borrowed from the Kabbalah; all the Masonic associations owe to it their Secrets and their Symbols." (Morals and Dogma)

The esoteric circles which determine the placement of the Asherim of London would appear to correspond to the various "spheres" or Sephiroth in the Kabbalah Tree of Life. The highest sphere is called Kether or "Crown." Above the Crown is Ain Soph or "Endless Light," the Godhead itself, of which nothing can be said. Thus Kether or Crown, the first emanation of God, is the one from which the whole of creation derives, the primordial source.

The following quotation from Pike decribes the ultimate Babylonian conception of Deity:

> The Cause of Causes made ten Numerations, and called the Source of Spring KETHER, Corona, the Crown, in which the idea of circularity is involved, for there is no end to the out-flow of Light; and therefore He called this, like Himself, endless; for this also, like Him, has no similitude or configuration, nor hath it any vessel or receptacle wherein it may be contained, or by means whereof any possible cognizance can be had of it.

From the chapter on the 28th Degree (p.485)

The "Corona" or Crown is a source or spring of creative Light, uncontainable and endless. The Corona is the "Cause of Causes," the foundation of being. Pike virtually identifies it with Ain Soph when he says, "...the CROWN...is the Throne of the Infinite, that is, its first and highest Seat, than which none is higher, and because Ain Soph resides and is concealed therein: hence it rejoices in the same name." (p.480)

If one were to represent this Corona, this radiant Sphere of perfect Light, in a physical form, it might look like this:

And where do we find this Corona? On top of the Fire of London Monument:

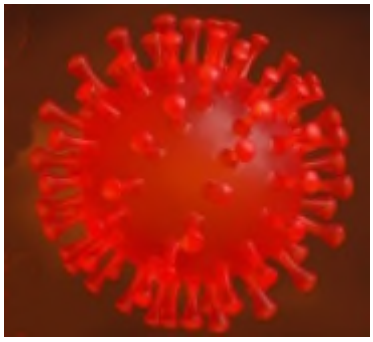

The massive size of this artefact may be gauged from the following photo which shows a group of tourists on the viewing platform beneath the Corona:

There is a striking similarity, if not isometry, between the Corona and the 'Corona' virus:

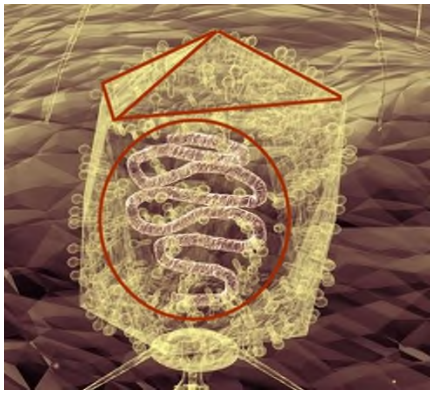

What are the chances that the 'disease' which is intended to topple the 'Old World Order' should have a morphology reminiscent of the symbol of deity in the 'New World Order'?

The Fire of London Monument was erected in 1677, so the answer to this question must lie in decisions taken in more recent times.

In our last paper (#231) we referred to the Opening Ceremony at the 2012 Olympics in London. As an occult extravaganza brimming with Illuminati symbolism, it was designed to celebrate – in a disguised way – the coming New World Order. The Closing Ceremony ended with a fiery Phoenix, symbol of the New World Order, hovering above a partially submerged sphere from which flames were projecting. The latter stood for the destruction by fire of the "old world order," but it was very likely, in addition, a macabre allusion to the 'coronavirus' that will usher in the New World Order. The five rings of the Olympic logo in the photo below – circles of equal size set in a blazing star – were possibly a reference to the Tree of Life.

Given the Illuminati obession with magic, symbolism and mind control, perhaps the next 'killer virus' will be shaped like a coiled serpent concealed beneath a pyramid? –

When Christ returns -

"For the indignation of the LORD is upon all nations, and his fury upon all their armies:
he hath utterly destroyed them, he hath delivered them to the slaughter."

BEFORE

"...in the day of the great slaughter, when the towers fall."
– Isaiah 30:25

AFTER

CONCLUSION

In our analysis we have shown the many inconsistencies in the 'official' account of the so-called Coronavirus pandemic. It is clear that the excess deaths around the world, which spike inexplicably in certain countries only, cannot be the result of a virus alone. There is another factor at work, perhaps several factors.

Western civilization is being deconstructed using a system of attack which hides the malice behind it. There is no need for a 'lockdown' anywhere. This purported solution is in reality a means of destroying the countries concerned. The perpetrators do not need to lay hands on their victims. It is necessary only to trick them into harming themselves. This is the kind of 'magick' that is most pleasing to practitioners of the occult.

Illuminati arrogance.
The 'herd' is ordered to obey.

Covid-19 is like Nimrod's dog. Once unleashed it creates terror everywhere. While this is happening, few pause to consider its dark purpose. The world as a whole cannot see that the 'pandemic' is a weapon that is being used against them and so they accept – obligingly, foolishly, naively – the narrative being pumped out daily in the media.

There is one recurring message in this relentless propaganda – 'Take the vaccine.' This, we are told, will solve all our problems and allow everything to return to 'normal'. The dog will finally be put back on his leash. Alas, the vaccine will allow the dog to run, not just up and down our streets, but through our homes as well.

The planned pandemic is not just a strategic operation but a magic ritual. In true Babylonian style, it works by hypnotizing the masses.

It also contains many elements which exalt the gods of Ancient Egypt. Is there anyone left on earth who does not recognize – and in most cases fear – the great 'Corona' whose image is projected almost continuously on our TV screens?

In March the WHO claimed that Covid-19 would have a fatality rate of 3.4 percent. The latest figures from the CDC give a rate of 0.24 percent. Was the World Health Organization lying? Of course! And the CDC? Of course! Are they still lying? Of course. And will they continue to lie? Of course!

But a hypnotized population will not really notice. As the British Illuminati boasted in the 1930s, We will get the people to the point where they lose the will to resist, where they will accept, even enjoy, their slavery. It is beginning to look as though that day has arrived.

When a people lose their love of the truth, they end up believing in nothing. The Enemy takes advantage of this, secure in the knowledge that a people who believe in nothing can be made to believe anything. They will even spy on each other, walk six feet apart in case they die, stop working, rely on the government to feed their kids, wear a cloth muzzle, wash their hands continuously, imprison themselves in their own homes, and believe virtually anything their lying leaders tell them.

But that will never happen, surely?

APPENDIX B

News report in the British Medical Journal, 13 May 2020

Covid-19: "Staggering number" of extra deaths in community is not explained by covid-19

BMJ 2020; 369 doi: https://doi.org/10.1136/bmj.m1931
(Published 13 May 2020)

by Shaun Griffin

Only a third of the excess deaths seen in the community in England and Wales can be explained by covid-19, new data have shown.

The Office for National Statistics (ONS) data, which cover deaths in hospitals, care homes, private homes, hospices, and elsewhere, show that 6035 people died as a result of suspected or confirmed covid-19 infection in England and Wales in the week ending 1 May 2020 (where deaths were registered up to 9 May), a decline of 2202 from the previous week.

Although the number of deaths in care homes has fallen for the second week in a row, more covid related deaths are being reported in care homes than in hospitals and are tailing off more slowly.

However, David Spiegelhalter, chair of the Winton Centre for Risk and Evidence Communication at the University of Cambridge, said that covid-19 did not explain the high number of deaths taking place in the community.

At a briefing hosted by the Science Media Centre on 12 May he explained that, over the past five weeks, care homes and other community settings had had to deal with a "staggering burden" of 30 000 more deaths than would normally be expected, as patients were moved out of hospitals that were anticipating high demand for beds.

Of those 30 000, only 10 000 have had covid-19 specified on the death certificate. While Spiegelhalter acknowledged that some of these "excess deaths" might be the result of underdiagnosis, "the huge number of unexplained extra deaths in homes and care homes is extraordinary… this rise in non-covid extra deaths outside the hospital is something I hope will be given really severe attention."

He added that many of these deaths would be among people "who may well have lived longer if they had managed to get to hospital."

Underlying causes

David Leon, professor of epidemiology at the London School of Hygiene & Tropical Medicine, agreed. "Some of these deaths may not have occurred if people had got to hospital," he said. "How many is unclear. This issue needs urgent attention, and steps taken to ensure that those who would benefit from hospital treatment and care for other conditions can get it."

Also at the briefing was Jason Oke, senior statistician at the Nuffield Department of Primary Care Health Sciences at the University of Oxford, who explained that equivalent data on excess deaths in Scotland were classified by the underlying cause of death—including dementia, as well as circulatory, cancer, and respiratory causes. In the first week after lockdown a spike in deaths occurred from all causes, but "we now have a return to normality for all except dementia," he explained. He called for the ONS to report on excess deaths in a similar way.

Responding to the latest figures, Jennifer Dixon, chief executive of the Health Foundation think tank, said, "Today's data show that action to tackle the coronavirus pandemic in social care has been late and inadequate, and has highlighted significant weaknesses in the social care system due to decades of neglect and lack of reform. Covid-19 has ultimately magnified the human impact of decades of underfunding in the sector and policy neglect."

In total, England and Wales have recorded 34 978 covid-19 deaths from 28 December 2019 to 9 May this year. More than 22 600 of the deaths occurred in hospitals and 7400 in care homes.

The Great Falling Away

by Jeremy James

In Acts 16:17, we see how the Apostle Paul, exasperated by the mediumistic ramblings of the little girl who was following them around, finally turned and spoke to the demon inside her: "I command thee in the name of Jesus Christ to come out of her."

What was she saying that so annoyed him? According to many translations, including the KJV, she was saying, "These men are the servants of the most high God, which shew unto us the way of salvation." But this is not correct. Demons cannot be trusted to tell the truth about anything. Rather she was saying: "These men are the servants of the most high God, which shew unto us a way of salvation."

The original manuscripts confirm that this is the case. In his literal translation of the Bible, Young translates her words as follows: "These men are servants of the Most High God, who declare to us a way of salvation."

One path of many?

Why is this important? Well, apart from the need for scrupulous accuracy in our handling of God's Word, her actual statement, with the indefinite article, is a proposition straight for the New Age movement. In both the ancient pagan and modern neo-pagan religions, there are many paths to salvation. They teach that each person chooses the one that best suits their spiritual needs, their individuality or 'state of consciousness' as they put it.

The demon which possessed the little girl could see that Paul and Silas were not simply teaching a new way of salvation, but were claiming that it was the only way. The Enemy will not tolerate this! He hates the Gospel of salvation, but he hates just as intensely the claim that it is the ONLY way.

Properly taught, the Gospel leaves one in no doubt that there is no way to salvation except through a personal relationship with Jesus Christ. All of the worldly religions, faiths and philosophies are utterly devoid of truth.

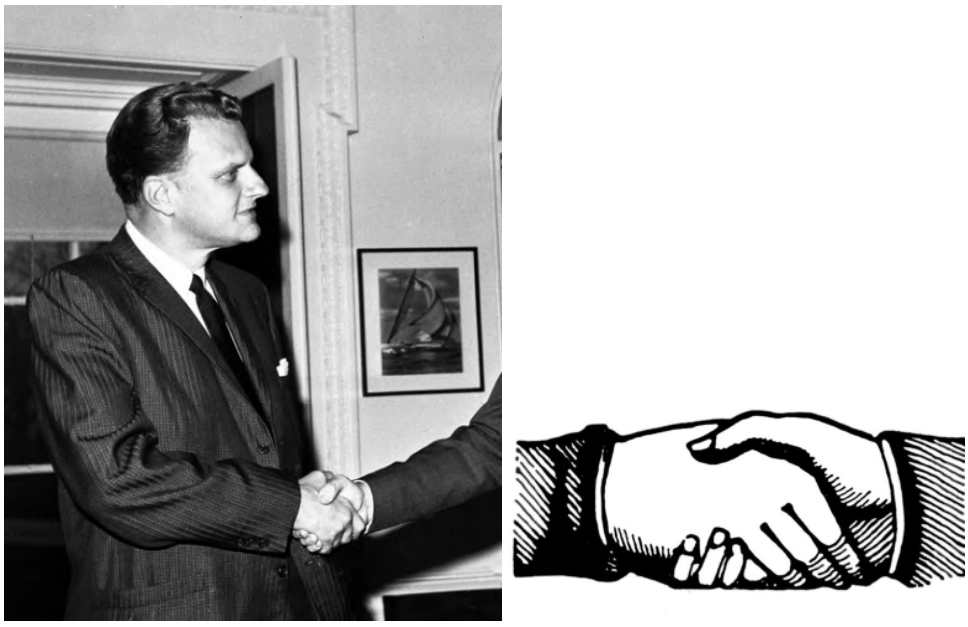

The False Gospel of 'core truths'

Alas, this is not how the Gospel is preached today. The modern Gospel confines itself instead to certain core truths. A person becomes a believer, they say, when he accepts these truths. In reality, the convert has found "a way of salvation" but has not truly realized that faith in the blood of Christ is the only way of salvation. Somewhere in his heart he still sees, however faintly, some intrinsic goodness in those who have not yet come to Christ. He cannot accept that they are lost.

The convert has found religion, in this case Christianity, but he is not saved. He may feel tranquil and secure within himself, but he has not been born again. He is still in darkness, unregenerated, alienated from God. He has become one of those to whom the Lord will say on Judgment day, "I never knew you."

This is unbelievably sad. How else can we put it? But if the Gospel that is preached is the modern Ecumenical gospel, the one based on certain core truths and not the Word of God, then this is the outcome. It cannot be otherwise.

We need to look closely at what is happening here. The evangelical church began preaching the modern Gospel with the famous "altar call" in the 1950s. The crusades by Billy Graham were designed by the Enemy to popularize a gospel message which sounded authentic, even urgent or dramatic, but which lacked the convicting power of the Holy Spirit. The 'conviction' was only at an emotional level, the product of skillful manipulation by an orator who knew how to "work" his audience.

Billy Graham giving a Masonic handshake.

Unregenerated pastors

As the years passed, the pews in churches across America began to fill with 'believers' who weren't born again. They liked what they had found and turned up every Sunday for some edifying preaching and heartwarming songs, but in many cases they were listening to leaders who were not themselves regenerated. Before long there were few left in these churches who could distinguish between those who had truly found Christ and those who had merely found religion.

In our paper on the Tabernacle and the Offerings (#84) we gave a quote by Vance Havner where he painted a picture of the world that differed greatly from the one which preachers at that time (1969) were describing:

> "The depths of present-day human depravity are too vile for any word in our language to describe. We are seeing not ordinary moral corruption, but evil double-distilled and compounded in weird, uncanny, and demonic combinations and concoctions of iniquity never heard of a generation ago."

Havner preached the true Gospel, not the modern gospel. This enabled him to see the world as it really is. He never shirked from denouncing the wickedness that his fellow preachers could barely discern. This is a characteristic of those who preach the true Gospel, a characteristic which, for this reason, is seldom evident in any of our churches today.

Vance Havner (1901-1986)

The True Church

The true church dwells here and there within the great congregation we call the professing church. All who are born again are members of the true church. The Apostle Peter referred to them as "living stones" (1 Peter 2:5), which, collectively, are "fitly framed together," according to the Apostle Paul, to form a holy temple:

"In whom all the building fitly framed together groweth unto an holy temple in the Lord:"
(Ephesians 2:21)

In his commentary on Ephesians (1937), H A Ironside gave an insightful analysis of this temple and its development. In doing so he quietly spelt out a truth which is hardly ever mentioned today, a truth of immense importance which ought to be studied by all believers and proclaimed to the ends of the earth:

> "But now, as we said, the temple is not yet finished. As long as there are still poor sinners to be brought in, the temple is not complete. If you should ask for my opinion as to how near we are to the finished temple, I would say that I think there are very few more stones to be put in, just one here and there in the roof, and then it will be complete. It might be that the last living stone to be placed in the building will be placed there today, and then the work will be done." [p.83]
> "…the apostles and prophets were to lay the foundation, and if I understand the Word of God aright, this blessed temple of the living God, this wonderful church He is erecting, has been building for nineteen hundred years, and it is now just about completed, and you do not put a foundation on the roof. It is away down there nineteen hundred stories below, and the temple has been rising upon that foundation all through the years. We are now just putting the finishing touches on the roof. We are gathering in poor sinners, just one and another here and there. They are not coming in large numbers these days, but those that are coming are being built in upon the roof, and it will not be long until it will be complete and then we will all go to heaven." [p.108]

H.A. Ironside

We would encourage our readers to soak up the message in these words. Dr Ironside put it so simply that we could easily overlook the magnitude of what he's saying. Given that more than 80 years have passed since he shared it, his message is even more pressing today – and more alarming – than it was in 1937. We might summarize it as follows:

> The church that Christ is building, through the agency of the Holy Spirit, is near to completion. Only a few more "living stones" (born-again believers) are scheduled to be added to the topmost part of this astonishing creation. When the last one is in place, the Rapture will occur.

Science knows nothing about this structure. Nothing! And yet, within a few years of its completion, the very foundations of the earth will shake.

The seven phases of the church in history

The Word of God puts all of this in an historical perspective for our benefit. The descriptions of the seven churches in the Book of Revelation are applicable, not only to the spiritual condition of individual churches at a given moment in time, but to the condition of the visible church as a whole over the course of history. Bible scholars have also discerned a close correpondence between each of the seven churches in Revelation and the seven parables that our Lord used to describe "the kingdom of heaven" in chapter 13 of the Gospel of Matthew.

It is generally agreed that the seven parables refer to the church on earth. Since they speak of changing conditions, they cannot apply to the church (or saints) in heaven, or to the church in the Millennium. Therefore they must have an historical application. Since the church only came into being on Pentecost, they are pointing to the future condition of the church at different stages in history. If this is so then we should be able to look back and see how well they match the pattern in Revelation.

The following table is designed to show how the parables and the seven churches described in Revelation align with the actual history of the church over the past two thousand years (Dates are approximate):

: the Church at Ephesus, c.50 - 132 AD

The Apostolic Era and After [duration = c.80 years]
During this period the Church was struggling to build a solid foundation and avoid the heresies which assailed it from all sides: "...thou hast tried them which say they are apostles, and are not, and hast found them liars...Remember therefore from whence thou art fallen, and repent..." (Revelation 2:2-5)

Parable of the Sower (Matthew 13:3-23). This parable speaks of the four ways in which the Word of God is received. The Church of Christ took root from the seed which fell on good ground.

: the Church at Smyrna, 132 - 325 AD

[from the Second Jewish Revolt to the end of Persecution]

The Roman Persecution [duration = c.195 years]
Soundly established, the Church was then subjected to dreadful persecution for a time: "I know thy works, and tribulation, and poverty…Fear none of those things which thou shalt suffer…" (Revelation 2:9-10)

Parable of the Wheat and the Tares (Matthew 13:24-30). The subtle counterfeiters arrived on the scene and formulated the rules and institutions which would give them control.

: the Church at Pergamos, 325 - 604 AD

[from the end of Persecution to Pope Gregory I]

The Age of Constantine [duration = c.280 years]
The emperor Constantine effectively ended the persecution of Christians at the Council of Nicea in 325 AD. In 380 AD the western Emperor, Valentinian II, and the eastern Emperor, Theodosius I, made the institutional church the official religion of the Empire. Their decree even enabled the church to persecute non-believers. Following the grab for power by senior prelates in Rome, Constantinople and elsewhere, the Church lost much of its original vitality. The Word of God was slowly enclosed by the word of man. Christ refers to this as the doctrine of the Nicolaitans, from the word nikao, meaning to conquer, and laos, meaning the people. Thus the power structures in Rome and certain other cities oppressed the true believers: "So hast thou also them that hold the doctrine of the Nicolaitans, which thing I hate…" (Revelation 2:15)

Parable of the Mustard Seed (Matthew 13:31-32). The official religion of the Empire grew rapidly in power and influence under state patronage. The entire fabric of society across Europe and Asia was shaped in a thousand ways by this hugely influential institution.

: the Church at Thyatira, 604 - 1517 AD

[from Pope Gregory I to Martin Luther]

The Dark Ages [duration = c.900 years]
The power center in Rome was now controlling the Church and corrupting the true gospel. It was ruled by a false prophet and dominated by a sacrificial rite that was pagan in nature: "Notwithstanding I have a few things against thee, because thou sufferest that woman Jezebel, which calleth herself a prophetess, to teach and to seduce my servants to commit fornication, and to eat things sacrificed unto idols." (Revelation 2:20)

Parable of the Leaven in Three Measures of Meal (Matthew 13:33). Leaven is corruption. The woman, the false church of Rome, added leaven to the doctrines of Christianity until they were tainted throughout with her counterfeit teaching. This Jezebel, who thought of herself as a prophetess who could add to God's Word – and has done so shamelessly through her 'traditions' and her Papal Bulls – also went so far as to teach idolatry and the 'sacrifice' of the Mass.

: the Church at Sardis, 1517 - 1738 AD

[from Martin Luther to the Wesleyan Revival]

The Reformation [duration = c.220 years]
For the most part, the Church was moribund during this period. The Reformation, which should have greatly rejuvenated the true Church of Christ, was concerned mainly with political issues: "I know thy works, that thou hast a name that thou livest, and art dead." (Revelation 3:1)

Parable of the Treasure hidden in a Field (Matthew 13:44): The Reformation brought a renewed understanding of the true Gospel and the exclusive authority of God's Word. This was the "treasure" hidden in one of the many fields controlled by Rome.

The great price that Christ paid for his Bride.

: the Church at Philadelphia, 1738 - 1900 AD

[from the Wesleyan Revival to Extreme Pentecostalism]

The Missionary Age [duration = c.160 years]

The Church was rejuvenated during this period, with the widespread dissemination of the King James Bible ("my word") and a marked increase in evangelism and missionary work: "...thou hast a little strength, and has kept my word, and hast not denied my name..." (Revelation 3:8)

Parable of the Pearl of Great Price (Matthew 13:45-46). Grounded firmly in the Word, the Church, knowing it was "bought with a price" (1 Corinthians 6:20), came truly alive during this period.

: the Church at Laodicea, 1900 AD - unknown

[from Extreme Pentecostalism to the Great Falling Away]

The Manmade Laodicean Church

This is the age we are now in. The zeal of the previous age has been lost and faith among professing believers, where it exists at all, is only lukewarm. They have neither a zeal for truth nor a hatred of lies. This is a condition which is very displeasing to our Lord: "I know thy works, that thou art neither cold nor hot: I would that thou wert cold or hot. So then because thou art lukewarm, and neither cold nor hot, I will spue thee out of my mouth." (Revelation 3:15-16).

Parable of the Net Cast into the Sea (Matthew 13:47-50), which makes a radical distinction between true and false believers. In addition, when Christ explained the Parable of the Wheat and the Tares (Matthew 13:34-43) he did so in a way which runs parallel to the Parable of the Net Cast into the Sea. In each case he refers to judgment in the End Time, where the good are separated from the bad. The latter are then cast "into a furnace of fire" and there shall be "wailing and gnashing of teeth." (Matthew 13:42 and 13:50).

Emperor Theodosius I

Emperor Valentinian II

As you can see, all of the verses in chapter 13 of Matthew which deal with the kingdom parables – verses 3-50 – are incorporated into this historical overview. What is more, when we recognize that verses 42 and 50 connect two of the parables, we can see that they follow the same sequence as the seven churches described in chapters 2 and 3 of the Book of Revelation.

Heeding the lessons of history

It behoves us therefore, in this time of great spiritual darkness upon the earth, to weigh carefully what our Heavenly Father has revealed in these passages of Scripture. In our opinion, they are immensely important. For example, they support the view expressed by Dr Ironside (in the passages quoted above) that the number of truly born-again believers who are now being added to the church has dwindled to a trickle. Perhaps there is still some activity in places like China and Iran, but overall the picture is one of marked and continuing decline.

This is hardly surprising since the Church of Laodicea is, from both an institutional and a spiritual perspective, a lifeless or comatose entity. Yes, it contains a remnant of true believers – otherwise it would not be a church at all – but it serves only itself. It differs little from the broad Anglican church, which made peace with the world about two centuries ago.

We should note the fairly strict duration of each church 'age'. If we exclude the long period of domination and oppression by the false church of Rome (604-1517 AD), the average duration of the five remaining ages was only 187 years. Given that the Laodicean church has been in existence for 120 years or so, we may reasonably expect Christ to return by the end of the century, if not sooner: "For he will finish the work, and cut it short in righteousness: because a short work will the Lord make upon the earth." (Romans 9:28)

Watch for the Signs

Our Lord told us to watch for the signs. One of the strongest of these, in view of the grim scenarios depicted in the Book of Revelation, is the destructive capability that the Wicked now possess from advances in technology ("For their heart studieth destruction" - Proverbs 24:2). It has reached the stage where they can spray the skies over the entire earth with many types of designer toxins and genetically modified organisms. It is also possible, through the science of genetics, to introduce harmful plant varieties and other modified substances into the human food chain. They also have virtually unlimited opportunities to spread slow-acting pathogens, hormones, and nano-grade metallic particles via vaccines. The threat of mass sterilization is now very real.

All of these can be deployed by stealth, like silent weapons in a silent war. Such destructive potential has only become available in recent decades. What is more, it can be developed and deployed under the cover of secret military operations known only to a few. The recent creation of mega-corporations can also facilitate similar clandestine activities. These, in turn, can be controlled and co-ordinated by a surprisingly small number of people, bound together by vows of secrecy. (Is it any wonder that the Bible warns against the binding power of secret vows, oaths and blood-covenants?)

Many preachers and pastors will scoff at such conspiracies. The Word of God warned of "scoffers" in the "last days" (2 Peter 3:3). These are professing Christians who strenuously deny the imminent return of Christ. We may think of this as a direct denial only, but they deny it also when they scoff at the evidence. They dismiss as preposterous the idea that the Enemy is preparing a worldwide crisis which will drive most of mankind into the arms of the Antichrist.

Pastors who scoff at obvious conspiracies like international Marxism, the cult of Freemasonry, or the subversive Ecumenism of the Catholic Church, are leading their flocks into harm's way. Jesus asked that we be as wise as serpents (Matthew 10:16), but a great many skip over this verse, just as they skip over many others.

The Great Falling Away

This brings us to the crucial sign which the Apostle Paul gave in his second letter to the Thessalonians:

"Let no man deceive you by any means: for that day shall not come, except there come a falling away first, and that man of sin be revealed, the son of perdition;" (2 Thessalonians 2:3)

This is one of the rare occasions when the KJV is less than precise. In this instance, an indefinite article is used in English instead of the definite article found in the original Greek. Paul is speaking about "the falling away," not "a falling away."

When he was last with them in person he explained to the Thessalonians the doctrine of the Rapture. He now needed to address it again, this time in writing, since they had allowed some mischief-makers to confuse them. The Rapture could occur at any time, he intimated, but when it did it would be followed almost immediately by two major events: (a) a great falling away and (b) the appearance of the Antichrist.

The Antichrist will be on earth for several decades before his identity becomes known, though virtually nobody will recognize him as such, at least initially.

The other major event will be a general apostasia or falling away from the faith by the vast majority of professing Christians. If it is to constitute a sign, as Paul implies, it will have to be fairly sudden – a lurch into oblivion, as it were – which would have horrified all true believers were the church, the Bride of Christ, still on earth.

The spiritual decay that leads to the great falling away will occur mainly in the latter part of the Laodicean age. However, given the way Christ described it in the Book of Revelation, the Laodicean church was sliding into apostasy almost from the start.

It is hard to say what kind of event will trigger the great falling away. Since Paul places the apostasia before the emergence of the Antichrist, we may infer that it precedes any general acceptance of the false messiah. It may be surprisingly simple, such as a formal declaration of unity by all who "profess Christ", not unlike the ecumenical document Evangelicals and Catholics Together (1994), but more sweeping in scope, to the point where the true Gospel is entirely erased. A compact of this kind might even admit Muslims as monotheists and people of faith, thereby making Allah the LORD God of the Bible.

Any general acceptance of such a compact, steeped in gross heresy, would certainly constitute a great falling away!

The Parable of the Ten Virgins.
The message is stark. Be sure you are truly born again and not merely a "professing" Christian. Religion cannot save anyone.

The term "apostasia"

We need to examine carefully, in context, what Paul meant by apostasia. ("Except the falling away come first" – "ean mê elthêi hê apostasia prôton.") Many eminent commentators have addressed this question but few can equal F B Hole for clarity and precision. His teaching on this topic, which may be found in his Commentary on Paul's Epistles: Galatians to Philemon, deserves the most careful attention. For this reason we reproduce a large portion of it below:

Let us be clear as to what apostasy means. It is not just a course of backsliding, a growing cold on the part of Christians, as a result of which the world invades the church, dragging into its bosom a whole train of attendant evils. It is rather a complete forsaking of the truth of God, a total abandonment of the ancient foundations of the faith. There have been all too often in the history of the church distortions and perversions of truth, which might be compared to the transplanting of shrubs and the lopping of trees which largely spoil the effect of an otherwise beautiful and symmetrical garden. Apostasy is not like that. It is rather like a landslide of such dimensions that the whole garden is obliterated.

...The fact is, that what will precede His advent in glory is a total abandonment of the faith by those who formerly professed to hold it. This apostasy will pave the way for the revelation of a great personage, who will be the direct representative of Satan, called here "the man of sin," for in him sin will find its highest expression. This man will be marked by the most arrogant self-exaltation. He will oppose God by claiming himself to be God. A claim such as this would be impossible amongst people calling themselves Christian – it would merely excite ridicule – were the way not prepared for it by the apostasy.

The apostasy then will be of such a nature that the minds of men will be prepared to accept such gigantic claims on the part of a mere man as quite possible and reasonable. The deification of man will be the logical and reasonable outcome of the movement. This throws a flood of light as to what the main drift of the apostasy will be. God will be dethroned and man will be enthroned!

A well-known painting by Michelangelo which subtly predicts the apostasia.

Having dealt in general terms with the apostasy, he then goes on to consider the change in 'religious thinking' that would be needed before this could happen. He identifies the doctrine of evolution as a major catalyst, the widely held belief that man continues to "evolve" and is thus capable of reaching a godlike state:

> Let us survey great Christendom today in the light of these facts. Without a doubt we see very ominous signs of the approach of the apostasy. The coming events cast their shadows before. The whole drift of "advanced" religious thinking and teaching is in the direction which this scripture indicates. If God be admitted at all into the scheme of their thinking, He is relegated to the far distance and evolution is made to entirely fill the foreground. Evolution is only the flimsy creation of their own minds, yet they have endowed it with wonderful powers and mankind is supposed to be the very crown and fruition of all its workings. Man therefore is to them of supreme importance and not God. Moreover, they expect that evolutionary processes will not stop with man as he is today, but continue until a super-man will be produced. How simple and natural then it will be to acclaim the man of sin when he appears as the super-man long expected!

Paul was warning that the mystery of iniquity, which hid itself so successfully from the eyes of mankind, would one day burst forth in a raging torrent of lawlessness:

> …Paul knew right well that "the mystery of iniquity" was already at work, as he tells us in verse 7. The meaning of this is that "iniquity" or "lawlessness" in its "mystery" or "secret" form was even then moving in men's hearts. The lawless self-assertion which is to blaze forth in the light of day at the end of the dispensation was there at the beginning, though hidden in the dark. Hence the warning was necessary.
> It is much more necessary then for us upon whom the end of the age is come. Let us take heed to it. [He wrote this in the 1940s]
> Have we all got clearly fixed in our minds thus far that the apostasy and the revelation of the man of sin must precede the day of the Lord? Human evil must reach its flood-tide height before the Lord deals with it in judgment.

He then goes on to discuss a truth of the utmost importance to every believer today. The Rapture must precede the "full-blown" apostasy, he says. Otherwise the presence on earth of the Holy Spirit would impede the prophesied outpouring of lawlessness:

> If we have this clear, we shall not have difficulty in seeing that the coming of the Lord for His saints and our gathering together unto Him in the air must precede full-blown apostasy. The true saints of God never apostatize. As long as the true church of God is here a witness is maintained on earth in the energy of the Holy Spirit, and the apostasy in its fulness is hindered – its chariot wheels drive heavily, for the brake presses hard against them.
> When the brake is suddenly taken off by the rapture of the saints to heaven, the chariot will bound forward to the final crash that awaits it.
> …Lawlessness is the very essence of sin. It is the refusal of all controlling authority and restraint, and therefore in deadly opposition to God. The lawlessness, which has long been at work in Christendom in a mysterious or hidden way like a suppressed fire, is going to blaze forth in the lawless one.
> But this will only be when the saints of God are removed from the scene of conflict by the coming of the Lord for them. At present the forces of evil are under restraint – restraint is the meaning of the two words withholdeth and letteth in verses 2 Thessalonians 2:6-7. There is "He who restrains" and also "what restrains." The former doubtless refers to the Holy Spirit of God, who is at this time personally upon earth as He never was before and will not be again. The latter, we believe, refers to the presence of the church on earth; the church being the house of God wherein the Holy Ghost is dwelling.

Next he discusses a glorious truth which is rarely if ever mentioned, and certainly never celebrated, in the lukewarm Laodicean church:

> We have probably but little conception of how great is the restraint placed upon the working of lawlessness by the presence [on earth] of the saints of God. They may be poor and feeble but the Spirit of God who indwells them is almighty. Occasionally this restraint is manifested in quite unmistakable style, as when, for instance, a spiritist seance has been a failure because of the presence in the building of some definite and earnest Christian. This we believe has happened more than once. Have not many of us noticed how the flow of ungodly conversation in a room or office is stopped by the sudden entrance of an out-and-out servant of Christ?

> When the Church is raptured to heaven, and therefore the Holy Spirit no longer has a house on earth, the consequences will be very serious and very immediate. The repressed lawlessness will burst forth in the lawless one and for a brief moment the working of Satan will have full scope. This coming lawless man will be inspired by Satan and exhibit his energy in every particular. Notice how sweeping are the expressions used. Satan will support him with ALL power, even to signs and wonders of falsehood, so that EVERY possible deceit of unrighteousness will be brought to bear upon men who have been left behind to perish.

He describes the awesome power of Satan on earth after the Holy Spirit, the Restrainer, has departed. The perfectly obedient man, Christ Jesus, will arrive on earth seven years later and personally subjugate the most lawless and rebellious of all men, the Antichrist:

> This tremendous energy of Satan will continue but for a short time. The lawless one being revealed on earth, he will be speedily dealt with. The Lord Jesus being revealed from heaven, He will utterly destroy him, casting him alive into the lake of fire, as Revelation 19:20 shows. How appropriate it is that this utterly lawless and disobedient man, the very personification of Satanic energy, shall be dealt with personally by the Lord Jesus, the wholly subject and obedient Man, the personification of the power and majesty of God. No intermediary shall be allowed to intervene in that conflict!

F B Hole (1874 – 1964)

He then makes some telling observations about God's judgment in the End Time. Many will protest that His ways are unfair, just as they did in Ezekiel 18:25 & 29. They will vehemently deny that God has the right to judge mankind or to punish unrighteousness, but man in his fallen condition can never bring himself acknowledge the righteousness of God:

> We must also notice how just are all the dealings of God with men. Those who will fall a prey to all this deceit of unrighteousness, are just those who when they heard the truth did not love it. Loving not the truth, they did not believe it, rather they had pleasure in unrighteousness. And now the deceit of unrighteousness captures them; they believe the lie, and they all fall under the judgment of God. Formerly God sent them the truth, the Gospel was sounded into their ears by men who preached it "with the Holy Ghost sent down from heaven" (1 Peter 1:12). Now God sends them a strong delusion. He does for them what of old He had to do for rebellious Israel, when He "blinded their eyes, and hardened their heart" (John 12:40; and see Acts 28:26-27). Is God unrighteous in acting thus? On the contrary; He is acting in righteousness of the strictest and most exact kind.

He concludes by summarizing the matter in few pithy sentences:

> …There will be first the catching away of the true saints of God. Then the falling away of corrupt and forsaken Christendom. Lastly the sweeping away of the whole nauseous thing in the judgment of God.
> No hope is held out here for Gospel-rejectors. No second chance after the coming of the Lord for His people is hinted at. The solemn statement is, "that they ALL might be damned who believed not the truth but had pleasure in unrighteousness."

From FB Hole's examination of the great falling away we can see how a poisonous apostasy was fermenting beneath the surface of the professing church for many years. This will burst forth with explosive force only when the true church or Remnant has left the earth. Up to that point the Holy Spirit had been restraining this Vesuvian pressure. We were given a preview of the restraining power of the Holy Spirit when, just before the Flood – the last great worldwide judgment – the LORD said, "My spirit shall not always strive with man…" (Genesis 6:3).

The eruption, when it occurs, will seem like a quantum leap in consciousness, a joyous illumination, to most of mankind. There will be a general expectation that such a change must augur the imminent arrival on earth of God himself in human form. Thus, when he appears on the scene, the Antichrist will already have a massive audience sitting and waiting, thirsting for his every word.

A Spiritual Diagnosis

Just how advanced is the existing state of decay within the professing church? Hitherto we have gauged this mainly by its vulnerability to attack. We know that the danger it faces is cleverly camouflaged, like a crocodile moving through the murky waters of the Nile. Up to now we've had to peer through the darkness and watch for his predatory eyes gleaming in the moonlight. Those pretty 'jewels' denoted the presence of a deadly menace gliding near the surface. From time to time we could hear a brief thrashing and the stifled cry of another helpless victim, of whom nothing remained the next day.

All of this changed utterly in 2020 when the crocodile came out of the water and, as it were, smiled at the camera. He made no effort to conceal his presence but gorged on his victim in the full light of day. After years of furtive stalking, he seemed delighted to be able to rip and tear as he pleased, knowing that none of his future victims – being deaf and blind – would sound the alarm.

The Serpent did just that in 2020 when he ordered the churches of the world to shut their doors, to end corporate worship, to stop celebrating the Lord's Supper, to refrain from sharing the Gospel, and much else besides. And the professing church – deaf and blind – complied!

The Serpent's Lie

For the past two thousand years tyrants and their armies have failed to do this, but the Serpent came up with a lie – a shallow, thinly-disguised lie – and the pastors of the world did everything the Serpent demanded. They could have challenged the lie, but they didn't. They could have expressed, loudly and publicly, their dissatisfaction with these outrageous demands, but they didn't make a sound. They could have challenged this gross violation of our duty to God by requesting a judicial review, but they didn't do that either. It is very easy to sum up everything they did in defense of God's Word because, to their shame, they did nothing.

Happily, there were a few pastors here and there who opposed this spiritual attack and grieved the violence inflicted on the church, but the vast majority did not. Indeed, many even exhorted their congregations to observe with great diligence the restrictions imposed by the state, as though to show to the world how loyal and obedient they were.

The state must be obeyed, they said. It's the law and the law must be observed. Christians cannot challenge the authority of the civil government.

Really? There is not a single verse in Scripture which requires that we fall down before tyrants. Only the vilest of men shut down churches and permit liquor stores to stay open. The Word of God tells us that "The wicked walk on every side when the vilest men are exalted." (Psalm 12:8). When your civil leaders mock and blaspheme the LORD, your allegiance is to the LORD, not to man.

Masonic apron.
Made of lambskin to mock the Lamb and worn over the genitals.

The bizarre symbols are intended to honor Lucifer.

Since when do Freemasons have the right to threaten pastors who lead their assembled flocks in worship? Since when do men who revere Osiris and the gods of Ancient Egypt have the right to bully a servant of the Living God? Since when does a mayor of New York have the right to threaten to close down permanently any church that dared to open its doors, as de Blasio did? ("evil double-distilled…in…demonic combinations" – Havner.)

The pastors of America bowed before their Masonic masters. After all, they reasoned, the 'lockdown' would last only a few weeks. Then, having made obeisance to Osiris, they could go back to serving the LORD God of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob.

Who were they trying to fool?

The prophet Daniel was faced with a similar lockdown. He just had to be a good boy for 30 days and do what his civil lord and master demanded. It was the law, you know. Besides, what would happen if men of reputation like himself decided to disobey a royal edict? Why, the world would be in chaos and thousands of lives would be lost.

Nevertheless, the same pastors who preach the story of Daniel, and purport to believe the truth it portrays, are more than happy to play Zoom for a few weeks and ignore what the Holy Spirit commissioned them to do. Those who profess to uphold the Gospel and preach Christ crucified are content, for a time, to submit to Osiris and deny Christ Jesus.

This is nothing but hypocrisy. Have they no shame?

The Lord's Supper

Consider the Lord's Supper, a rite of great spiritual significance in the life of every true believer. When was this last celebrated by an assembled congregation in the United States… or Europe… or Australia? Jesus asked that we come together regularly and respectfully remember his work on Calvary, seeing in the bread his flesh and in the wine his blood.

The Romans tried to stop the Christians doing the same during the great persecutions under such Emperors as Diocletian, Valerian and Decius. Rather than execute all offenders, they gave them an opportunity to offer incense or a libation to the gods of Rome and, when they did so, provided them with a certificate known as a libellus. This could be produced later as proof that the bearer had complied with the religious laws of Rome.

The Freemasons and Marxists who imposed the 'lockdown' had much the same idea, putting Christians in a position where they could either deny Christ (and have a peaceful life) or honor and uphold his holy name (and suffer the consequences).

It is a sign of how severely backslidden the professing church has become that the Lord's Supper could be treated with so little respect. Had it not occurred to the pastors and preachers concerned that their conduct might be displeasing to God? Did it even occur to them to reflect prayerfully on what His Word teaches regarding the unique spiritual standing of this ceremony?

Consequences

Seemingly the thousands of pastors who presided over this sinful neglect were certain their inaction would have no consequences. But they were mistaken.

How do we know? Let's turn to the first letter to the Corinthians. In it Paul tells of the just retribution that certain Corinthian Christians brought on themselves when they treated the Lord's Supper with disrespect:

> "For he that eateth and drinketh unworthily, eateth and drinketh damnation to himself, not discerning the Lord's body. For this cause many are weak and sickly among you, and many sleep." (1 Corinthians 11:29-30)

In this context, "sleep" means death.

This ceremony is so precious in the eyes of the Father that those who participated in it "unworthily" – and showed disrespect for His Son – suffered serious ill health as a result, and some even died.

How "worthy" are those pastors who, having committed themselves to celebrating this holy ceremony with their assembled congregation on a regular basis, are suddenly prepared to stop doing so for several months?

The cult of Freemasonry in Washington DC, aided and abetted by the Masonic governors who administer the various states, said, "Stop!" – and they stopped! They didn't even bother to challenge the idiocy of the edict or request convincing scientific evidence that the celebration of the Lord's Supper – in an open park, for example – would endanger ANYONE.

These are the people who are secretly attacking Christianity and trying to shut down our churches.

The dark cult of Osiris conspired against Christianity, inventing spurious and imaginary devices to impede and stamp out Christian worship. Christians everywhere should see that this for what it is, a sinister scheme concocted by Satan and his team of blasphemers here on earth.

We are not ignorant of their devices. We understand the vile purpose behind their devious schemes, their infantile lies, and their shameless mockery of all that is holy.

Three days' journey

Another passage of Scripture sheds further light on the sublime and immutable standing of Christian worship in the eyes of an awesomely Holy God:

"And they said, The God of the Hebrews hath met with us: let us go, we pray thee, three days' journey into the desert, and sacrifice unto the LORD our God; lest he fall upon us with pestilence, or with the sword." (Exodus 5:3)

The God of heaven and earth was calling his people out of Egypt. Three days' journey, from Goshen to the Sinai desert, would have taken them beyond the borders of Egypt, to a place where they could corporately worship the LORD. Note the closing words, "lest he fall upon us with pestilence, or with the sword." If they failed to do as the LORD commanded, divine judgment would fall on the Israelites, not just the Egyptians!

The Israelites would have been unable to sacrifice to the LORD in Egypt since the animals prescribed for this purpose were sacred to the Egyptians and could not be used in sacrifice. So, in order to worship the LORD, they had to put themselves beyond the legislative reach of Egypt. And yet, if they failed to do so, the LORD would subject them to severe retribution by the sword of their enemies or by sending a deadly plague among them, with a high rate of mortality.

How many preachers today expound this passage as they should? It was an incredible privilege for the Israelites to be selected by the LORD and set apart to worship Him. However, having accepted that remarkable honor, they would suffer dire retribution if they failed to continue as agreed and fulfil their obligation.

"Give unto the LORD the glory due unto his name; worship the LORD in the beauty of holiness."

- Psalm 29:2

While Calvary settled forever the question of sacrifice, it did not diminish in any way the beauty of holiness – expressed through heartfelt worship. All true worship exalts and magnifies in the eyes of the Father the perfect sacrifice made by His Son on Calvary. This is as special, even delightful, to the Father today as it was at the time of the Exodus.

The modern Pharaohs – the grand wizards of Freemasonry who worship Osiris – despise Christian worship. They want to put an end to it, not by assailing it directly, but by inducing Christians to remain in Egypt and submit to their pagan demands. The grand wizards make the rules which the rest of society must obey – "because it's the law." So Christians are willing to submit to their authority and jettison their fidelity to the One True God. After all, though living in Egypt, they can still 'Zoom' and satisfy whatever hankering they may have for 'worship.'

Would they have sacrificed a lamb with a serious defect? And yet they have no problem offering synthetic cyber worship and expecting it to please God.

Looking again at Daniel's example

Look again at Daniel. He went to his room to worship the Living God three times a day – just as he always did. And he faced toward Jerusalem – just as he always did. And he opened his windows – just as he always did. And he prayed aloud – just as he always did. As far as he was concerned, no law made by man could violate his right to worship the LORD, just as he always did. Even if it cost him his life.

Paul was speaking to each of us today – and to the lukewarm soul of the wretched Laodicean church – when he said:

> "Therefore, brethren, stand fast, and hold the traditions which ye have been taught, whether by word, or our epistle." (2 Thessalonians 2:15) … "that we may be delivered from unreasonable and wicked men:" (2 Thessalonians 3:2)

We must heed what the Word of God is saying – "Stand fast!"

The unreasonable and wicked men of today, the hidden army of Marxists and Freemasons who are doing all they can to make Christian worship untenable, are skilled manipulators and conmen. Most professing Christians don't even know the church is under attack. And the few who do are unwilling to believe the attack is highly organized or that the people behind it, men and women of repute – who look so normal and sound so genuine – are in reality liars and deceivers.

This is why Christians today are unwilling to give the LORD the glory due unto His name, to come before Him and worship in the beauty of holiness, to go into His tabernacles and worship at His footstool (Psalm 132:7). Wicked and unreasonable men have conjured up idiotic laws to dissuade them, to keep them in bondage and make them subject to the whims and blasphemies of the grand wizards and their gods.

Paul preaching in the Areopagus in Athens.

The lost are abandoned

Lost souls, too, are forgotten. They have been abandoned. They don't count any more. Their salvation is not "essential." Just keep the liquor stores open.

The grand wizards forbid evangelism, so the pastors and preachers – who should be railing against this obscenity – merely roll over and do as they're told.

It's appalling to think that, after the passage of nearly two thousand years, the professing church has been reduced to this, an exclusive club which even its own members don't bother to attend.

How will the lost find Christ if the professing church continues to behave like this? -

> "For whosoever shall call upon the name of the Lord shall be saved. How then shall they call on him in whom they have not believed? and how shall they believe in him of whom they have not heard? and how shall they hear without a preacher? And how shall they preach, except they be sent?" (Romans 10:13-15)

CONCLUSION

What does the Word of God ask us to do as we see the day approaching? –

> "Not forsaking the assembling of ourselves together, as the manner of some is; but exhorting one another: and so much the more, as ye see the day approaching." (Hebrews 10:25).

And what does the Enemy ask us to do: Forsake the assembling of yourselves together and abandon Christian fellowship.

Which voice are our pastors and preachers listening to?

As for professing Christians, who once assembled together in worship, can they seriously believe they are a royal priesthood? Are they showing forth the praises of him that saved them? -

> "But ye are a chosen generation, a royal priesthood, an holy nation, a peculiar people; that ye should shew forth the praises of him who hath called you out of darkness into his marvellous light:" (1 Peter 2:9)

We walk in darkness when we allow those who live in darkness to interpret the Word of God on our behalf and tell us what it means. Since when do Freemasons and Marxists decide what we, as Christians, can and cannot do? Since when do they determine what is acceptable to God? Those who claim to walk with Jesus but take directions from the servants of darkness are aliens from the commonwealth of Christ:

> "If we say that we have fellowship with him, and walk in darkness, we lie, and do not the truth: But if we walk in the light, as he is in the light, we have fellowship one with another, and the blood of Jesus Christ his Son cleanseth us from all sin." (1 John 1:6-7)

Note those words well – "we have fellowship one with another". Fellowship! Not craven isolation before a Zoom camera.

Shame on all those so-called pastors who refuse to see this for what it is, who choose instead to take instruction from the children of disobedience. As the Word of God says, they are liars. They do not know Him:

> "And hereby we do know that we know him, if we keep his commandments. He that saith, I know him, and keepeth not his commandments, is a liar, and the truth is not in him." (1 John 2:3-4)

Draconian Emergency Laws will Remove Children from their Parents

by Jeremy James

In the Soviet Union, the entire population lived in dread of a knock on the door in the middle of the night. Someone may have reported a neighbor to the KGB, alleging that they overheard him or her making an unpatriotic or disparaging remark about the way the country was run. Such reports were commonplace, especially during the Stalinist era. Innocent people could spend several years in a work camp for stepping out of line or failing to make obeisance to the Communist authorities.

Those who felt they were likely to receive such a call would even have a bag packed and ready in the hall, knowing that they would be hustled away so speedily that there would be little opportunity to gather a few necessary items.

The system worked on fear. No-one felt secure. Even those who worked in privileged positions were never allowed to feel above suspicion. There was nothing rational about these arrests. Their seemingly random character made them all the more unsettling. They left a nervous populace in a state of emotional paralysis, censoring their opinions lest they be misconstrued, and taking care never to do anything that might attract the attention of a party official. An idle word spoken in jest could have tragic consequences.

The Planned Totalitarian System

The New World Order will be a totalitarian system. It too will run on fear and extreme social control. What many do not yet realize is that the system will also make use of random arrests, 're-education' and prolonged detention. However, these gross violations of our liberty will be disguised as necessary interventions by the state in order to protect its citizens. The knock on the door will come in the daytime and the person "detained" or "relocated" by the state could be one (or more) of your children.

This sounds absurd, doesn't it? How could any modern democracy justify such extreme behavior? It hardly seems possible.

Nevertheless, it is about to happen. How do we know? Because the state of Idaho recently made changes to its childcare regulations which anticipate a huge increase in the number of children who will be taken into state care.

Breaking up families – a goal of Communism

Before we present the evidence, we would urge those readers who have not yet done so to read our paper #231 (Medical Tyranny as a Weapon to Break Up Families and Harm Children). It sets out the background and dark rationale behind this coming event and how much of what has already happened in 2020 is pointing toward something far more sinister. We would be foolish to ignore the evidence that we've already seen, which is strongly indicative of the plan the Elite are following, but we would be insane to ignore the implications of the evidence we are about to present.

We would like to thank Ammon Bundy for posting a video (2 June) on this topic and alerting the public to what is happening. No other news outlet or online commentator would appear to have addressed the dramatic implications of the legislative changes made in Idaho or even drawn attention to the suspension of so many laws designed to protect children. Governor's Proclamation, 23 March

The Governor's proclamation of 23 March 2020 suspended a large number of regulations which protect children in the care of the state, as well as children in the community. It is extremely difficult to imagine a scenario where so many protective provisions, which are essential to ensure the well-being of vulnerable children across the state, would need to be suspended. One could envisage circumstances where a genuine viral epidemic might place stress on resources and slow the delivery of services, but nothing that would require the suspension – the effective abolition – of the entire suite of services.

Some of the changes are so outrageous that it is hard to understand how any rational and well-intentioned public servant could even consider them.

For this reason we are convinced that the proclamation of 23 March is designed to facilitate an enormous increase in the number of children in state care, to the point where the continued delivery of even the most basic services cannot be guaranteed. Furthermore, the expected collapse in standards will be so severe that parents must be denied all knowledge of how their children are being treated.

Executive Department
State of Idaho

The Office of the Governor Proclamation

State Capital
Boise

WHEREAS, I issued a proclamation on March 13, 2020, declaring a state of emergency in the State of Idaho due to the occurrence and imminent threat to public health and safety arising from the effects of the 2019 novel coronavirus (COVID-19); and

WHEREAS, that Proclamation remains in effect today; and

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused to be affixed the Great Seal of the State of Idaho at the Capitol in Boise on this 23rd day of March, in the year of our Lord two thousand and twenty and of the Independence of the United States of America the two hundred forty-fourth and of the Statehood of Idaho the one hundred thirtieth.

BRAD LITTLE

LAWERENCE DENNEY
SECRETARY OF STATE

Extract from the Governor's Proclamation

The proclamation also implies that children who are currently in the care of their own parents, living in the family home, will be removed by the state and taken to a facility to which the parents will not have access. It is, in effect, a license to break up families, to repudiate the rights of the parents, and to transfer the rearing and education of their children to a state-controlled institution.

For people who have difficulty believing that the government of the United States has been taken over by an organized cabal who are determined to bring the country to its knees, the proclamation of 23 March should be a wake-up call. It goes far beyond the realm of a conspiracy, where some measure of doubt may still be justified, into a full-blown exercise in totalitarian power.

As you read the regulations and provisions which the Governor has suspended, you may need to pause and ask yourself whether the proclamation was extracted from a dystopian Marxist tract and given a veneer of respectability by attaching the state seal. We doubt whether many readers will get to the end without groaning in astonishment – or anger.

Summary of the changes made by the Governor

In the following table we summarize the main features of the changes made by the Governor. Specific information in relation to all of the changes is set out in Appendices A and B. Readers requiring additional confirmation may consult the original documentation at the official state website, adminrules.idaho.gov

No state guarantee of child care standards

In essence, the state will no longer guarantee a minimum standard for children in its care. If it is known that a child care facility, licensed by the state, is no longer acting in conformity with state law, the matter will not be pursued. Even where it is known that children may be endangered as a result, the state will no longer be obliged to intervene.

No staff training in child care

The state may employ child care staff who have no training whatever. Staff will receive no specific instruction in how to deal with child safety, child abuse (including sexual abuse), child neglect or abandonment.

No guaranteed minimum staffing level

The state can operate a facility with child-staff ratios that fall far below the existing minimum standard. For example, instead of having one member of staff for every 8 children in a daytime situation, the state could employ one per every 50 or 60 children, or even more. There is literally no minimum staff-child ratio to ensure the safety of children in state care. Furthermore, the state is not obliged to have additional staff on call should an emergency arise.

No fire safety standards
Fire safety regulations will not have to be observed in state-run facilities. (It is well known that, if allowed to develop for only a few minutes beyond the point where a smoke detector would have raised the alarm, a fire could sweep rapidly through a dormitory and claim dozens of lives.)

No minimum standard of accommodation
Even in the matter of bedrooms and bathroom facilities, the most basic standards are set aside. Girls may have to share sleeping accommodation with boys, or even staff members; large numbers of children could be crowded into rooms that are much too small to accommodate them safely and comfortably; and basic amenities such as adequate lighting and ventilation may not be provided. The state will not even guarantee that children in its care will have access to clean drinking water.

Children may be required to sleep on the floor or on makeshift beds with inadequate bedding. When the state refuses to guarantee that a child in its care will have a suitable bed to sleep in, we know something is seriously wrong.

High risk of sexual abuse
The state could also compel girls to share bathroom facilities with boys, and staff could use the same bathroom as the children. The scope for sexual abuse and pedophilia under these circumstances is all too apparent.

No visitation by or communication with parents
The state will no longer guarantee visitation rights to parents whose children are in state care. Parents will have no right of appeal. The state will not guarantee that the child in its care will be able to contact his or her parents by phone, online, or even in writing.

Where formerly the state claimed to encourage "frequent and regular contact between the child and parents and other family members," under the proclamation of 23 March it won't even guarantee that a child will be able to write to his or her parents. Neither will it assure parents that it has procedures in place to detect the abuse or neglect of children in its care. In a crisis situation a parent would normally be entitled to know exactly what kind of treatment their child is receiving from the state. This will no longer be possible.

No guaranteed health assessment
Institutions will no longer have procedures in place at the time of admission to identify children with a serious underlying health condition such as asthma, cystic fibrosis, or harmful food allergies. Such problems may not receive attention unless or until the child becomes ill.

No emergency community response
On top of all this, the state will no longer respond immediately if a child in the community is in a life-threatening or emergency situation, even if the authorities know that a child is being sexually abused.

Dr Robert Levin, Director of Public Health, Ventura County, California. [4 May 2020]

The proclamation applies only to the state of Idaho, but there is no doubt that other states, all of whom are marching in step with the New World Order, will introduce similar provisions, if they have not done so already.

The 'emergency' may change but the Proclamation will not

The 'emergency' situation that prevails at present under Covid-19 may not necessarily be the same emergency situation under which these draconian provisions will operate. They may be invoked in response to a new type of pandemic, or where social unrest – from 'race' riots for example – reaches such a pitch that homes are burnt down and utilities sabotaged. It could even arise on foot of a major false flag attack on a large urban area, similar to the one discussed in our paper #206.

Whichever it proves to be, one thing is clear: The Elite are planning to do this fairly soon, possibly by end-2020. The obliteration of basic standards of care for children is so extreme and so inhumane that the public will likely be given little time to study them and assess the real agenda behind them.

Television broadcast by Queen Elizabeth II on 5 April 2020

Please warn all who will listen. This is cast iron proof that the 'conspiracy' is far advanced and that millions of Americans will shortly be blindsided by a catastrophe so severe that they will have no time to take evasive action.

Trust in Jesus. Pray for his guidance and protection. Ask him to watch over your children. If you are an unbeliever, ask him with all sincerity to open your understanding and show you who he really is. Don't delay. Don't make excuses. Time is running out.

"...seek righteousness, seek meekness: it may be ye shall be hid in the day of the LORD'S anger." – Zephaniah 2:3

APPENDIX B

Details of the Child Care Regulations suspended on 23 March 2020

Screenshots of each regulation are provided as proof of their authenticity. If in doubt in any instance, please check the relevant documents on the official state website, adminrules.idaho.gov

107. SUSPENSION FOR CIRCUMSTANCES BEYOND CONTROL OF FOSTER PARENT OR OPERATOR.
When circumstances occur over which the foster parent or operator has no control including illness, epidemics, fire, flood, or contamination, which temporarily place the operation of the foster home, child care facility, daycare center, group daycare facility, family daycare home voluntarily licensed by the Department, children's residential care facility, children's therapeutic outdoor program, children's camp, or children's agency out of conformity with Idaho law or with these rules, the license must be suspended until the nonconformity is remedied. (4-7-11)

Comment: The term "out of conformity with Idaho law" covers ANY law in the state of Idaho affecting the well-being and protection of children. Thus, if circumstances arise which cause the state child care service to no longer comply with any of these laws, there is no redress. The facility can continue to function. Even though it is known that children may be endangered as a result, there is no obligation on the state to intervene.

552. EMPLOYEE AND VOLUNTEER TRAINING.
Except for a licensed professional under contract with the organization, an organization must document that each new employee and volunteer, and current employee and volunteer whose job function significantly changes, and whose primary role requires interaction with children, receive at least twenty-five (25) hours of planned training before working independently. Orientation cannot be counted toward the required training hours. The training must include specific instruction in job responsibilities, policies and procedures, emergency procedures, child safety, child abuse, neglect, or abandonment, and the applicable licensing requirements. (7-1-09)

Comment: The state may employ child care staff who have no training whatever. Provision 552 sets a minimum standard, yet even that standard is suspended. Staff working at a child care facility will receive no specific instruction in how to deal with child safety, child abuse (including sexual abuse), child neglect or abandonment.

There must be written staff ratios for direct care staff to children and service workers to children. Unless otherwise specified in these rules, staff ratios must be as described in Subsections 710.01 through 710.06 of this rule. (7-1-09)

01. Supervisor-Staff Ratio. At least one (1) staff supervisor for every twenty (20) direct care staff or fraction thereof. (3-30-01)

02. Staff-Child Ratio-Daytime. At least one (1) direct care staff to every eight (8) children when children are awake and present, unless the presenting problems of the children in care are such that a ratio of one (1) to eight (8) is not sufficient to provide for the safety and treatment needs of the children. In that case, the ratio of direct care staff to children ratio must be increased to ensure the safety and treatment needs of the children are met. (7-1-09)

03. Staff-Child Ratio-Sleeping Hours. At least one (1) awake direct care staff to twenty (20) children or fraction thereof during the children's normal sleeping hours in buildings housing children's sleeping quarters. If the presenting problems of the children in care are such that a ratio of one (1) to twenty (20) is not sufficient to provide for the safety and treatment needs of the children, then the ratio of direct care staff to children ratio must be increased to ensure the safety and treatment needs of the children are met. (7-1-09)

04. Medical Emergency. At least one (1) staff on duty in a children's residential care facility who is certified to provide cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR) and first aid for the age of the children in care. (3-30-01)

05. Emergency Staff Access. When only one (1) direct care worker is on duty, an additional staff person must be available within ten (10) minutes or if assistance from law enforcement is available within ten (10) minutes an additional staff person must be available within thirty (30) minutes to assist with an emergency. (7-1-09)

06. Service Worker or Social Worker Ratios. Except for non-accredited children's residential schools, at least one (1) service worker or social worker as defined in Section 011 of these rules needs to be available for every twenty (20) children in care or fraction thereof. (7-1-09)

Comment: Staff who work in child care will confirm that these provisions, before they were suspended, represented the minimum level of resources that are needed to supervise and protect children in a large facility. They have all been set aside. The state can operate a facility with child-staff ratios that fall far below this minimum standard. For example, instead of having one member of staff for every 8 children in a daytime situation, the state could employ one per every 50 or 60 children, or even more. There is literally no minimum staff-child ratio to ensure the safety of children in state care. Furthermore, the state is not obliged to have additional staff on call should an emergency arise.

718. FIRE SAFETY REQUIREMENTS.
A building which houses children must be inspected by a state certified fire inspector before being occupied and on an annual basis thereafter for compliance with the applicable Uniform Fire Code as described in Section 004 of these rules. A copy of the inspection must be maintained at the facility. (7-1-09)

01. Fire Extinguishers. Each building used to house children must have a minimum of one (1) 2-A-10BC type per floor, and if there is a kitchen on the floor, a fire extinguisher must be in or immediately adjacent to the kitchen. Each fire extinguisher must be inspected annually by a fire extinguisher service agency. (7-1-09)

02. Smoke Detecting Devices. There must be at least one (1) smoke detector on each floor of the facility, approved by a nationally recognized testing laboratory, installed and maintained as recommended by the manufacturer. (7-1-09)

03. Carbon Monoxide Detecting Devices. There must be at least one (1) carbon monoxide detecting device that is approved by a nationally recognized testing laboratory that is installed and maintained as recommended by the manufacturer. A facility that does not have equipment which produces carbon monoxide or does not have an attached garage is exempt from this requirement. (7-1-09)

Comment: As we examine each provision in turn, we can only stare in amazement at the wanton disregard for child welfare in the Governor's proclamation of 23 March. Fire safety, especially where young children are concerned, is always a major consideration in the design and management of a care facility. It is well known that a fire, if allowed to develop for only a few minutes beyond the point where a smoke detector would have raised the alarm, can sweep rapidly through a building and claim dozens of lives.

721. PUBLIC HEALTH DISTRICT INSPECTION.
The facility must provide documentation of an initial and annual inspection and approval by the applicable Idaho Public Health District addressing the following health and safety standards before a license for a facility used to house children will be issued. A copy of the inspection must be maintained at the children's residential care facility. (7-1-09)

01. Food Safety and Sanitation Standards. The facility must comply with IDAPA 16.02.19, "Food Safety and Sanitation Standards for Food Establishments." (7-1-09)

02. Drinking Water Systems. The facility must comply with IDAPA 58.01.08, "Idaho Rules for Public Drinking Water Systems." (7-1-09)

Comment: The state will not even bother to ensure that children in its care will always have access to clean drinking water.

729. BATHROOM FACILITIES.
A building used to house children must have adequate, clean and easily accessible bathroom facilities. The number of toilets is one (1) per eight (8) females and one (1) per ten (10) males; bathtubs or showers is one (1) for each ten (10) individuals; washstands is one (1) for every five (5) individuals according to the Uniform Building Code applicable for the type of building and its use. There must be separate use of bathroom facilities for boys and girls over six (6) years of age. There must be separate bathroom facilities for staff. (7-1-09)

Comment: The suspension of this provision will allow the state to compel girls to share the same bathroom facilities with boys. It will even be possible for staff to use the same bathroom as the children. The scope for sexual abuse and pedophilia under these circumstances is all too apparent.

730. SLEEPING ROOMS.
Sleeping rooms in a building used to house children must meet the requirements in Subsections 730.01 through 730.03 of this rule. (7-1-09)

01. Size. At least seventy (70) square feet, exclusive of closet space, in a single occupancy room. In a multiple occupancy room, there must be at least forty-five (45) square feet per occupant, exclusive of closet space. Existing multiple occupancy sleeping rooms, may be approved relative to square feet per occupant until the room is remodeled or the building is extensively remodeled. There must be a minimum of three (3) feet between the sides of beds and two (2) feet at the end of the beds. (7-1-09)

02. Window Space. There must be sufficient window space for adequate natural light and ventilation. Emergency egress or rescue windows must comply with the State-adopted Uniform Building Code. (7-1-09)

03. Restrictions. A child and an adult cannot share a sleeping room except that a child under one (1) year of age may sleep in a room with an adult. A sleeping room must not be in a stairway, hallway, unfinished attic, unfinished basement, or in a separate building apart from staff supervision. There must be separate rooms for male and female residents. Sleeping rooms must be in close proximity to adult supervision. (7-1-09)

Comment: If these simple regulations are disregarded, then serious abuses are possible. Girls may have to share sleeping accommodation with boys, or even members of staff; large numbers of children can be crowded into rooms that are much too small to accommodate them safely and comfortably; and basic amenities such as adequate lighting and ventilation may not be provided.

731. BEDS.
Each child must have his own bed which has substantial support, a comfortable non-neoprene mattress and seasonally appropriate non-neoprene bedding. The bed must be equipped with railings when used for children under two (2) years of age. Over-and-under bunk beds must not be used for children under eight (8) years of age. Cribs must meet Consumer Product Safety Commission, Crib Safety Tips as described in Section 004 of these rules. (7-1-09)

Comment: Children may be required to sleep on the floor or on makeshift beds with inadequate bedding. When the most basic standards are suspended in this way, one must ask whether the proclamation of 23 March was deliberately designed to provoke parental anxiety and social unrest. When the state refuses to guarantee that a child in its care will have a suitable bed to sleep in, we know the system is broken. Even impoverished, under-developed countries would be ashamed to treat their childen like this.

06. Visitation for Child's Parent(s) or Legal Guardian(s). Visitation arrangements must be provided to the child's parent(s) or legal guardian(s) unless visitation is contrary to the child's safety. (3-30-07)

10

07. Notification of Change in Placement. Written notification must be made within seven (7) days of a change of placement of the foster child if a child is relocated to another foster care setting. Notification must be sent to the child's parent(s) or legal guardian(s). When the child is an Indian child, written notification must also be sent to the child's Indian custodian(s), if applicable, and to the child's tribe. (3-29-12)

09. Notification of Right to Participate and Appeal. Written notification to the child's parent(s) or legal guardian(s) must be made regarding their right to discuss any changes and the opportunity to appeal if they disagree with changes in placement or visitation. (3-30-07)

Comment: The suspension of these provisions (9-11) is truly alarming. The state will no longer guarantee visitation rights to parents whose children are in state care. They won't even have a right of appeal. When, if ever, will the parents get to see their child? As we noted earlier, the proclamation of 23 March would appear to have been designed to increase parental anxiety, and even cause harm to families. If one factors in provision #14 below, which removes any guarantee that the child will be able to contact his or her parents by phone or online – or even in writing – we know we are dealing with something that is intentionally callous and inhumane.

b. The Department will have strategies in place to detect abuse or neglect of children in alternate care. (3-30-07)

Comment: The state will no longer assure parents that it has procedures in place to detect the abuse or neglect of children in its care. This is deeply troubling.

c. Regular contact with children placed in intensive treatment facilities, in or out-of-state, must occur at a minimum of once every ninety (90) days. (3-30-07)

14

d. Frequent and regular contact between the child and parents and other family members will be encouraged and facilitated unless it is specifically determined not to be in the best interest of the child. Such contact will be face-to-face if possible, with this contact augmented by telephone calls, written correspondence, pictures and the use of video and other technology as may be relevant and available. (3-30-07)

Comment: See our comment at #11 above. The state is flipping from a position where it encourages "frequent and regular contact between the child and parents and other family members" to one where it cannot even guarantee that a child will be allowed to write to his or her parents.

860. PROCEDURES FOLLOWING THE ADOPTIVE PLACEMENT.
Following the adoptive placement, a period of support and supervision by the Department lasting at least six (6) months must be completed prior to the finalization of the adoption. In situations where a foster family has a significant relationship with a child and the child has been placed in their home for at least the last six (6) months, the supervisory period may be reduced to a minimum of three (3) months.The family services worker will make scheduled visits to the home at least monthly during this period to assist the child and the family in their adjustment to each other and will update the child's permanent record by means of monthly progress reports. When completion of the adoption is recommended by the field office and approved by the Permanency Program Specialist, the Department will request the prospective adoptive parent(s) contact their attorney. The regional family services worker will provide the attorney with the necessary documentation to file the petition for adoption. (3-30-07)

Comment: The state will no longer facilitate adoptions. The withdrawal or suspension of the above services is tantamount to the cessation of adoptive placements.

020. GENERAL REQUIREMENTS APPLICABLE TO ALL FAMILY AND CHILDREN'S SERVICES PROGRAMS.

01. Information, Referral and Screening. All residents of the state of Idaho, regardless of the duration of their residency or their income are entitled to receive, upon referral or request: (3-30-07)

a. Accurate and current information about services to children and families provided through the Department. (3-18-99)

b. Referral to other appropriate public or private services available in the community; and (3-18-99)

c. A screening to determine service needs and safety threats that can be addressed through Family and Children's Services. (3-30-07)

Comment: In a crisis situation a parent would normally be entitled to know exactly what kind of treatment their child is receiving from the state. This will no longer be possible.

553. ASSIGNING REPORTS FOR RISK ASSESSMENT.
The Department shall assign all reports of possible abuse, abandonment and neglect of children for risk assessment, unless the field office has knowledge or information that discredits the report beyond a reasonable doubt. (3-30-01)

Comment: As we have already seen, the state will no longer prepare reports on the possible abuse or neglect of children in its care. This provision would normally require it to do so in respect of children in the community, but these too will cease. And even if a report is prepared it will not be followed up.

554. RESPONSE PRIORITIES.
The Department must use the following statewide standards for responding to allegations of abuse, neglect, or abandonment, using the determination of risk to the child as the primary criterion. Any variance from these response standards must be documented in the family's case file with a description of action taken, and must be reviewed and signed by the Family and Children's Services Supervisor. (3-30-07)

01. Priority I. The Department must respond immediately if a child is in immediate danger involving a life-threatening or emergency situation. Emergency situations include sexual abuse when a child may have contact with the alleged perpetrator and circumstances indicate a need for immediate response. Law enforcement must be notified and requested to respond or to accompany a family services worker. Every attempt should be made to coordinate the Department's assessment with law enforcement's investigation. The child must be seen by a Department family services worker, law enforcement, and medical personnel if applicable, immediately unless written regional protocol agreements direct otherwise. All allegations of physical abuse of a child through the age of six (6) or with profound developmental disabilities should be considered under Priority I unless there is reason to believe that the child is not in immediate danger. (3-30-07)

Comment: The state will no longer respond immediately if a child in the community is in a life-threatening or emergency situation, even if it is known that a child is being sexually abused. What can one say of a proclamation that suspends such a provision? (As I worked through this appalling document, I was continually reminded of Daniel's statement about the End Time: "...the wicked shall do wickedly... [Daniel 12:10])

447. MEDICAL EXAMINATION UPON ENTERING ALTERNATE CARE.
Within thirty (30) days of entering alternate care, each child will receive a medical examination to assess the child's health status, and thereafter according to a schedule prescribed by the child's physician or other health care professional. (5-3-03)

Comment: A child who shows signs of ill health will not be assessed by a medical professional and, by implication, may not receive suitable medical treatment. This means children with serious underlying health conditions such as asthma, cystic fibrosis, or harmful food allergies, may not receive proper attention.

See attached Annexe for details

Comment: The suspension of these provisions effectively abolishes the child care system within the community. No facility or daycare center can operate without a license. If a license cannot be renewed, the facility must close.

104. MANDATORY VISITATIONS.
In accordance with Section 39-1217, Idaho Code, the Department or other licensing authority must visit, and must be given access to, the premises of each licensed foster home, licensed children's agency, licensed children's therapeutic outdoor program, and licensed children's residential care facility as often as deemed necessary or desirable by the Department to assure conformity with the requirements in this chapter of rules but, in any event, at intervals not to exceed twelve (12) months. (4-11-06)

Comment: The state will no longer inspect child care facilities in the community to ensure they are meeting the standards required.

107. SUSPENSION FOR CIRCUMSTANCES BEYOND CONTROL OF FOSTER PARENT OR OPERATOR.
When circumstances occur over which the foster parent or operator has no control including illness, epidemics, fire, flood, or contamination, which temporarily place the operation of the foster home, child care facility, daycare center, group daycare facility, family daycare home voluntarily licensed by the Department, children's residential care facility, children's therapeutic outdoor program, children's camp, or children's agency out of conformity with Idaho law or with these rules, the license must be suspended until the nonconformity is remedied. (4-7-11)

Comment: This is a duplicate of #1 above.

ANNEXE

Disposition of Applications

– regulation 20 in our sequence –

102. DISPOSITION OF APPLICATIONS.
The Department will initiate action on each completed application within thirty (30) days after receipt that addresses each requirement for the specific type of home, facility, or agency. Upon receipt of a completed application and study, the licensing authority will review the materials for conformity with these rules. (4-7-11)

01. Approval of Application. A license will be issued to any daycare center, group daycare facility, family daycare home voluntarily licensed by the Department, foster home, children's residential facility, children's therapeutic outdoor program, children's camp, or children's agency found to be in conformity with these rules governing the home or facility. The license is issued according to the terms specified in the licensing study and will be mailed to the applicant. (4-7-11)

02. Regular License. A regular license will be issued to any daycare center, group daycare facility, family daycare home voluntarily licensed by the Department, foster home, children's residential care facility, children's therapeutic outdoor program, children's camp, or children's agency found to be in conformity with these rules governing the facility and will specify the terms of licensure, such as: (4-7-11)

a. Full time or daycare; (3-30-01)

b. The number of children who may receive care at any one (1) time; and (3-30-01)

c. Age range and gender, if there are conditions in the foster home or children's residential care facility making such limitations necessary; (3-30-01)

d. The regular license for a foster home, children's agency, children's residential care facility, children's therapeutic outdoor program, or children's camp is in effect for one (1) year from the date of issuance unless suspended or revoked earlier; (4-7-11)

e. A regular license for a daycare center, group daycare facility, or family daycare home voluntarily licensed by the Department is in effect for two (2) years from the date of issuance unless suspended or revoked earlier; and (4-7-11)

f. If the license for a foster home is for a specific child only, the name of that child will be shown on the foster home license. (3-30-01)

03. Waiver. A regular license may be issued to the foster home of a relative who has received a waiver of licensing rules provided: (4-7-11)

a. The waiver is considered on an individual case basis; (3-30-01)

b. The waiver is approved only for non-safety foster care rules; (7-1-09)

c. All other licensing requirements have been met; (4-7-11)

d. The approval of a waiver of any foster home rules requires the licensing authority to document a description of the reasons for issuing a waiver, the rules being waived, and assurance that the waiver will not compromise the child's safety; and (7-1-09)

e. The approved waiver must be reviewed for continued need and approval at regular intervals not to exceed six (6) months. (7-1-09)

04. Variance. A regular license will be issued to a foster home, children's residential care facility or children's agency approved for a variance of a licensing rule provided: (4-7-11)

a. The variance is considered on an individual case basis; (3-30-01)

b. The variance is approved for a non-safety licensing rules; (3-30-01)

c. The approval of a variance must have no adverse effect on the health, safety, and well-being of any child in care at the foster home or facility; (7-1-09)

d. The approval of a variance is documented by the licensing agency and includes a description of the reasons for issuing a variance and assurances that the variance will not compromise any child's health, safety, and well-being; and (7-1-09)

e. The approved variance must be reviewed for continued need and approval annually. (7-1-09)

05. Provisional License. A provisional license may be issued to a foster home, children's residential care facility, children's therapeutic outdoor program, children's camp, or children's agency when a licensing standard cannot be met but can be expected to be corrected within six (6) months, provided this does not affect the health, safety and well-being of any child in care at the home or facility. (3-21-12)

a. A provisional license will be in effect for not more than six (6) months. (4-7-11)

b. Only one (1) provisional license will be issued to a foster home, children's residential care facility, children's agency, children's therapeutic outdoor program, or children's camp in any twelve-month period of time under Section 39-1216, Idaho Code. (3-21-12)

06. Limited License. A limited license for a foster home may be issued for the care of a specific child in a home which may not meet the requirements for a license, provided that: (3-30-01)

a. The child is already in the home and has formed strong emotional ties with the foster parents; and (3-30-01)

b. It can be shown that the child's continued placement in the home would be more conducive to their welfare than would removal to another home. (3-30-01)

07. Denial of Application. In the event that an application is denied, a signed letter will be sent directly to the applicant by registered or certified mail, advising the applicant of the denial and stating the basis for such denial. An applicant whose application has been denied may not reapply until after one (1) year has elapsed from the date on the denial of application. (4-7-11)

08. Failure to Complete Application Process. (7-1-09)

a. Failure of the applicant to complete the application process within six (6) months of the original date of application will result in a denial of the application. (7-1-09)

b. An applicant whose application has been denied for being incomplete may not reapply until after one (1) year has elapsed from the date on the denial of application. (7-1-09)
